[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

...SHINGTON (D. C.) Oct. 19.—When the Senate ratifies the treaty of peace, probably between now and the 15th of November, there may be incorporated in the resolution of ratification seventeen reservations. For the first time the text of these reservations is herewith given.

There may be some slight modification and in the final vote there may be some concessions to secure the acceptance of the reservations by the Senate leaders for the administration. The reservations have been approved by the so-called mild reservationists, including Senators McNary, Kellogg, Lenroot, and three or four others.

With the practically certain defeat this week of the Johnson amendment and the killing of all other individual amendments the way will be paved for the report of the treaty from the committee of the whole and the ratification in open session with reservations. Scores of reservations other than those given below will be offered and eliminated before a final vote can be had, but it is safe to say that no textual amendment is possible and that the rapidity with which the treaty is ratified depends upon the speed with which an agreement between the Democrats and Republicans on these reservations can be reached.

The reservations are as follows:

(1.) Withdrawal: "That the United States understands and so construes Article I, that in case of notice of withdrawal from the League of Nations as provided in said article, The United States shall be the sole judge as to whether all its international obligations and all its obligations under said covenant have been fulfilled."

(2.) Concerning Article X: "The United States assumes no obligations to preserve the territorial integrity or political independence of any other country or to interfere in controver-

JAP JINGOS AFTER UCHIDA.

Charge that Foreign Department Does Not Show Warlike Attitude Toward Us.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

TOKIO, Sunday, Oct. 12.— (Delayed.) Count Uchida's statement, early in September, that Japan is considering the establishment of an international settlement at Kiao-Chow, instead of an exclusive Japanese settlement authorized by treaties with China, promises to be the subject of protest at the forthcoming session of the Diet by the peers affiliated with the opposition party and other radical members of the upper house.

It is declared here that such a movement will be supported by prominent publicists.

The opposition is lead by Baron Mitsunojo Funakoshi, who says an attempt to alter matters pledged by a treaty injures the sanctity of the treaty and the dignity of the state, and demands to know the reason for this concession of the Shantung question when the Japanese delegates in Paris made no promise that an exclusive Japanese settlement would be abandoned.

"If the government is forced to renounce the Japanese settlement at the behest of the other powers," he adds, "it constitutes interference in the international affairs of Japan and ought to and must be opposed by President Wilson, who is a great panese settlement of Kiao-Chow.

The interest and welfare of the nation, the opposition claims, urge the government not to abandon Japanese settlement of Kiao-chow.

Appearances tend to indicate that political forces, partly composed of the opposition party and partly of military circles, are formulating a campaign against Viscount Uchida, basing the movement on a general accusation that the Foreign Department is not sufficiently determined in its dealings with foreign powers, particularly with the United States.

The nature of this movement is such that it may affect the composition of Japan's reply to the important note of the United States concerning Japanese co-operation as regards the trans-Siberian railway. Japan's reply to this note has not yet been forwarded. The impression exists that the government will ratify the arrangement for more effective co-operation between the military commands and the technical advisers in Siberia.

The Jiji Shimpo today says Roland S. Morris, United States Ambassador to Japan, has had frequent interviews with Viscount Uchida and a perfect understanding of the Siberian railroad management problem has been reached.

ASTOR IS DEAD IN LONDON.

Expatriated American's Body to be Cremated; Britain's Richest Man.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Viscount Astor of Hever castle died of heart disease Saturday morning. He had been failing in health for a year.

The body of Viscount Astor is lying in the residence of his son, Waldorf Astor, member of Parliament, in St. James Square.

Through Viscount Astor's wish, his body will be cremated, and it is understood the ashes will be placed in the private chapel of his country home, Cliveden, at Taplow Bucks, now occupied by Waldorf Astor.

(Viscount Astor (William Waldorf Astor,) was born in New York in 1848, the son of John Jacob Astor, the founder of the Astor millions. He became an expatriate in the '90's, renouncing his American citizenship and becoming a British subject. He was made a baron in 1916 and was created First Viscount Astor of Hever in 1917. Viscount Astor has been reckoned one of the richest men in England. At the time of his death he still retained large realty and other financial holdings in the United States, particularly in New York City.)

NO POLITICAL INTEREST.

After being raised to the peerage, Viscount Astor never took any apparent interest in the political phase of his position. It was not recalled that he ever spoke in the Lords or appeared there as a legislator.

For some years he wielded political influence through his ownership of the Pall Mall Gazette, once a powerful afternoon paper, and the Observer, a leading Sunday paper.

Mr. Astor also conducted the Pall Mall Magazine for some years as a sort of magazine de luxe. The expense was heavy, but it was used as a vehicle for the gratification of his own literary tastes, he being a contributor of numerous articles, mostly fiction.

After the beginning of the war, Mr. Astor gave up his London residence and spent most of his time in the country at Hever Castle and his magnificent Clevden estate on the banks of the Thames. A year ago he took a house at Brighton.

Viscount Astor's associates in England had been almost entirely British. He seldom appeared in the Anglo-American Social set.

DUTIES AID STATE.

The British Exchequer will gain an important item through the Astor estate duties. Such duties on estates of British subjects of over £1,000,000 are 20 per cent, wherever the property is situated.

There was a newspaper report recently that Viscount Astor was dividing his American real estate among his children, but according to the British law such gifts must be made three years before death to escape estate duties.

Lord Astor's British income tax during the last period of the war had been slightly more than 50 per cent. According to Gossip, his British and American taxes combined

PHELAN ARRANGES WEST POINT TESTS.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—In order that every California boy who desires to enter the West Point Military Academy and who is otherwise eligible may have an opportunity to do so, Senator Phelan has arranged with the Civil Service Commission to hold a competitive examination throughout the State of California, Saturday, November 15, and the Senator will designate the three boys making the highest averages as his principal candidate, first alternate and second alternate.

Those desiring to compete in this examination should make immediate application to Senator Phelan, in Washington.

KING ALFONSO LEAVES FOR VISIT TO PARIS.

STATE SECRETS DISCLOSE SPANISH RULER FAVORED THE FRENCH DURING WAR.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MADRID, Oct. 19.—King Alfonso left Madrid for Paris last night at 10 o'clock.

The Diario and El Universal say the visit is proof of the excellent relations between France and Spain, and that it will give Alfonso an opportunity of paying homage to the bravery of France.

PARIS, Oct. 19.—The Spanish Ambassador, J. Quinones de Leon, has gone to the frontier to meet King Alfonso.

The King of Spain wanted to come to the aid of France with his army at the outbreak of the war, according to a statement of Ambassador de Leon, printed in Le Journal today. The Ambassador said the King called the French Ambassador to the palace on the first day of the mobilization and said to him:

"You may send to your eastern frontier the Eighteenth Corps that guards the frontier of the Pyrenees. I will answer for our frontier."

Later on, during the dark days of August, the Ambassador declared Alfonso again told the Cabinet:

"I want, astride my horse, to go to the aid of France with all my cavalry."

Senor de Leon asserts the Cabinet made it clear to the King that the Spain of Charles V. had become a constitutional monarchy.

"During the war we were not neutral," Senor de Leon said. "We could not admit this officially, but it is true."

The French newspapers point out that Alfonso intervened personally with Germany in favor of the 125,000 French and Belgian soldiers, about 5000 British and more than 6000 Italian troops; that he obtained the pardon of nineteen persons condemned to death, and secured the repatriation of 70,000 deported civilians and 20,000 ill or mutilated prisoners of war.

It is said that the Eighteenth Corps, which, on King Alfonso's assurance was released from the Pyrenees, captured Thann, in Alsace Lorraine.

Oregon to Observe Roosevelt Sunday.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

PORTLAND, Oct. 19.—Sunday October 26, will be Roosevelt Sunday in Portland and elsewhere, according to elaborate plans announced yesterday in connection with the Roosevelt memorial drive soon to be launched to raise money for a monument in Washington, D. C., to the former President and all-around American. Churches throughout the land, the Y.M.C.A. and other organizations will be asked to observe the day by holding services in honor of Theodore Roosevelt. October 26 has been chosen especially as it is the Sunday nearest Col. Roosevelt's birthday, which falls on Monday, October 27.

IRISH MUST SETTLE ERIN'S FATE.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Oct. 18.—England is determined this time to settle the Irish problem. I make this statement on the authority of an official who probably is as close to Premier Lloyd George as any man in England. England is determined that Ireland shall have home rule and the whole problem is the working out of a plan that will satisfy her.

As to what that plan will be, no man can tell at present. Lloyd George himself does not know. He will not make up his mind until a report of the Cabinet committee now exploring the problems is received, and then he may put it aside in favor of some better plan.

I can say, however, that the desire of the most influential group in British policies is to say to Ireland and Ulster: "We're getting out. Fix it up among yourselves. If Ulster wants a little tinpot show of her own we won't coerce her. It's up to her and Ireland."

The desire is to arrive at a settlement on the lines of a peace conference which means that the majority in definite areas should decide their political fate. This is complicated by English pledges to Ulster and by undeniable fact that Ulster was entirely loyal during the war, while the Sinn Fein intrigued with Germany. England is willing to forget that, however, and grant Ireland the fullest measure of home rule possible, having regard to the question of defense.

CONDITION IS GRAVE.

Wilson's Physicians Noncommittal.

Capital Discusses Procedure to be Followed if Marshall Takes Charge.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19. — President Wilson's condition, while still serious, is not alarming, according to the latest information from the White House.

Treatment for the affection of the prostate gland is said to be progressing with favorable results and it is hoped that the irritation which is impeding recovery will be removed without the necessity of an operation. Dr. Hugh Young, the Johns Hopkins prostatic specialist, is scheduled to examine the President again within the next two or three days, unless the inflammation should disappear entirely. Mr. Wilson is reported to be considerably weakened and those who have seen him were impressed with the marked effect of his illness observable in his drawn features, but this condition is pronounced the natural result of his confinement to bed.

"There is no material change in the President's condition. He slept well during the night.

"GRAYSON,
"RUFFIN,
"STITT."

Dr. Grayson issued the following bulletin from the White House tonight:

"The President had a slight digestive disturbance today. Otherwise his condition is unchanged."

The President's general condition was regarded as satisfactory. Until mid-day Dr. Grayson and the physicians assisting him found in the examination of their patient every evidence that Mr. Wilson was more than holding his own, and the development after noon was not regarded as serious or as any indication that the President's general condition was worse.

It was said, however, that any incidental ailment tended to increase nervousness and to that extent retarded a recovery.

RULE OF SECRECY.

There has been no modification of the rule of secrecy concerning the true character of the President's ailment. Whether it is a "cerebral lesion," as Senator Moses averred, or only nervous exhaustion, this is information, in the view of the White House, to which the public is not entitled. It is asserted, however, that neither Dr. Grayson nor the consulting physicians are responsible for the mystery with which the Executive's illness has been surrounded.

Secrecy is said to have been imposed upon the physicians by a higher authority. Whether this higher authority is the President or Secretary Tumulty is not clear, though it is known that the course being pursued has the sanction of the latter.

That the condition of the President is still exceedingly grave is indicated by a change in the attitude of Dr. Grayson on the question of signing of bills by the Executive.

REVERSES POLICY.

A few days ago the physician said that the President would be able to perform his functions in matters of prime importance such as the signing of legislation. Now, however, Dr. Grayson throws out the hint that bills for the time being will not be signed by Mr. Wilson, but will be allowed to become laws by expiration of the constitutional ten days' limit on Executive action.

The prohibition enforcement bill is now in the hands of the Attorney-General, who is scheduled to return

REDS BREAK UP CHURCH MEETING

Equality League Discussion of Street-Car Issue Ended by I.W.W.'s.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DES MOINES, Oct. 19.—An I.W.W. mingling shouts for the proletariat with the benediction of the pastor marked the close of a stormy meeting of the Equality League, called to discuss the street railway situation at the First Baptist Church here this afternoon.

The man was shouted down and made his disappearance amid cries from the audience of "We don't want any I.W.W.'s in this church."

Earlier in the meeting, D. C. Wymer, deputy internal revenue collector, who had persisted in interrupting the speakers, marched down the aisle. In mounting the platform he was grappled with by one of the officers of the league.

A woman's tremulous appeal for conduct as "ladies and gentlemen in the house of God" in a manner quelled the uproar during the exodus of the audience.

DRIVE TO GET WOMEN TO BREAK STYLE CHAIN.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The most startling developments in the high cost of living crusade came at today's session of the conference called by Atty.-Gen. Palmer. The sacred institution of style in women's dress was brought up, and the Attorney-General and Director Clarkson of the Council of National Defense are to formulate an appeal to women to increase saving and decrease extravagance by reducing the number of style changes, computed now at from six to eight, to not more than two.

Moreover, the women are to be urged to withstand the advice to "buy now" and to await, as far as possible, the general reduction in prices which the conference describes as "inevitable."

Public speakers, under a plan similar to that of the four-minute speakers, who worked in the Liberty Loan, Red Cross and other war-time drives, will go before the housewives in the government's campaign and advocate these things. This suggestion came from Mrs. Edward B. Costigan, general chairman of a special committee of the Consumers' League and the Women Voters' League.

Bridges Blown up to Halt Victorious Advance; Value of Ruble Rises.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The fall of Petrograd and the occupancy of both that city and the fortress of Kronstadt by the Russian anti-Bolshevik forces have been reported officially by the General Staff of the Finnish army to the Viborg representative of the northwest government of Russia. This information reached the State Department tonight.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Gen. Yudenitch's troops have occupied the station at Ligovo, about eight miles from Petrograd, according to a Helsingfors dispatch to Reuters. They have also reached the railway junction at Putilov, a suburb of the capital.

HELSINGSFORS, Oct. 19.—Advices received here today say the occupation of Petrograd is expected to take place this week, before Kronstadt is entered.

A communication from the northwestern army received here today confirms the capture of Krasnaia Gorka and claims that the railway between Petrograd and Moscow has been cut by blowing up a bridge over the Tosna River.

The communication asserts that the Bolsheviki have concentrated 20,000 men at Gdoff, on Lake Peipus, and 10,000 near Petrograd and declare that they will offer strong resistance.

[Tosna River crosses the railway line at Tosna, thirty-three miles southeast of Petrograd. Krasnaia Gorka lies on the Gulf of Finland to the west of Kronstadt. Gdoff is on the eastern shore of Lake Peipus, about seventy miles north of Pskov.]

BATTLE ON FOR OPEN SHOP.

BY ARTHUR M. EVANS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—A few more points of difference between capital and labor over the definition of collective bargaining were whittled out today by the committee of fifteen of the industrial conference. The proposed compromise will be submitted to both groups separately tomorrow morning to determine how they stand on the concessions.

The labor group this afternoon reported that it could not support one amendment in the tentative series formed last night. It embodied the proposal of the employers' group, that an employer has a recognized right "to deal or not to deal with men or groups of men who are not his employees and chosen by and from among them." This is at the bottom of the controversy. Frank Morrison, of the labor group, told the conferees that organized labor had conceded as much as it could in this direction by supporting the second paragraph of the original Russell-Endicott resolution on collective bargaining. So the paragraph stands as originally written — it stipulates that the group bargaining "must not be understood as limiting the right of any wage earner to refrain from joining any organization or to deal directly with his employer if he so chooses."

The first paragraph of the original declaration — the one supported by the public and labor blocks, as it now stands in committee, has been split into four segments, each of which states a specific right of wage earners in reference to organizing and to negotiating and bargaining. Two interpolations have been made. One deals with the right of workers to organize in trade and labor unions "and in shop councils and other lawful industrial associations."

The words in quotation marks form the amendment. Capital is fighting for this in recognition of the industrial representation form of plant government, which has been established in many these forty-five large industrial plants and in scores of lesser concerns within the last few years, especially since the armistice.

Labor is throwing its emphasis on recognition of unions as the agency for bargaining, while capital is demanding that plant councils or what organized labor terms "company unions" be given at least equal recognition. Tonight leaders in the public groups declare that capital and labor will come to an adjustment on this question without much trouble.

Another amendment asserts the right of wage earners to be represented by representatives "chosen by a majority of the workers themselves." This is a substitute for the phrase in the original allowing men to be represented by men "of their own choosing." Capital wants this as a safeguard against outside interference, particularly on the part of "militant minorities" such as launched the steel strike against the counsel of conservative labor, and it is especially argued by capital that it is necessary protection for the smaller manufacturers. The session began at 2 o'clock this afternoon, and at 2:30 the labor delegates had to withdraw to attend a meeting of the Executive Closed Shop Legalization is Declared Sovietizing of Industry.

SHERMAN URGES LIBERTY RIGHT.

Collective Bargaining Means Minority Rule.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—A warning against the legislation of the closed shop as a step in the direction of sovietizing industry and even the government was uttered today in an interview by Senator Sherman of Illinois.

"The labor conference now in session has brought to an issue sharply divergent views," said the Senator. "The open or the closed shop will never repeal the laws of thrift. It is an inalienable right for the individual to endure. He cannot be eliminated in any social plan. The freedom of his voluntary action must be preserved. The right to organize with his fellows in a labor union is as sacred as the right to remain out of a union, but not more so. One right presupposes the other.

"If an employer prefers an open shop, every law of the State or government must protect him in that right. If another chooses the closed shop, he is to be equally protected. This principle is not subject to arbitration. If it be made a matter of government act or of arbitration an intolerant minority will intimidate Congress and the Executive until the closed shop will be the law of government as well as private life.

RESTRICTS PRODUCTION.

"It is to be regretted that the tendency of all closed shops is to restrict production. Piece work is not fixed at the limit of the capable. It is fixed at the average which forbids the skilful from taking the wages of his ability. He is compelled to submit to an economic slipping to reduce him to the level where the mediocre may meet him.

"Instead of providing an incentive for the unskilful to reach a higher level of production, the skilful is dragged from his level down to the lower where diminished production results.

"Labor at last in the circle of prices saws off the limb on which it is sitting. Everything the wages of labor buys reaches a high-price level."

Declaring that the world's imperative need is more production the Senator continued:

BLAMES SOCIAL STATE.

"Before the war a basic change in our country in population had occurred. Until this is remedied we cannot hope for permanently lower food-price levels. For some years a steady drift of people from rural areas to urban life has been observed. Each succeeding census has pointed unerringly to this condition. The war only hastened us to a more lively appreciation of the impending situation.

"More persons must devote themselves to the soil if food supplies increase. It calls for hard work. The reward is as certain to the industrious and capable as in any other occupation. The impression in some quarters that after a person has failed in everything else a farmer can be made of him needs correction.

"There is more attention now being given to shortening hours, creating new holidays, and lessening the output than in contributing to the increase. Production cannot be increased and prices lowered in this way."

VIEWPOINT INELASTIC.

The prevailing sentiment among the labor and capital groups this evening on adjournment is that the situation is about where it was yesterday, the points of difference now remaining being the rock bottom issue of the relation of the unions to collective bargaining. Both sides are friendly, that was the day's spirit, but on the points still undecided as yet there appears little elasticity.

Standards and policies for the protection of women workers in industry, as advocated by the Women's Bureau of the Department of Labor, are in the hands of a subcommittee for consideration. As submitted by Ida M. Tarbell, of the public group, they embody:

Hours: No woman shall be employed or permitted to work more than eight hours in any day; half holidays on Saturday; one day of rest in every seven; no night work between 10 p.m. and 6 a.m.

Wages: Shall be established on basis of occupation and not on sex. The minimum wage rate should cover the cost of living for dependents, and not merely for the individual.

Prohibited occupations: Women must not be employed in occupations involving the use of poisons which are proved to be more injurious to women than to men, such as certain processes in the lead industry.

Home work: No work should be given out to be done in rooms used for living or sleeping purposes, or in rooms directly connected with living or sleeping rooms in any dwelling or tenement.

Representation: Genuine cooperation essential to production can be had only if provision is made for the workers as a group, acting through their chosen representatives, to share in the control of the conditions of their employment.

In proportion to their numbers, women should have full representation in such organization necessary.

The housing question too, is one of importance before the conference. Among the suggestions is one from Paul L. Feish, a Cleveland employer in the public group that Congress be urged to establish a Federal system for the creation of home loan banks and for the release of capital for home building. It proposes that such a system shall make effective use so far as possible of all existing agencies, such as savings and loan companies, building and loan associations and land and title companies.

Lack of satisfactory housing facilities has long been recognized as one standing cause of industrial unrest; it has been aggravated by the present great shortage due to the suspension of building activities during the war, and the conference will discuss at length the feasibility of removing one important obstacle in the way of home building by providing financial credit.

FIND AMERICAN MEN ARE NOBLE

Swedish Representatives are Lavish with Praise.

Astonished at Respect Shown for Womanhood Here.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—The men of America are good to their wives. They treat their women beter than do the husbands in any other country. This United States is a country where the husbands let the wives run the house.

Such is the view of three members of a commission appointed by the Swedish government to represent Sweden at the International Labor Conference scheduled to begin in Washington, October 27.

Herman Lundquist, the outstanding figure of the group, is speaker of the Andrakammaren, or House of Commons, of Sweden. He is president of the Swedish General Federation of Labor, an organization of 340,000 members, including all union labor except the railroad brotherhoods of that country. He is now in his twentieth year as head of the federation; doesn't talk much, but when he speaks there's a smack of salt to it.

FUTURE FOR WOMEN.

"There is a future for women in America," said Herr Lundquist. "We notice it. Women get consideration here. It is different from European countries. Only this year, for the first time, will women have the ballot in Sweden, with freedom to nominate and elect their own representatives to sit in the national Parliament. And Sweden is far ahead of most other European countries in this respect. Your consideration for women is seen in your factory laws. It shows in the attention accorded women on street-cars and in railroad trains."

Kerstin Hesselgren was asked about it. She is chief factory inspector in the labor department of the Swedish government. A gaunt, straightforward seriousness there is in the manners of Kerstin Hesselgren. She might have stepped right out of an Ibsen play.

"I agree with Herr Lundquist," she said. "In America women get more consideration than in any of the European countries."

"Consideration—what do you mean?" was asked. "How does this consideration show itself?"

MORE CHIVALRY.

"Safety—a woman feels safer in America," was the reply. "Of course, I have been here only a few weeks. I may be mistaken. I have a feeling, though, that a woman is free from approaches and insults of men here, to a degree that does not obtain in other countries. It is something in the air here. I cannot precisely analyze it. I can only say there seems to be a superior readiness on the part of men to protect women."

"This is interesting to us in Chicago because we have heard we are short on manners," was a remark wedged in by an American man.

"Oh, yes, in the surface politeness, Americans may be lacking as compared with old world diplomats," came the reply of Kerstin Hesselgren. "What I refer to is something deeper than manners or outward politeness. It is so decisively evident that women count for more in America than in other countries."

An Old Fault Finder.

An irritable and fault-finding disposition is often caused by indigestion. A man with good digestion and bowels that act regularly is usually good-natured. When troubled with indigestion or constipation take Chamberlain's Tablets. They strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. They also cause a gentle movement of the bowels.—[Advertisement.

WILSON STILL GRAVELY ILL.

it to the White House shortly with a recommendation that the President sign it. Unless it should be signed or vetoed by 4 p.m. October 28 it will become law.

Dr. Grayson's hint of the inability of the President to sign legislation has brought to the fore again the question of the possible necessity, eventually, of calling upon Vice-President Marshall to assume the Executive's office until Mr. Wilson is again capable of discharging his duties. There is on all sides, however, a reluctance to take any step in this direction without the express direction of the President.

PROCEDURE IN DOUBT.

The whole question of the procedure of installing the Vice-President and of his tenure when once acting as the Executive is involved in such doubt that officials upon whom responsibility devolves are loath to approach it. The Constitution is not clear on these points, although Hamilton's interpretation was that the Vice-President should discharge the Executive duties as does a lieutenant-governor when the executive is absent or incapacitated. Congress never has attempted to elucidate the question and many constitutional authorities doubt that it is within the province of Congress to make provision for the contingency. In his monograph on the inability of the President, Henry E. Davis concludes that the "Vice-President is the one to decide when the inability has arisen."

Prof. Dwight in Garfield's time contended that the Vice-President, once having assumed the Executive office, would serve until a President has been elected and inaugurated. Mr. Davis disputes this view and asserts that the Vice-President serves only until the disability of the President is removed.

WOULD CUT OLEO TAX TO LOWER HIGH COSTS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—As a means of reducing the high cost of living, Representative Sabath of Illinois has introduced a bill in the House reducing the present tax of 10c a pound on oleomargarine to one-half of one cent a pound. His measure also changes the names of all butter substitutes to butterine, which shall be stamped upon it and may be sold either colored or not.

Mr. Sabath said he believed that the bill could be passed, believing that interests which formerly opposed such a measure would support it.

"The amount of tallow used in butterine should secure the support of western members," said Mr. Sabath, "while the use of peanuts and, to some extent, cottonseed oil should appeal to the southern members.

"Another reason for the introduction of the bill is that butter this week has reached the highest price since the Civil War."

The bill provides a tax of $500 per annum on manufactures of butterines, $25 on wholesale dealers and $3 upon retail dealers. The tax of one-half cent per pound is to be paid by the manufacturers.

CATHOLIC AMERICANS GET PAPAL MESSAGE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—The Most Rev. John Bonzano, apostolic delegate to the United States, who has just returned from Rome, announced last night that Pope Benedict had sent through him the following message to the Roman Catholic people of America:

"Many are looking to the United States as the center of commercial, industrial, economic and material interests. We consider America instead as a promising field for the development of religious, moral and charitable principles. Considering the importance of the United States, the realization of our hopes and desires would bring to the entire world an immense benefit."

GIRL'S BRAVERY FOILS ROBBERS.

Modestly Refuses to Become a Daring Heroine.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—While the police of Roselle, N. J., Elizabeth, Morristown and this city were seeking the seven bandits who held up the First National Bank in Roselle, Miss Margaret Carpenter, the 19-year-old heroine of the robbery, was back at her desk at the bank yesterday. She is given the credit for having frustrated the robbery, which might have resulted in the loss of $400,000 in cash and securities.

The bank officials are still unwilling to make public the exact amount of their loss, but it is not believed to be more than $2500. Miss Carpenter, staring into the muzzle of a revolver, her hands held high above her head, managed to press with her foot a button that sounded a signal in police headquarters across the street from the bank.

John H. Gallatin, county detective, and his assistants are working on the case. At police headquarters in Roselle it was admitted that there were no new clews in the chase for the bandits. Officials there said they had not heard of a report that men answering the description of the robbers had boarded a train for New York at Morristown, although they admitted that they believed the men had come here.

ADMITS HER FRIGHT.

Miss Carpenter graduated from the Roselle High School in 1917. Shortly afterwards she took a position at the bank and has been employed there ever since. She admitted today that she had been considerably frightened yesterday, but said she was feeling all right now.

"The robbers told us to hold up our hands, and we did," said Miss Carpenter. "But I managed to work my way over to the booth where the police signal is and put my foot on the button. I did no more than would be expected of any employee of the bank. Of course, I was scared. The men came in so quickly that they took us by surprise."

Miss Carpenter was unable to give a detailed description of any of the men, but she said that one of them was tall and slim and wore a blue suit and black derby hat.

"I was standing there facing a revolver with my hands above my head," said the girl. "I began to edge away back toward the wall where the push button lies concealed.

DISPLAYED COURAGE.

"The man covering me with the revolver evidently thought I was preparing to run. 'Keep your hands up,' he ordered. I held them a little higher and moved back a step. Another step backward and I felt my foot on the push button. For a moment I wondered whether it would really ring. I waited what seemed an awfully long while. Then I heard a shot outside the bank.

"The lookouts—there were two of them—and a third man at the wheel of the waiting automobile evidently recognized Police Sergeant Keenan, notwithstanding the fact that he was in plain clothes, and opened fire.

"I heard two more shots and the four men in the bank dashed out into the street, the two covering Mr. Benyon, the assistant cashier, taking with them the cash on his desk.

"After that I do not know just what occurred. It seems as though there were many shots fired. I was glad to get my hands down. I had grown tired holding them up."

Maj. Waldorf Astor, who succeeds to the Viscountcy, is one of the youngest among those prominent in the Conservative party's official group.

Mr. Astor's death was entirely unexpected, although he had been in declining health for months. He walked about outdoors on Friday as usual. Death came while Mr. Astor was in bed Saturday morning. Funeral arrangements have not been announced.

Few men of great wealth in England have been so little known to the public as William Waldorf Astor. It is said he left America to escape the limelight which newspapers threw upon multimillionaires.

During the first years of his residence here, he established a position in the exclusive social set and entertained that circle in accordance with the most conservative British traditions. But he never attempted to become a leader in sport or politics.

ANITA KING'S HUBBY MAY LOSE ARMY JOB.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Col. J. W. McKnight, husband of Anita King moving picture star, has applied to the War Department for retention as an emergency officer until June 30, 1920, but it is almost certain that his application was received too late to be favorably acted upon. He called at the War Department in company with Congressman Osborne, who endorsed his application for extended emergency appointment in the judge advocate's office.

Unless the appointment is extended, Col. McKnight will be mustered out in the next few days at Camp Dodge, Des Moines, Ia. Col. McKnight is now in Chicago.

TRAP RED ARMY AT LAKE PEIPUS.

Kronstadt and of the imminent fall of Petrograd has caused great commercial activity here, and there has been a sudden rise in the value of the ruble. Contracts for deliveries of food and other necessities have been hurriedly concluded.

"M. Marguiles, Minister of Commerce for the Northwest Russian government, has arranged for 11,000,000 kilograms of rice to be rushed to Petrograd as soon as the treaty is ratified."

The Red troops have retired from Krasnoye Selo and Gatchina, shortly afterwards reoccupying both towns, and the soviet army started a counter-offensive, which promises success, says a wireless dispatch received here tonight from Moscow.

The dispatch adds that the land batteries at Kronstadt repelled attacks by a British fleet.

UNCONFIRMED IN PARIS.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, Oct. 19.—Sergius Sazonoff, representing Admiral Kolchak and Gen. Denikine in Paris, informed the Associated Press this evening that he had received no advices of the capture of Petrograd. He considered, however, that it was likely.

No information regarding the fall of Petrograd has been received by either the Peace Conference or the American delegation.

POLES AID LETTS.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

WARSAW, Oct. 19.—As a result of the commencement of hostilities by the German-Russian forces against Lithuania, M. Skrynski, Polish Undersecretary of State, has informed the ambassadors of the Baltic states that they could with perfect security concentrate against the Germans and Russians, declaring that Poland would never aid enterprises of Prussian militarism.

BLOCKADE CRITICISED.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, Oct. 19.—The American peace delegation is involved in criticisms of the blockade note directed against soviet Russia and which was transmitted to neutrals and to Germany, the latter country being asked to co-operate in making the blockade effective.

In certain quarters here it was stated that the American delegation was not aware of the note or of its contents and also was ignorant of the fact that it was sent to Germany.

The note was passed on by the Peace Conference and transmitted to Germany following the original agreement made on August 13. The only reason why the note was not sent at that time was because the American delegation was not satisfied with the wording of it. An agreement was reached on the phraseology of the note on September 30 and the August agreement regarding Germany was carried out.

ALBERT GREETS INDIAN CHIEFS.

Navajos Welcome Belgium's Ruler with War Dance.

Survivor of Fort Defiance Battle Gets Medal.

Queen has Difficulty in Obtaining Kodak Studies.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ALBUQUERQUE, Oct. 19.—The pale faced chief of the Belgians greeted a gray-haired, swarthy chief of the Navajos at Gallup today. They shook hands gravely and each showed his respect for the other. The aged Indian bore himself with a dignity equal to that of the King. There was no condescension in Albert's manner and no humility in that of the red-skin.

The sun had not yet banished the chill of dawn when the royal special stopped in the New Mexican village of Gallup, but there was a crowd of several hundred at the station. Many of them had ridden a score of miles to greet the Belgians. As the train stopped, the band of St. Michael's Indian school swung into the strains of the Belgian national anthem and then that of the United States.

DO WAR DANCE.

A little band of braves, mounted on mustangs, sat waiting and watching, their faces expressionless, as the King, Queen and Prince descended from their car. After one war dance, His Majesty expressed a desire to meet some of the Indians and several of them were presented to him and his consort.

Then Chief Silagotio, tribal judge, better known as Pete Price, stepped forward with the gift of the tribe, a handsome Navajo blanket, which he gravely handed to Albert, who in turn pinned upon the old warriors' breast silver medals of his house.

LAST TO SURRENDER.

The grizzled Indian was the last to surrender to the regulars at Ft. Defiance in the days when Kit Carson was a guide and he was defiant to the end. But once his parole was given, he kept it.

There was no lack of color in the scene which greeted the Belgians. Braves in shirts of the gaudiest hues and squaws wrapped in blankets of many colors were grouped in an open space near the station, some of the women carrying papooses. The daughter of the chief was mounted on a mustang.

When the braves had filed past Queen Elizabeth, who stood beside her husband in striking contrast to the place given their squaws by the Indians, she asked to be presented to the Indian women. Then she requested them to pose before her camera and they complied, although somewhat sullenly, for they view picture-taking devices with superstitious awe. They kept their eyes on the ground while they posed.

The Belgian monarchs worshipped today for the third time in the United States at he quaint Indian church which has stood for three centuries on what is now the Pueblo Indian reservation at Isleta, thirteen miles from Albuquerque. A venerable Spanish priest celebrated the mass with the King, Queen and Prince Leopold in the sanctuary with Gov. Larrazolo and his wife.

The priest, who spoke French fluently, welcomed the Belgians to the ancient edifice, which stands today as it did when it was built, although it was many times captured by the Indians and then retaken by the Spaniards. One of the priests was an Indian, and the choir was composed of Indians.

PICTURESQUE RODEO.

The King rode on th engine from Thoreau, N. M., to Laguna, N. M., a distance of fifty miles.

At the Grand Canyon Brakeman L. H. Cockrum had his leg badly smashed while coupling cars. He was visited by both the King and Queen in the baggage car. The King decorated Cockrum with the Order of Leopold II.

The special train arrived here at 2:45 this afternoon and was met by a reception committee, headed by Gov. Larrazolo. Following introductions, the Governor presented His Majesty with a pouch made of deerskin in which was placed a portfolio of thirty photographs of New Mexico scenery and scenes. The pouch is of primitive Indian technique and was made by Indian workmen.

The royal party was taken to and from Isleta in automobiles. The special train left here at 6:45 p.m. for the East.

MEN of wealth need no argument to convince them of the value of Trust Service. They know from experience. The man with the modest estate—say $10,000 or so—is the man who most needs to study the problem of its final distribution and management. He too needs the financial counsel of our Trust Department while he is alive, just as his heirs need its experienced, friendly, but impartial service when he is gone.

Don't think, because we handle large estates, that we are indifferent to the man of lesser means. We give the same careful attention to small estates as to large ones.

WAR CONTRACTS STILL PENDING OVER BILLION.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The War Department still has on its hands 5724 emergency contracts awaiting liquidation, according to a report issued yesterday. The sum involved aggregates more than $1,600,000,000, but the official schedule estimates that these contracts can be liquidated at a cost of $300,000,000.

Since the armistice 22,611 contracts have been settled, with a total valuation of $2,000,000,000, for which contractors were paid $209,000,000 in the final settlement.

LOS ANGELES' SUGAR PROTEST GETS ACTION.

SUGAR EQUALIZATION BOARD WIRES SAN FRANCISCO TO RELIEVE SHORTAGE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association of Los Angeles protest against the sugar shortage in Los Angeles has been taken up with the Sugar Equalization Board in New York, in the hope of remedying the situation. Telegrams have been sent to the zone supply officer at San Francisco, to see if some additional supply cannot be found. The sugar board wired Congressman Osborne that it had supposed that the best sugar supply in Southern California would be equal to the need. An investigation is being made.

In the sugar hearing yesterday no progress was made by the subcommittee of the Senate Agricultural Committee. Senator McNary called a meeting for Monday, to attempt some basis of compromise. The Sugar Equalization Board will not undertake the purchase and distribution of what is left of the 1920 crop without the old license system, and the southern growers are adamant against a return to that wartime basis. With the Hawaiian crop said to have been purchased by the Japanese and with one-quarter of the Cuban crop purchased for European consumption, the certainty of a sugar shortage over the country for several months increases.

FALL HANDICAP RAMBLES ALONG.

Good Scores by Golfers for Opening Round.

W. B. Walton Annexes Class A Sweepstakes.

First-round golf matches in the fall handicap tournament of the Los Angeles Country Club went off with clock-like precision last week, and half of the entries passed into oblivion as the also rans.

Excellent weather prevailed during the week, and a similar variety of golf was exhibited. Many of the matches were close, running into extra holes. Several upsets of dope were recorded, most of which were due to over-their-head playing by high handicap men.

In the weekly sweepstakes at the L.A.C.C. Winsor B. Walton won the Class A event, 1 down. With a handicap of 1, he was credited with an even score. H. E. Crawford won the Class B affair, 9 down, handicap 7, making him 2 down.

THE SCORES.

P. T. Manwaring defeated R. A. Fowler, default; Dr. H. W. Howard defeated Albert Brown, 4 and 3; J. E. Lambie defeated Arthur Letts, 5 and 4; F. H. Crawford defeated E. C. Haskell, 1 up at the 19th; Dr. W. Brem defeated S. P. Hunt, 1 up; Dr. J. S. Hunt defeated Louis Cass by default; E. K. Brown defeated Arthur Letts, Jr., 1 up; H. B. Bennett defeated Rev. Lloyd Darsie, 2 up; H E. Crawford defeated P. H. Palmer, 7 and 6; S. B. Dunlap defeated J. M. Arneill, 1 up; L. W. Denison defeated Philip Forve, 3 and 2; L. E. Sale defeated E. M. Baker, 1 up; E. M. Baker, Jr., defeated George Nordenholt, 4 and 3; A. J. Waters defeated A. S. Morlan, 5 and 3; S. F. MacFarlane defeated H. W. Keller by default; George H. Snyder defeated M. R. Gray, 1 up; A. B. MacBeth defeated Dr. T. R. McNab, 7 and 6; H. J. Schoder defeated W. R. Leeds, 1 up; E. I. Dyer defeated Judge William Frederickson, 7 and 6; H. M. Snyder defeated J. H. Bohon, 1 up on the 19th; W. Bickaler defeated C. W. Pendleton, 3 and 2; Dr. V. Cocke defeated G. D. Montgomery, 7 and 6; J. W. Burns defeated J. T. Gilmer, 11 and 9; H. H. Armstrong defeated E. T. Sherer, 2 and 1; Rev. H. W. Cornett defeated H. P. Taylor by default; Philip Wiseman defeated Dr. W. Hughes, 1 up at the 19th; F. B. Hudson defeated F. A. Keith, 4 and 3; J. L. Knorpp defeated Edward B. Tufts, 1 up at the 20th; R. L. Burns defeated W. L. Morrow, 4 and 3; H. Chapman defeated J. H. Moulton, 1 up at the 19th; S. F. Parsons defeated F. H. Stearman, 1 up.

The second round of the tournament will start today, and scores must be in before Sunday night.

THORNE MURPHY OUT FOR WEEKS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW HAVEN (Ct.) Oct. 19.—Thorne Murphy, Yale quarter-back, will be out of the game for several weeks. An X-ray examination today of his left leg showed that the bone was splintered above the ankle in yesterday's game with Boston College.

VENICE RACQUET STARS VICTORIOUS.

The Venice tennis team defeated the Sunset squad of Los Angeles six matches to three yesterday. It was the fourth week's play in the Los Angeles County Tennis League. The results follow:

Singles—Bishop defeated A. Fisher, 6-2, 6-4; Osborne defeated Lester, 6-1, 8-6; Lawrence defeated A. Fisher, 6-2, 6-4; Kinney defeated B. Fisher, 6-4, 6-2; McFadon defeated Tatum, 6-2, 6-1; Kelsey defeated Small, 6-4, 2-6, 7-5.

Doubles—Bishop and Kinney defeated Kelsey and A. Fisher, 7-5, 6-3; Osborne and Lawrence defeated D. Bisher and J. Fisher, 6-4, 6-4; Lester and Tatum defeated McFadon and Small, 7-5, 3-6, 7-5.

YUCAIPA ABOUNDS IN HUNTING POSSIBILITIES.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

YUCAIPA, Oct. 19.—The duck hunter is not the only one to enjoy good sport this year for the dove, quail and gray squirrel shooting has never been better than it has been this fall. The low hills around Yucaipa and towards Beaumont and Banning have been the favorite spots for hunters from Redlands and Riverside and it is a poor shot who cannot go out and get enough game for one meal at least. The gray squirrels are as fat as butter balls this year and are so numerous that it is a pleasure to hunt for them. The doves are wilw now but can be found if one knows where to look for them.

DUCK SHOOTING O.K. IN SAN JOAQUIN.

Excellent duck and geese shooting is to be had in the San Joaquin Valley, according to Frank Nelson of the Burlington Garage. Detective L. G. Curtis, Mike Seidel and H. V. Wilkins who returned yesterday from a four-day shoot. Limit bags of ducks were secured on three days. Millions of geese are on Lake Buena Vista. As yet no canvas backs or mallards have arrived, the shooting consisting of sprigs, teal and widgeons.

HOWARD'S WATER STARS TO SWIM.

The Central Intermediate High School swimmers, coached by Bobby Howard, will meet the L.A.A.C. juniors Tuesday afternoon at 5 p.m. in the club pool.

FOOTBALL DOPE ON CONFERENCE.

Occidental Prospects None too Rosy this Year.

BY PAUL LOWRY.

Intercollegiate football followers will spend the ensuing week clawing over the succulent dope. The big event is to be the Saturday game between the University of Southern California and Pomona College, at Bovard Field.

Those in close touch with the situation declare that upon the issue of Saturday's conflict rests the winning of the Southern California championship. With all due respect to the fighting Tigers of Occidental and the eleven of Coach Ray Call at Throop, neither team is believed to have better than a fighting chance for the title.

ELIMINATED.

Whittier and Redlands, the other two southern colleges boasting football teams, have both been eliminated from the running. The former was beaten by Occidental, 13 to 0. The Bulldogs were kicked about by Pomona, last Saturday, on their own doormat, to the tune of 37 to 6.

The slimness of Throop's chances can be gleaned by perusing comparative scores. Redlands played the Kesl Klub team of Long Beach an 0-0 tie two weeks ago. Throop was beaten by the Long Beach team, 19 to 0.

Occidental prospects are not rosy. The Orange and Black team showed a lack of coherence in its game with Whittier, and fumbled miserably. Referee Kienholtz said after the contest that he had never seen so much fumbling. Up north the Tigers came out on the short end of a long score. Even at that, the Orange and Black team is still playing football, and as long as that is the case, they must be figured, even though their chances dope out decidedly slim.

POMONA'S EDGE.

Coming now to next Saturday's fracas, it is apparent that Pomona has a slight edge. The Sagehens have played one game to date, but that one game is more than Henderson's pupils have been under fire. U.S.C. has been restricted to scrimmages with the Trojan freshman team, one of the strongest in the history of the institution, by the way. None of the high school teams, with the exception of Poly, would tackle the Wesleyans, even in a practice combat. Voyle Brennan's hopefuls held U.S.C. to two touchdowns, when the Trojans had been on the football field for a bare week. That is the extent of the U.S.C. clits.

Pomona didn't show a world-beating team last Saturday in the game with the Baptists at Redlands. The Sagehens early in the game saw that all they had to do was to play safe and take advantage of Redlands's mistakes, which were sure to come. All of Pomona's 25 points in the first half came after a Redlands's mistake had relinquished the oval to Pomona within scoring distance.

The Sagehens displayed no punch whatever in the first two quarters, except the possibilities that the right foot of Big Ed Covington holds. He booted two field goals from placement from the neighborhood of the 35-yard line. But the Blue and White backs couldn't gain through the Redlands line, try as they might. Their line outcharged the Baptist line, but for some reason or other it failed to open holes.

POSSIBILITIES.

Possibly Coach Nixon showed himself somewhat of a fox in this respect. There are men on that Pomona line whose capabilities are well known, and just why they couldn't open holes when outcharging their opponents is a mystery perhaps best explained by them. They may explain it next Saturday against U.S.C.

That the Blue and White back field is a potential machine was demonstrated for a few minutes in the third quarter. Redlands blocked a punt, and converted it into a touchdown. That aroused the Sagehens and they put over two touchdowns in the twinkling of an eye. Coach Nixon immediately sent in the second team, and there was no further scoring.

Pomona showed absolutely nothing in the Redlands game that U.S.C. or Oxy men present could use to advantage, save, perhaps, the fact that Nixon likes to buck his men on the shore side of the line. All formations used were of the time-honored style. A scant half dozen forward passes were tried, and only two runs from a fake punt formation varied the monotony.

STYLE WON'T WIN.

Pomona's style won't win the U.S.C. game. The Trojan line is powerful, and the backs won't handle punts like the Redlands men did. Capt. Randall of Redlands wasn't able to run because of a bad charley horse, and lacking a capable sub, Coach Cunningham left him in the game. Randall let the Pomona punts drop to the ground and roll.

What either Pomona or U.S.C. can do with the lateral attack is altogether a mystery. With the lines evenly divided as to strength a decision one way or the other will rest with the team that can develop the best aerial barrage.

Covington, McClain, Chambers and Stover of Pomona are a likely-looking back field. Just what the composition of the Trojan backs will be has not been decided on. Leadingham, Dean and McMillan are almost certain to start. Mel Stewart may be the other man if he is well enough to play. He had symptoms of the "flu" at last reports. Henderson is limited by one of the smallest squads that has turned out at U.S.C. in recent years, and several of these men have been incapacitated by injuries that may keep them on the shelf for the U.S.C. game.

Preparations have been made by Graduate Henry Bruce of U.S.C. to make next Saturday's event a gala occasion. Mayor Meredith P. Snyder has been asked to shake hands with the two captains and make the initial kick-off. U.S.C. will have a rooters' stand of 1500, and Pomona is expected to send 500 or so. It all depends on accommodations offered by the railroads just how many Pomona students will attend. The electric line running between Pomona and Claremont refused to put on a special for the game at Redlands, which cut down the attendance.

BUCKING CONTEST WITH MOTOR CARS.

Rough-riding in all its various aspects is not confined to cowboys and wild horses. The Overland mystery car will be turned loose on its own special plantation this afternoon and will endeavor to outbounce and outbuck anything that ever walked on four legs.

The demonstration will take place at Eleventh and Hope streets and thrills are promised when the machine starts to hop around the "bad road" especially built for this purpose.

SEEK TO SAVE LIVES OF FRENCH MUTINEERS.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, Oct. 19.—In the Chamber of Deputies today M. Painleve urged clemency for those who mutinied in the spring of 1917 after the failure of the French offensive. It was brought out that 150 death sentences had been imposed and that twenty-five of the mutineers had been executed.

GRIFFITH PARK GOLF.

Thirty-two enthusiastic golfers fought it out for the Chaplin trophy at the Griffith Park municipal links yesterday afternoon. Sherman Danby, with 83-18-65, and Bert S. Mills, 75-10-65, tied for a leg on the big trophy. The match between these two will be played off some time this week.

Only two players shot under the 80 mark—B. S. Mills with 75 and W. M. White with 79.

Following is the summary:

CLINE TROPHY TIE.

FALL HANDICAP.

The second round of match play knocked out five of the low handicap men, Dad Aborn, Frank Kohler, Earl Neitzel, George Lance, Updegraff, Bill White, Johnnie Hodge and Tom Barret being defeated.

On the other hand, Parry, Delect, Conk, Benton, Platt and A. G. Alen went through true to form, Parry (8) in his match with J. V. Tonkin (18) shooting a snappy 71 to get his victory.

Following are the results:

WINNING 32 OF 64.

B. J. Botham (16) defeated J. B. Stuyts (18) 9 up.
A. G. Alen (6) defeated Earl Neitzel (8) 1 up.

DIVING ON DECK AT ATHLETIC CLUB.

With the Pacific Coast high-diving championships out of the way the next big event on the programme is the diving contest scheduled for November 13 at the L.A.A.C.

Billy Williams, international ten-foot spring-board diving champion, will compete against Clyde Swendsen, who recently defeated him at Venice for the right to represent the south at Alameda yesterday. Haig Priestе and Eugene Mahoney are also expected to enter the event.

The junior national spring-board diving championship will be held at Portland, November 22. According to Vance Vieth, his star L.A.A.C. diver, Eugene Field, who is now in Portland, will remain over for this championship.

NO-LIMIT FIGHTS PROMISED SOON.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) Oct. 19.—Confirmation was obtained today of a report that Sarkis Jose Dominguez, a Syrian customs broker, residing in Naco, Ariz., had been granted a concession by Gov. Adolfo de la Huerta of Sonora to stage no-limit fights in Naco, Sonora, opposite the Arizona town.

Similar permission has been refused previously by Mexican governors of border States, it has been reported.

ILLINOIS TOPS THE LIST.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—With victories over Purdue and Iowa to its credit, Illinois tonight leads the race for the western conference football championship with Chicago, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Michigan and Ohio State scrambling to make the fight for the title, one of the closest in "big ten" football history.

Defeat for Northwestern, regarded as the "dark horse" in the race, and Indiana and Iowa in Saturday's struggles eliminated these teams from further championship consideration. Purdue also is out of the race as a result of its losses to Illinois and Chicago.

NARROWED DOWN.

The championship drive will be further narrowed next Saturday when Michigan and Ohio State, playing their first conference games of the season, meet at Ann Arbor. In the other championship elimination games, Illinois will take on Wisconsin, Minnesota will face Iowa and Chicago and Northwestern will hook up.

Perhaps the biggest surprise of the Saturday struggles was the defeat of Northwestern and the close score of the Illinois-Iowa contest. Illinois resurrected the on-side kick, a play which has been discarded by gridiron coaches, to wrest victory from Iowa, in one of the hardest and cleanest fought games of the season. Although Illinois played a sparkling contest, experts agree that the team is not a finished machine and that its line must be strengthened before meeting other elevens of the conference.

Poor generalship, ragged team play, and frequent fumbling was attributed to the defeat of Northwestern. Wisconsin gave a perfect exhibition of team play and will prove a formidable foe for Illinois next Saturday.

CHICAGO IN IT.

Chicago established itself in the race by a sixteen to nothing triumph over Purdue, forward passes playing an important part in the victory. The heavy Minnesota eleven relied chiefly on straight football to down Indiana, 20 to 6, and Michigan used forward passes to good advantage in defeating the Michigan Aggie 28 to 0 in a game calculated to put the Wolverines on edge for the all-important contest with Ohio State next Saturday.

Ohio State ran up a lopsided score against Kentucky State, winning 49 to 0. Outside the conference Notre Dame bowled over Nebraska 14 to 9. The Cornhuskers relied on straight football, while Notre Dame used forward passes to a great extent.

"CAN'T BE DONE," SAYS HERD.

"Aristocracy" Herd,' freshman football coach at the University of Southern California, is boiling and moiling.

His violent emotions are due to a statement of Sid Foster, professor of football instruction at Manual Arts High School. The latter declared after the game with the Occidental Pea-Greens last Friday, which the Artisans won, 54 to 0, that, had his eleven displayed the same form in the contest with the U.S.C. "frosh," it would have beaten U.S.C. by four touchdowns. The Trojans defeated Manual, 14 to 10, the week previous to the Oxy game.

Fervidly, Herd announces that it can't be "did." He points to the fact that the freshmen had been training for two weeks when they met Manual. The latter team had been at it for five weeks.

Herd goes on to say that when Manual gets a name by winning the city or State title he will be glad to accommodate Foster's eleven at any time.

FLYERS TAKE IT EASY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—Flyers trailing B. W. Maynard, first to finish the army's trans-continental airplane race, rested today at the control stations they reached before sundown Saturday and made preparations for continuing the cross-country contest at sunrise tomorrow. Barring accident, second honors will go to Capt. J. O. Donaldson, who reached Binghamton, N. Y., only 142 miles from Mineola, N. Y., Saturday evening.

Capt. Donaldson's closest competitor is Lieut. Earl H. Manselman, who spent Sunday at Rock Island, Ill., 985 miles from Mineola. Capt. Lowell H. Smith and Lieut. H. E. Queens, flying westward, were at Cheyenne, Wyo., 1085 miles from San Francisco. Close behind them was Lieut. E. C. Kiel, who spent the week-end at Sidney, Neb., 1093 miles from the western terminus.

The rule providing that flyers who had not completed the first lap by sundown Saturday would be ineligible to make the return trip, eliminated all but twenty-nine contestants. This number had completed the first lap, but only eleven had started the return flight. Of the eleven Lieut. Maynard finished Saturday and Maj. Harry Smith was out of the race following the wreck of his plane at Fernley, Nev.

BILLIARD CHAMPS AT IT AGAIN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—For the first time since 1913 a professional 18.2 balkline billiard championship tournament will be staged here at the Hotel Astor tomorrow. Seven of the greatest players in America will meet each other during the week in a round-robin schedule of twenty-one games of 400 points each to decide the right to the title of national champion.

The games scheduled for tomorrow afternoon will bring together Ora Morningstar, the Indian player, who is entered from San Diego, Cal., and Jake Schaefer, son of the late Chicago expert, whose home is in San Francisco. Later in the day George F. Slosson, the New York veteran, entered from Boston, and George B. Sutton of Chicago will renew their efforts in championship play. Tomorrow night the title holder for the last seven years, William Hoppe of New York, will meet Welker Cochran, the young Detroit exponent. Koji Yamada, the Japanese player, who drew a bye, will not be called upon until Tuesday.

STAR KICKER IS BADLY CRIPPLED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CAMBRIDGE (Mass.) Oct. 19.—Ralph Horween, the star fullback of Harvard's football team and the best kicker developed so far this year at the college, and Eddie Casey, right half-back, sustained injuries in the game with Brown yesterday that are expected to keep them out of the line-up until the Princeton game on November 8. It was announced tonight that Horween's collarbone was dislocated and Casey strained a tendon in his leg.

HOLLYWOOD, 6; ECHO, 3.

Singles—Jones defeated Salma, 6-2, 6-0; Turney defeated Hinckley, 6-4, 6-4; Perry defeated Manocchi, 6-0, 6-1; Schiltz defeated R. Fisher, 6-1, 6-2; Whitaker defeated Fisher, 6-4, 6-2; Rodgers defeated Pettit, 6-2, 6-2.

Doubles—Jones and Hinckley defeated Turney and Salma, 6-1, 6-1; Perry and Fisher defeated Manocchi and Schiltz, 6-4, 6-4; Rodgers and Whitaker defeated Kisker and Wilson, 6-3, 6-4.

JAPS, 5; SYCAMORE, 2.

The Japanese and Sycamore teams completed only seven out of the nine scheduled matches. The other two will be played off during the week.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—With a final score of 391 points, Clyde Swendsen of the Los Angeles Athletic Club won the title of Pacific Coast high diving champion, at Neptune Beach this afternoon, by defeating Bob Beck of the Neptune Club of Alameda, who finished second with 355 points.

Swendsen was considered to have the edge on Beck in nearly every dive executed, but the final judging showed the closest of competition off the fifteen and twenty-seven-foot high dives. The pair gave perfect demonstrations of the one and one-half, two and one-half somersaults and back dive, as well as the other most difficult executions.

ELEVEN WAITING.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—Eleven transcontinental army flyers spent the week-end here making preparations to start on their return journey to Mineola, but only one, Lieut.-Col. H. C. Hartney, No. 41, announced definitely he would depart tomorrow.

Lieut. J. B. Wright, No. 46, and Lieut. D. B. Gish, No. 10, were making repairs to their planes and did not expect to be ready before Tuesday. The other flyers were taking advantage of the stop-over time limit and postponing their departure until Tuesday or later.

Lieut. H. W. Sheridan, No. 40, who started East Friday, spent Sunday at Salt Lake City, expecting to resume his flight tomorrow morning.

MAY RAZE BALL PARKS IN EAST.

Three Cities Contemplate Amalgamation.

Polo Grounds Plan Liked by the Magnates.

Clubs Struggle to Lift Overhead Expenses.

BY I. E. SANBORN.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—By process of amalgamation, two and possibly three major-league baseball plants will be dismantled next season, according to the most authentic information obtainable. This is to the effect that by the time the curtain rises on the 1920 championship season Chicago will be the only city which will be asked to patronize two big-league ball parks.

The proposition is to co-operate in St. Louis, Philadelphia and Boston along the lines adopted some time ago by the two major leagues in New York, where the Polo Grounds are occupied jointly by the National and American League teams, although the lease on the lot and title to the plant are held by the owners of the Giants. For several years the two New York teams have played on the Polo Grounds without friction and have reduced the overhead cost to each club.

TO SHARE PARK.

Before another season opens it is more than possible the St. Louis National League club will be sharing the plant of the St. Louis Browns and the Philadelphia Nationals will be under contract to play in Shibe Park, the home of the Athletics.

In every other city except Chicago which has teams in the National and American leagues the baseball parks are located in the same section of the community. In St. Louis the same car line serves both parks, which are only half a mile apart. The Browns have a modern concrete plant capable of handling anything except a world's series crowd without overflowing.

The Cardinals' plant is an old-fashioned wooden affair, part of which burned this year and the rest of which costs a lot of money to keep it in good condition with the building commissioners.

BIG OVERHEAD.

A like situation exists in Boston, where both National and American League clubs are struggling to lift heavy overhead charges due to the cost of their plants. The American League club, having built its plant several years ago, probably is in better condition as to its bonds than the National League is. Moreover, its grounds are better situated for commercial purposes, being in the heart of "automobile row," but the Red Sox park is better adapted to baseball because it is more compact than the plant occupied by the Braves.

The latter, with a seating capacity of over 42,000 all on the ground level, is the biggest ball park in America, but it smothers the average crowd and stifles enthusiasm. It would be the rational solution, however, for the two Boston clubs to combine on the rental of the Braves' park and disuse of the Red Sox grounds.

HAVANA BEATEN.

PANDOLFO FRAUD CASE TO BE OPENED TODAY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—With a great army of witnesses for both prosecution and defense, the trial of S. C. Pandolfo, head of the Pan Motor Company of St. Cloud, Minn., and twelve other officials and promoters of the company, on charges of conspiracy to use the mails in a scheme to defraud in stock sales, will open in Federal Judge Landis's court tomorrow.

In the indictments returned several months ago, it is alleged that more than 60,000 persons bought stock amounting to $7,000,000 in the Pan company and only $2,000,000 in assets remain.

SLAYER OF PORTLAND WOMAN IS RETURNING.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND, Oct. 19.—Clarence Johnson, an ex-convict, arrested last month at Nome, Alaska, charged with the murder of Mrs. Eunice W. Freeman, a prison reform worker here last August, arrived at Seattle today in custody of Portland officers and will be brought here tomorrow.

Johnson, a boarder at Mrs. Freeman's home, was said by officers to have confessed to the killing.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BIG BEAR VALLEY, Oct. 19.—The smoke has cleared away from the big bombardment on Big Bear and Baldwin Lake and it is estimated that in the past three days hunters have taken out of the valley more than 5000 ducks. The shooting has been wonderful up to this time but now the ducks are more wary, they will circle across the lake well out of gunshot range and in going back and forth between the two lakes fly so high that there is no chance of getting them. The shooting is better than average now.

There was wonderful shooting the first day although the hunters who got the limit paid well for them in the amount of shells they used. X. G. Bartlett, of the valley, was the first man to get in with the limit. He was there when the first gun was fired the opening morning and got the limit in less than an hour.

Most of the shooting the opening day was done on Baldwin Lake. It is much smaller than Big Bear and gives the hunters much better opportunity. Game Warden Malone counted more than ninety boats on the lake and there were many men in blinds. It was a poor shot indeed who did not get the limit on the opening morning for the birds were frightened and were flying wild.

Before that morning was over more than 2000 birds had fallen. Among those who got the limit were X. G. Bartlett, W. L. Thornquest, Walter Hartsell, Walter Johnson, C. C. Percibal, J. st. Barry, Earl Finch, Dad Skinner, Gus Knight, M. McKnight, T. Barnes, Frank Loge, Walter Weaver, Roy Shaw, Frank Gore, Ben Johnson.

The shooting will be good this fall the hunters believe. The ducks will be more wary now but there will not be so many hunters and those who go stand a good chance of getting the limit.

Your Electricity Costs You Less Today Than Five Years Ago

Although almost every conceivable commodity has advanced and in many cases multiplied in cost within the past few years; Electric Current is supplied to the patrons of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation today at 5½ cents per Kilowat hour as against a rate of 6 cents, which was in effect in 1914.

This reduction in rates is in the face of ascending costs for every factor that enters into the production of current, and the rendering of service.

Wire has advanced 100%, cedar poles more than 25%, and labor almost 40%, and yet the rate in 1914 was approved as it is now by the State Railway Commission.

Efficiency, in the conduct of the affairs of this corporation, is responsible for the possibility of this lower rate.

Labor Leader Tells Trouble

Charles R. Gore Suffered Seven Years.

Was Getting Worse All the Time.

Takes Tanlac and Feels Fine Now.

"I am just feeling fine and everyone says I am looking fine," said Charles R. Gore of 1322 Girard street, Los Angeles, Cal., in telling of the benefits he has derived from the use of Tanlac, recently.

Mr. Gore has been secretary of the district council of the carpenter's union with offices in the Labor Temple, for nealy ten years, and is one of the most popular union men in Los Angeles.

"I have used six bottles of Tanlac," continued Mr. Gore, "and I would not have spent my money for it if it had not made good for me. I have always been strong, hearty and well. And as far as that goes I was not an invalid by any means when I got Tanlac, but about seven years ago I commenced to have dull pains in my stomach all the time and it got to be an effort for me to eat. In fact, I dreaded to eat on account of the pain it caused me, and my appetite left me entirely. I tried everything in the way of medicines I heard of, but got worse instead of better. Finally I got to where I could eat no breakfast at all and would come down to the office with my nerves all on edge and feeling irritable and unfit for work. At last I got so nervous that everything would upset me and I would roll and toss all night long, never getting any sound sleep.

"Well, I heard a great deal about this Tanlac, so I got a bottle and it made me feel a little better. Then I kept it up and now that I have taken six bottles, I am ready to say it beats them all. It is one medicine that does all they say it will; deserves all the praise being given it. I have picked up wonderfully, but I have not bothered to weigh, for it's not how I look or how much I weigh, it's how I feel that counts with me, and I certainly do feel fine. I get up in the mornings, after my good night's sleep and rest, eat a hearty breakfast and never feel a pain in my stomach. Then I come down to the office ready for anything that comes up and they can't get me nervous any more. I am not giving this statement to help sell Tanlac, but the medicine has straightened me up after I had been in bad shape and I feel that Tanlac will be the right medicine for anyone suffering like I did. A little money spent for Tanlac has done me more good than many dollars which I paid out for other things. It's a pleasure to recommend such a medicine."

Tanlac is sold in Los Angeles, Pasadena and San Diego by The Owl Drug Co.—[Advertisement.

HOW A YOUNG GIRL SUFFERED

And Was Restored to Health By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Told By Her Mother.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough for what it has done for my daughter. She was 15 years of age, very sickly and pale and she had to stay home from school most of the time. She suffered agonies from backache and dizziness and was without appetite. For three months she was under the doctor's care and got no better, always complaining about her back and side aching so I didn't know what to do. I read in the papers about your wonderful medicine so I made up my mind to try it. She has taken five bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and doesn't complain any more with her back and side aching. She has gained in weight and feels much better. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all mothers and daughters."—Mrs. M. Finosz, 516 Marcy Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"ONLY ONE THING BREAKS MY COLD"

"That's Dr. King's New Discovery for fifty years a cold-breaker"

NOTHING but sustained quality and unfailing effectiveness can arouse such enthusiasm. Nothing but sure relief from stubborn old colds and onrushing new ones, grippe, throat-tearing coughs and croup could have made Dr. King's New Discovery the nationally popular and standard remedy it is today.

Fifty years old and always reliable. Good for the whole family. A bottle in the medicine cabinet means a short-lived cold or cough. 60c and $1.20. All druggists.

Regular Bowels is Health

Bowels that move spasmodically—free one day and stubborn the next—should be healthfully regulated by Dr. King's New Life Pills. In this way you keep the impurities of waste matter from circulating through the system by cleansing the bowels thoroughly and promoting the proper flow of bile.

Mild, comfortable, yet always reliable, Dr. King's New Life Pills work with precision without the constipation results of violent purgatives. 25c, as usual at all druggists. —[Advertisement.

OBJECTORS GET STRICT JUSTICE.

Clamor for Release Fails to Bring Results Sought.

Modification of Attitude in Prisons Only Help.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Between the efforts of the amnesty committee in Chicago and the civil liberties bureau in New York to bring about the release of conscientious objectors from the military prisons and disciplinary barracks in which they are confined, and the protests of the various posts of the American Legion, which desire to keep them in, the War Department is striving to maintain strict neutrality in the carrying out of the law in each case.

Only those conscientious objectors whose refusal to co-operate with any of the regulations framed especially to provide for them has been sufficiently warlike as to earn for them the status of general prisoners are now held at Leavenworth, Alcatraz, Fort Douglas and other prisons, the plan at present being to concentrate the recalcitrants at Fort Douglas.

MODIFY ATTITUDE.

Several of these since the armistice have modified their resistance by consenting to work and otherwise to conform to the rules governing their fellows, thus bringing about material reductions in their sentences, and in a number of cases their release. Review of cases and recommendations for clemency, coupled with good conduct, have served to reduce the terms of the majority of objectors. No disposition toward clemency exists, however, in the case of agitators and propagandists, who of their own volition, organized to encourage resistance to authority, or have sought to convert others to their own peculiar views. Apparently in this the War Department is following the attitude adopted by the Department of Justice in dealing with violators of the Espionage Act.

TWO HUNDRED SERVING.

Of approximately 500 conscientious objectors who became "general prisoners" about 200 are still serving terms ranging for the most part from two to ten years. The only objectors released from prison and honorably discharged with pay and allowances were 110, released from Leavenworth last January after examination by Judge Mack and Dean Stone, who found them sincere and would have recommended them for farm furloughs had the plan been in operation at the time of their imprisonment.

While no general jail delivery is contemplated of those objectors who are still serving, with more or less active resistance, the terms imposed by the courts-martial acting on their cases recommendations for clemency, commutation of sentence, and even for release are having their effect, though not all the cases reopened for consideration result in action favorable to the objector.

The subject is one which Secretary Baker shows a marked disinclination to discuss. Mr. Baker denied today that there is any intention of releasing the remaining 200 objectors en bloc. He is, however, reopening individual cases from time to time for reconsideration.

SHORTAGE OF SUGAR BEET SEED FEARED.

COUNTRY FACING MORE SERIOUS FAMINE NEXT YEAR FROM LACK OF IMPORTS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—While a Senate committee has been learning how the administration failed to guard against the present sugar shortage it transpires that the country will face a more serious shortage next year unless an increased supply of sugar beet seed is produced.

Shortage of sugar beet seed in the United States for the 1921 planting will be serious unless the beet sugar companies and seed growers in this country arrange immediately for the production of a large part of their sugar beet requirements for that year.

This Statement by the United States Department of Agriculture is based upon unofficial but reliable reports from representatives of beet sugar companies and seed dealers who have recently visited the sugar beet seed producing countries of Europe.

"The sugar beet seed situation for 1921 is serious because of the limited production of sugar beet seed in Europe as compared with former years, because of the increased activity in the beet sugar production in European countries, and because of the increased acreage planted to beets in this country in recent years," the department says:

"It is probable that several years will elapse before normal quantities of sugar beet seed will be produced in European countries.

"The present indications are that there is sufficient beet seed, either imported or domestic now in the hands of nearly all of the beet sugar companies in the United States, to take care of the acreage to be planted to sugar beets in 1920, but that there is very little foreign sugar beet seed now available for importation and that the foreign production in the immediate future will be limited."

BAN ON ENEMY ALIENS IS PHILIPPINE URGE.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

MANILA, Oct. 19.—Resolutions protesting against return to the Philippine Islands of enemy aliens deported during the war, have been adopted here by members of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars. One enemy alien, it is alleged, not only has been permitted to return, but has been given employment in the insular service here.

Copies of the resolutions were sent to members of Congress, and Gov.-Gen. Harrison has been asked to re-deport such men. The two organizations also have pledged themselves to boycott all firms employing enemy aliens.

CHICAGO FACING SAHARA PERIOD.

Prohibition Enforcement is to be Most Severe.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—Saloon keepers and bartenders will lend a deaf ear to the whisper over the bar for a drink of ginger ale with a "kick" in it if they want to retain their liberty when the war prohibition enforcement act goes into effect next Monday unless the President vetoes the bill. The prosecution will rest with Uncle Sam.

Under the act, persons who sell intoxicating liquors, beverages containing more than one-half of one per cent. of alcohol, are subject to arrest and a fine of $1000, or two years imprisonment or both.

"The duty of seeing that the law is obeyed rests largely with the internal revenue department under the new law," said George G. Dunlap, chief of the field deputies of the internal revenue department, whose agents have already made a number of arrests of "moonshiners." "Warrants will be asked for the arrests of persons caught selling beverages classed under the act as intoxicating and the evidence will be turned over to the District Attorney's office for prosecution.

The bill also makes owners of property where intoxicating beverages are made or sold liable to a lien for costs and the fines assessed against the violator.

BAY RUM BANNED.

Illinois has added another commandment: Look not upon the rum when it is at bay.

It all started in Dixon, where the authorities were nonplussed by the remarkable number of sloppy sousers. These drunks were finally traced to the barber shops. The prosecuting attorney there put the case up to Atty.-Gen. Brundage, who is in doubt whether he had jurisdiction over bay rum. He looked up the definition of bay rum and found it designated as a tonic for the face after a shave, but there was no mention of its use as a beverage. However, the prosecuting attorney was obdurate and insisted the drunks around and in Dixon were using it as a tonic inside their faces, regardless of a shave or haircut.

RICH IN ALCOHOL.

Then the Attorney-General went deeper into the matter and discovered that good bay rum contains fifty-eight per cent. alcohol. It was also brought to his attention that large quantities of bay rum were being sold in Dixon and that the barbers were using a very small part of the shipment for its legitimate use. Men who scarcely ever shaved and who went months without a haircut were buying much bay rum and shortly thereafter appearing on the streets in a spifflicated condition.

As a result of these disclosures and investigations Illinois will probably put its foot down hard on the bay rum traffic. It may be necessary to pass a law that bay rum must contain some ingredient, harmless to the skin or scalp, but making its use as a beverage impossible.

BEER SPECIAL HELD UP.

Gummy mud conspired with the Zion City police yesterday to make Chicago less wet, when a farmer telephoned that two auto trucks were stuck in the road near his land. Constables Casperson and Sylvester H. Depew hastened to the rescue.

They found the trucks, also forty barrels and 120 cases of Milwaukee's best, assaying three dozen bottles to the case. While they were examining the contraband, two touring cars approached.

"Halt!" cried the constables in unison. "You have a far from dry look about you."

Their suspicions were verified when they lifted a rug from one machine and a number of spare tires from the other, and added eighty bottles more to the total of their capture. The seven occupants of the touring cars and trucks were arrested.

LAST RITES TODAY.

Hold Funeral this Morning of Temperance Worker.

Funeral services for Mrs. Grace Crowell Dale, a well-known prohibition worker and former secretary of the Boyle Heights W. C. T. U., will be conducted at 10 a.m. today, at the home of her mother, 355 North Fickett street, where she died Friday morning. Burial will be at Inglewood Cemetery.

Mrs. Dale, who was 57 years of age, was the wife of Lucius C. Dale, former general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at Stockton and for years a prohibition worker here. Her home was at 339 North Fickett street, but after undergoing an operation some months ago she went to her mother's residence, where she died. She was born in Massachusetts, lived for a number of years in Nebraska and then came to California, where, twenty years ago, she married Mr. Dale at Stockton. She had lived in Los Angeles fourteen years. She was a charter member of the Church of the Open Door.

SIX CONES SPOUTING LAVA ON MAUNA LOA.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

HONOLULU, Oct. 19.—Six cones of the volcano Mauna Loa were active at an elevation of 7150 feet, according to parties returning here today from the source of the lava flow. The active cones are on a line running from east to west for a distance of a quarter of a mile. The main cone is 200 feet in diameter, it is reported, and the lava is flowing freely.

The lava from two of the cones is flowing towards Opihihale, from another it is running in the direction of Punokeokeo, and from still another towards Honomalino. The longest flow is still eight miles from the government road, moving slowly due west towards Kaapuna, at an elevation of 5850 feet.

STEPSON TELLS OF WRONG-DOING

Young Stokes Admits Intimacy with Father's Wife.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—W. E. D. Stokes, hotel owner and railroad president, who is suing Mrs. Helen E. Stokes for a divorce, naming her step-son, W. E. D. Stokes, Jr., as one of several co-respondents, filed with Justice Gavegan his replying affidavit to the counter-claim of his wife for a separation and her motion for suitable alimony. With his papers Mr. Stokes filed a note written to him by his son, whom he names in his action against his second wife, in which "Weddie," as he is called, complies with his father's request to reduce to writing what he had already told him. The note submitted to Justice Gavegan reads:

"My darling pop: I am sorry to say I was intimate with Helen at Narragansett Pier this fall. W. E. D. STOKES, Jr."

Mr. Stokes in his answer to the charges of his wife in her separation suit denies all the material facts alleged, which included cruelty. In fact, Mr. Stokes alleges that he not only never tried to choke his wife, but that on one occasion she scratched his face so badly that he was compelled to remain at home for a week. He says Mrs. Stokes also threatened to kill him. As for the use of profane language attributed to him, the millionaire plaintiff denies he used any toward his wife but alleges that Mrs. Stokes did employ such language towards him. At length Mr. Stokes enumerates properties owned by him, seeking to show that his wife, in asking for alimony, has greatly overrated his wealth.

MRS. STOKES ACTS.

Mr. Stokes, however, was not the only one of the litigating couple to take action. Saturday Mrs. Stokes filed a suit in the Supreme Court asking for the canceling of an instrument which she says her husband compelled her to sign in 1911, which turned over to Marvyn Realty Company all of the twenty-five parcels of property owned by Mr. Stokes. Mrs. Stokes alleges that she signed this paper under compulsion without knowing its contents or purport and that the transfer of the Stokes property to the realty company controlled by him, was in pursuance of a conspiracy to defraud her of her lawful dower rights in the estate of her husband. She say there was no consideration for the transfer. Mrs. Stokes alleges that although the instrument was signed by her in 1911, the actual transfer of the property to the Marvyn Realty Company was not made until 1917, and that she did not learn of the alleged fraud on her rights until April, 1919.

This discovery was made, said Mrs. Stokes, through an investigation made by her "in consequence of the bringing against her by W. E. D. Stokes of a false and vexatious action for divorce." Her delay in bringing in her action, Mrs. Stokes explained, was due to negotiations that were pending for the adjustment of differences between her and Mr. Stokes.

HUSBANDS INSTRUMENTS.

Mrs. Stokes names W. E. D. Stokes, Jr., Thomas Stokes, her brother-in-law, and A. H. Gleason, attorney for her husband, as co-defendants. She says they were merely instruments of her husband in the matter; all, with the exception of the son, were officers and directors of the realty company. The property was to be held by the Marvyn company for the benefit of Mr. Stokes and his son.

In this action, Mrs. Stokes reiterates an allegation she made in her separation suit, that the husband was addicted to the use of drugs, a charge which Mr. Stokes takes occasion to deny in his affidavit filed yesterday. He also denies that there was any conspiracy to deprive Mrs. Stokes of her dower rights and that she signed with full knowledge of the contents.

Mr. Stokes said in his paper, now in the hands of Justice Gavegan, that the allegations made by him against his wife, were based on information given by persons upon sworn statements now in his possession, of facts and circumstances connected with the acts alleged. In the further discussion of the papers signed by Mrs. Stokes, it is alleged that the consideration was an agreement under which she was to receive $500 a month from which she was to buy her clothing.

Mr. Stokes says in his affidavit that he has no intention to question the legitimacy of his two children by his present wife.

GRAPE SYRUP MAY BE PROHIBITION PRODUCT.

EXPERTS BELIEVE IT CAN BE MADE TO SAVE FINANCIAL LOSS IN VINEYARDS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LODI, Oct. 19.—In an investigation of the outlook for making grape syrup in this State after the prohibition law goes into effect, Prof. William Cruess, of the State Viticultural Board, and a member of the faculty of the University of California, inspected the syrup produced by Olivers Newman at the Woodbridge winery yesterday. Cruess was accompanied by Farm Adviser Willis Adriance. After the visit Prof. Cruess declared that Newman's equipment was the best he had seen anywhere in the State.

While the grape syrup industry is still in its infancy, investigators believe, according to Prof. Cruess, that it is the most likely solution of the disposition of the wine grapes after the present season, when wine-making, except for home consumption, will be under the ban of the law.

The equipment necessary to convert a winery into a syrup plant is not expensive, in some cases only a couple of vacuum pans being essential, and the syrup, according to Prof. Cruess, is superior in quality and flavor to any now in use in the United States, and should secure a ready market.

The use of the grape juice for syrup is regarded generally by the investigators as more practical than drying the grapes and sending them abroad for wine-making purposes.

Some Facts

Prospective Home Buyers Should Know

It requires about 90 days to complete the construction of a House.

During the last 90 days there have been substantial advances in practically all materials used in the construction of a House, but at this time prices seem to be stabilized.

During the last 90 days carpenters and others employed in the construction of a House have had advances in their pay to a satisfactory wage.

When we start the construction of a House the selling price is made, based upon cost of construction plus price of the lot.

Last week we completed eight new Homes. We also started the construction of eight new Homes, and we find the cost of construction on each of these new Houses to be about $500 more.

You Will Pay $500 More 90 Days From Now

The Houses we complete 90 days from now will sell for $500 more than the Houses we offer you today; in other words, Houses now selling for $4250 will be selling for $4750 three months from now.

Will You Wait and Pay $500 More?

Or will you buy now and make $500?

Let us show you the Homes we have now ready to occupy.

SCHOOLBOYS GATHER SEEDS.

Students from Pasadena Help Restore Mountains.

Well-Known Inventor Leaves Southland with Regrets.

Dr. Baer Returns Today from Extended Eastern Trip.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, Oct. 19.—Battalions of High School students will climb the heights of the Sierra Madre Mountains this week to gather seeds for the big tree-planting enterprise to be carried out on the hillsides by the local school next spring.

The High School boys recently went seed-gathering, so the girls have now petitioned Principal Walter C. Wilson to have a part in the seed collection, also. Principal Wilson probably will delegate some day this week for the girls to go.

LOVES THE SOUTHLAND.

Charles Y. Knight, inventor of the motor which bears his name, will leave this week on the first trip East he has made in two years. Mr. Knight is going East to attend a business conference. He has made his permanent home in Pasadena several years, at 818 South Orange Grove avenue. He is a great Southern California enthusiast and never leaves this region, even for a short period, if he can help it.

DR. BAER COMING HOME.

Dr. John Willis Baer, vice-president of the Union Bank here, former president of Occidental College, and present moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly, will return home tomorrow with Mrs. Baer from a seven weeks' trip through the East and Middle West, where Dr. Baer has presided at important Presbyterian conferences, and has addressed a number of business organizations. Dr. Baer has been delivering a number of addresses on Americanization work on this trip, as he deems this one of the most important questions in America at the present time.

POSTMASTER RETURNS.

Postmaster Clark McLain of Pasadena has returned from an extended vacation spent at his farm in Iowa. Mr. McLain states that there will be more visitors in Southern California from Iowa the coming winter than in any previous season, judging from the number of Iowans who told him of their plans to come.

TO TAKE UP FIREMEN ROW.

The City Commission will again take up the row in the fire department tomorrow, coming to a final vote on the question of upholding the action of Chief E. F. Coop in suspending four firemen who violated his rule against the circulation of political petitions by the firemen.

PRESENT PETITION FOR REFERENDUM.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, Oct. 19.—Containing more than 3500 signatures, the petition calling for a referendum on the recently-enacted anti-boxing law will be presented to the City Commissioners Monday, A. B. Montgomery, manager of the Silver Spray Athletic Club, announced this afternoon. The petition was circulated in twenty sections, nearly all of which have been checked. More than double the number of names needed have been secured, Mr. Montgomery claims.

The municipal solons, it is understood, will not repeal the ordinance, but will put the issue up to the people either at the next general election or a special election called for that purpose.

TO PROTECT RECORDS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ONTARIO, Oct. 19.—That all the official records of lands in San Bernardino county are now practically without protection from fire and that their loss or destruction would cause untold confusion and entail a tremendous expense to replace, was the declaration today of John Whitson, jury, which, he adds, is shortly to make a strong plea to the Supervisors to take immediate steps for their safeguarding.

At present the records are not even in a vault, simply lying in an open room in a portion of the old Courthouse, which is far from fireproof, it is said.

The destruction of the records would absolutely tie up all real estate transfers for an unlimited time, it is declared, and would pave the way for all manner of fraudulent transactions by unscrupulous persons.

Not only are the records of San Bernardino county thus exposed, according to Mr. Whitson, but the early records of lands in Riverside county, when it was still a part of San Bernardino county, are likewise endangered.

Their plea for a new and adequate hall of records will be one of the principal aims of this year's grand jury, of which former Sheriff John C. Ralphs is foreman.

Pomona College Offers Series of Artistic Recitals.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

CLAREMONT, Oct. 19. — The Zoellner Quartette of Los Angeles will open the Pomona College music and lecture course for the season 1919-1920 with a concert on the evening of October 24, in Bridges Hall of Music. Amandus Zoellner, member of the famous quartette, is this year instructor in violin at Pomona College and under his leadership the violin department of the college has increased vastly in enrollment. It will now be the privilege of the music lovers of the college and community to hear him in concert with the other members of the quartette.

Other notable events on the course, as announced this week by the college authorities, will include a concert by Sousa's Band on November 26, a concert by the Los Angeles Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra in January, a piano recital by Cortot, a violin recital by Louis Perainger, and a number of home-talent musical and dramatic events, including two Shakespeare plays to be presented under the direction of Reginald Pole of Los Angeles.

DANCE TO AID BUREAU.

American Legion to Raise Funds for Replacement Work.

To raise funds to continue the work of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Replacement Bureau, the Los Angeles posts of the American Legion will give a dance in Shrine Auditorium November 11, Armistice Day. The local posts decided that this will be the most practical way of celebrating. The bureau will cease operations under municipal control January 1, and the American Legion will continue the work.

The dance is to be opened by Gov. Stephens. An admission fee of $1 will be charged. It is hoped to raise a large amount in this manner as the Replacement Bureau has proved its value. It has handled more than 19,000 applications for work and has placed two-thirds of the men who applied.

ATTACKS OFFICER.

Porterville Man Resists Serving of Attachment.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PORTERVILLE, Oct. 19.—T. C. Wrinkle, an orchard owner of the suburban district was placed in the local jail to await his preliminary hearing after he had twice shot and slightly wounded A. P. Churchill, constable of Strathmore township, who had attempted to levy an attachment on Wrinkle's automobile. In a scuffle for the possessions of Wrinkle's gun, Wrinkle himself was shot through the leg. Neither man is seriously hurt. G. W. Smith, who makes his home with Wrinkle, and who objected when the officer took possession of the car, was arrested on a technical charge of resisting an officer.

Wrinkle declared after his arrest that he failed to "get Churchill" because his gun failed to work. He declares Churchill came up to him and struck him in the face with the butt end of his revolver without provocation.

WILL HOLD FLOWER SHOW.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Oct. 19.—There will be a flower show held in Redlands this fall, the first in three years. The directors of the Redlands Horticultural Society met yesterday and decided to have the annual show on November 14 and 15. The last show was held in the fall of 1916, as it was felt the shows should not be held during the war. A wonderful display of chrysanthemums is promised for they give promise of being fine this year. There will also be quite a display of roses.

IMPERIAL VALLEY.

IMPERIAL, Oct. 19.—The first house built in Imperial Valley, which adjoins the City Hall of Imperial, was sold Saturday by J. S. Brooks of Santa Ana, the owner, to Frank Thimas, a Portuguese, for $150 cash. The old landmark, now very much weather-beaten, was built in 1901, and in the early days housed the valley's first newspaper plant. Mr. Thimas will tear it down immediately, using the lumber to build a new house.

Thirteen cars of sheep arrived in Holtville yesterday from points in Utah. They were consigned to C. E. Coggins, rancher.

Week-end duck hunters in the valley from Los Angeles included Chase Garfield, of the Troy Sales Company; F. T. Woodman, former Mayor; C. W. Butler, former Chief of Police; O. D. Lewis, special officer; A. B. Marshall, and six deputy sheriffs.

Brawley has abandoned its system of parking cars parallel with the curbing, and is now trying the center parking plan, which is the method in vogue at Salinas, Watsonville and other California towns, and generally throughout Kansas.

Imperial county now has all of its schools provided with teachers except Oglethorpe and Glamis, well out on the desert. Winterhaven is short one teacher.

SHIP-YARD STRIKE IS NOW HISTORY.

WORKERS RETURN TO LONG BEACH YARDS AND WORK IS RUSHED.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, Oct. 19.—With more than 1300 men out of a force of 2200 back on the job and work progressing uninterruptedly on all the vessels in the yard, the plant of the Long Beach Shipbuilding Company is being conducted as though the recent walkout had never occurred. Many men in some lines of work have been turned away, their positions having been filled with others since the strike.

The Vinita will be the next 8500-ton vessel launched at the local plant. The date has not been definitely set as yet, but the event is scheduled for the middle of November. The Vinita will be the first steel bottom constructed by the local concern to be equipped with engines built here.

The big 2500-horse-power, triple-expansion motor for the Vinita is now being completed in the machine shops of the plant of the Long Beach Shipbuilding Company.

CONDITIONS IMPROVE.

Citrus Growers Believe More Cars Will Be Furnished.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PORTERVILLE, Oct. 19.—There has been a slight improvement in the car shortage, which has been general throughout the San Joaquin Valley, and which has resulted in heavy losses to the deciduous fruit growers. There is now some reason to believe the supply will be sufficiently large that the orange crop can be moved, although it is expected the situation will be strained until January 1, at least.

Just now the chief interest of the navel orange men centers in the south, where there are more than 3000 cars of Valencias to be moved. Until these are sent to market there will be a depressing effect on the prices paid for the early fruit.

PAVE DESERT ROAD.

New Improvement to Link Los Angeles and Beaumont.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

TUCAIPA, Oct. 19.—There will soon be a paved road from Los Angeles to Beaumont and out to the desert. The State Highway Commission has asked for bids for the paving of the only stretch that is not now paved.

The stretch is that portion between the county line here and Beaumont, all in Riverside county, and covering about seven miles. For many weeks the Chamber of Commerce of Redlands has been working to get the rights of way for this stretch so that it can be paved and the necessary papers have all been signed.

It is understood that the State Highway Commissioners will have workmen on the road just as soon as the contract is let.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA BARBARA, Oct. 19.—Walnuts are now rolling into the market at Goleta and Carpinteria. A small army of 1500 men, women and children are employed to handle the crop, the daily pay roll being between $4000 and $5000. Some of the warehouse workers and others are receiving as high as $7 a day. The wage paid walnut pickers this year is the highest in the history of the industry. The ranchers are paying $35 a ton, warehouse weight, or $30 orchard weight. This is about $5 a ton more, or 15 cents a sack more than ever paid before. There is no scarcity in labor, it is reported.

TO ERECT TENT CITY.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

EL CENTRO, Oct. 19.—The El Centro Chamber of Commerce has entered into negotiations with the management of Coronado Tent City to move the city to El Centro in order to relieve the acute housing situation in this city. It is planned to erect a tent city of 1000 homes in this city just as soon as possible to take care of the thousands of people who have been unable to find homes.

A suitable site will be selected and sewer and lights installed at the earliest possible moment. It is planned to have the first of the tent homes ready in two weeks.

Secretary S. W. Lemingwell is conducting the negotiations.

CHURCH WORKERS PLAN BIG MEET.

SUNDAY SCHOOL ASSOCIATION HOLDS CONVENTION AT ANAHEIM.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ANAHEIM, Oct. 19.—Plans are well under way for the annual convention of the Orange County Sunday-school Association, to be held in the Evangelical Church at Anaheim on Thursday and Friday, October 30-31. The forenoons will be devoted to departmental conferences, and there will be two addresses each afternoon. Special features will be provided at the evening services. Many denominational field workers of Southern California have been invited to participate in the convention and are responding with fine spirit. The attendance will be large and with the city already filled to overflowing with people, the task of housing the convention delegates promises to be a big one, probably necessitating that many return to their homes each evening.

VISALIA FAIR BIG SUCCESS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VISALIA, Oct. 19.—With an attendance which set new records for events of the kind in Tulare county, and which assure it of financial success beyond the most optimistic estimates, the Tulare County Victory Fair came to a close tonight with a concert by Walten's Golden Gate Band of San Francisco. This was Governor's day and the address of Gov. William D. Stephens was the principal feature of the afternoon programme.

The Alta district, of which Dinuba is the center, was awarded the coveted first prize for community exhibits, with Exeter second and Three Rivers third. Earlimart won the first award for farm bureaus, with Tulare and Poplar-Woodville in the order named. The first award for the best commercial exhibit was made to the Fresno Chamber of Commerce, while the second place in this class went to the California Prune and Apricot Growers, Inc.

RED CROSS OPENS CLASS IN NURSING.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

TULARE, Oct. 19.—With Miss Margaret E. Scott of San Francisco in general charge, organization has been completed of a department of nursing, which is to be maintained here under direction of the Red Cross and students for which are to be sought immediately. The class will be open to children of school age as well as adults. Hygiene, home sanitation, disease prevention, epidemics and care of children will be the principal subjects taught. Mrs. H. C. Cook will head the general committee, with the following assistants:

Mrs. Grace Parker, county nurse; Mrs. Ralph Cople, Woman's Club; Miss Amelia Schmierer, domestic science teacher, high school; S. J. Brainder, principal high school; Frank Gehring, secretary Board of Trade; Rev. Benjamin Gould for the churches; Dr. Francis Zumwalt for the physicians and Dr. J. B. Rosson, city Board of Health. The work will be financed by the local Red Cross chapter.

SUGGEST IMPROVEMENT.

Park Commissioners at Porterville File Recommendations.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PORTERVILLE, Oct. 19. — The Porterville Park Commission has completed their report to the City Council and will file their recommendations as to improvements for Luther Burbank Park with the officials at their meeting Monday night.

In addition to new roads, further plantings of the park tract, and a memorial monument to soldiers and sailors, the commission will advise the erection of a community clubhouse in the park tract and it is possible some plan will be worked out to have this building house the quarters of the Porterville Post, American Legion.

H. F. Brey, W. E. Sprott and Mrs. O. C. Higgins are the members of the commission.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA BARBARA, Oct. 19.—A drive against the crow is being planned for the interior section of this county, San Luis Obispo, Monterey, Kern and other counties. The idea is backed by the California Cattlemen's Association, as a means of protecting crops. The stockmen meeting at Los Alamos, adopted resolutions favoring a resumption of the drive against squirrels, and during the meeting the campaign against crows was suggested.

HIGH COTTON PRICES.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SEELEY, Oct. 19.—The highest price in the history of Imperial Valley for cotton is being received at this time. The market for short staple is between 28 and 29 cents a pound and the market for good Durango cotton is as high as 43 cents.

Yields in Imperial Valley are excellent and the growers are receiving hundreds of thousands of dollars for their crops. The crop is moving very freely at these prices.

HISTORIC PAGEANT AT SANTA MONICA.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, Oct. 19.—Next Thursday and Friday nights all the quaint, tragic, droll, lovable, laughing figures of Santa Monica's romantic history will pass in revue before the men and women who once played and worked with them on the sands, hills and in the homes of old Santa Monica. All the seemingly impossible struggles, the joys, and experiences of danger and daring that have become a part of the city's folk-lore will be dramatized for the present generation.

The Santa Monica Bay Woman's Club is presenting the history of Santa Monica in pageant form, 600 Santa Monica people taking active part in the production. The manuscript was written by Mrs. W. H. Cornett, prominent Santa Monica club woman. The music has been arranged and will be directed by her son Mr. Donald Clark. The drama will be presented in eight episodes, each of which will come as a part of a dream of an old Spanish senora, played by Mrs. Edeth Scott-Burritt.

Preceding the performance, Rev. W. H. Cornett will describe a number of stereoptican slides of old landmarks that time has put from sight.

ACCEPT PLANS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

TULARE, Oct. 19.—Plans have been accepted by the Board of Trustees for the proposed soldiers' and sailors' memorial auditorium, which will be built with the proceeds of an issue of bonds in the sum of $90,000, which will be voted upon at a special election November 3.

The building is to be placed in the center of Pavilion Park, facing Tulare street, and will be 142 by 78 feet over all. The main auditorium will be eighty-seven by seventy-eight feet in size and will accommodate 2000 people. Club rooms for the service men, city offices and a council chamber are provided. Provisions have also been made in the plans whereby the size of the structure can be conveniently increased if this should become necessary.

THE MIRACLE MAN AT BARTLETT'S

Now Known to be the Largest Single Order Ever Given

There were people who said, "It can't be done," "Such a thing is impossible," "Pianos are so scarce," "The strikes will stop delivery." The Bartlett Music Company said, "Yes, we will deliver the goods." The order was taken from the Board of Education and telegraphed to the factories. The A. B. Chase Piano Company said, through its president, "I am a man of few words, but I thank you." The result is that 30 beautiful A. B. Chase pianos are in the high schools.

The Kohler & Campbell people said, "Ten carloads of pianos at the present time is a tremendous amount of instruments to give to one party, but the efforts of our entire organization will be behind this order."

The result is that there are now 180 Kohler & Campbell pianos safely delivered in the schools of Los Angeles.

We admit it is almost uncanny. Twelve full carloads—210 pianos—shipped from the East during the strikes, but now being played on in the schools from San Fernando to San Pedro—and the Miracle Man says he can do it again. The High School of Inglewood selected two A. B. Chase pianos and the Grammar School at Glendora bought an A. B. Chase. The Miracle Man, not satisfied with all this and more, started the sale of 210 pianos additional, to be sold in the homes. In other words, he is determined to sell one in the home for every piano sold the schools, and he has offered to pay any scholar $10 who helps him sell a piano. In addition to 10% to 20% discount, half the first $100 payment will be made by the Miracle Man and a receipt given for double, as advertised. This week will see the end of the great sale at 410 West Seventh street, and it will pay you to get there and do business.

FIGHT "CUT RATE" CANADIAN ROADS

Senate Terms Methods of Rail Carriers Unfair.

American Companies may not Accept Interchange.

British Concerns Seek Control of Alaskan Business.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—American railroads are to be prohibited from participating in the continuous or interrupted transportation of passengers or freight with Canadian rail or water carriers unless the latter abandon "cut rate" practices in unfair competition under legislation that is being considered by Senate and House committees now framing railroad legislation.

Amendments to this end have been presented to the Cummins bill in the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee by Senator Poindexter, and have been offered to the Esch-Pomerene bill before the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committees.

These amendments would control the foreign rate through control of the carrier operating within the purjediction of the United States, thus effecting that which Congress has long attempted as the basis of insuring equal rates for Canadian and American carriers coming into competition for the carriage of domestic merchandise of the United States in bond or otherwise through Canada.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has long since had knowledge of its complete inability to control or influence that part of a rate which attaches to the carriage within the foreign country, even though the merchandise be moved under carriers, bond which would testify it to be a through shipment.

TO REGULATE RATE.

The amendments seek to enforce that competitive movement of passengers or property involving extra territorial transportation by carriers by prescribing that the carriage rates of the foreign carrier shall not be lower than those prescribed for American carriers by rail, or by water, and for the purpose of preventing unfair "cut rates" by foreign uncontrollable carriers in competition with the controlled rates of American carriers.

The amendments are being pressed by the Pacific Coast Congressmen to remedy the alleged unfair and cut-rate competition by the Grand Trunk Pacific and Canadian Pacific railways in their attempts to divert business from the American rail and water carriers serving the Pacific Northwest and Alaska.

REDUCE FARE ONE-THIRD.

In testimony given recently before the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, William L. Clark of Seattle, representing the Pacific Steamship Company, stated that "the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, in which over $170,000,000 of Canadian government funds are invested, had declared its policy in competition with United States interests to make rates from Prince Rupert to Alaska ports one-third less than when carried by American steamship lines from United States Pacific ports.

Mr. Clark pointed out that the question of service and rates by American steamship lines in the Alaskan trade was bound up with the futile efforts of Congress to regulate rates to or from a foreign adjacent territory or from hte United States through a foreign country to any other place in the United States. The commercial jusidsiction of a nation is limited to its own dominions and to vessels under its own flag on the high seas.

Though Congress might provide by legislation, continued Clark, for control by the Interstate Commerce Commission of the extra territorial transportation to or through Canada, the order of the commission could not be made effective as against the foreign carrier punishment could not be meted out, and Canadian rail and water carriers will maintain but a semblance of observance of the orders of the commission in which they shall have concurred and continue to make such applications of rates concerning the carriage of United States cargo as best suits their purpose

The commission has, however, assumed to regulate the through movement of the traffic which originated on rail lines, even though shipments may have been rebilled to final destination by water from the terminal of the rail lines and applies this rule of action in control of American carriers operating to Alaska.

"British interests as represented by Canadian railroads," said Clark, "for more than twenty years have sought to break down the barrier which has stopped them from entering into trade routes reserved by law to vessels documented in the United States. They found an opening wedge in 1912 and nosed their way into the Alaskan-Yukon through a rate war which eliminated the only American competing steamship line and then into Southeastern Alaska.

MAY DELAY ADJOURNMENT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19. — Pressure from administration sources for enactment of permanent railroad legislation may block the tentative plans of Congressional leaders for adjournment of the extraordinary session about November 10.

Leaders were of the opinion tonight that unless consideration of the German peace treaty is expedited, action by the Senate on the railroad bill prior to November 10 would be impossible.

The railroad bill as completed yesterday by the Senate Interstate Commerce Commission is expected to be presented Tuesday or Wednesday, ready for consideration immediately after ratification of the peace treaty.

HAS BUSY WEEK.

While the Senate treaty fight continues this week the House expects to pass the budget bill, decide the election contest of Representative Fitzgerald and Peter F. Tague, both Democrats, from the Tenth Massachusetts District, and take up the Public Land Leasing Bill. The House Elections Committee plans disposal on Friday of the ouster proceedings against Representative Victor Berger, Socialist, of Wisconsin.

The steel strike investigation of the Senate Labor Committee will be reopened tomorrow, Jacob Margolis, a Pittsburgh lawyer, having been summoned for examination regarding charges of syndicalism activities on the part of Secretary Foster and other strike leaders. The committee plans to close its inquiry on Tuesday.

COAL STRIKE.

The threatened coal strike also is promised attention in the Senate. Transmission to the White House early this week of the bill to extend the food-control law to punish profiteering is planned.

Hearings on the sugar shortage will be resumed tomorrow by the Senate Agricultural Committee. The same committee also is expected to begin at an early date the inquiry ordered by the Senate into the grain situation.

Both Senate and House military committees continue hearings this week on general military legislation The committee chairmen hope to hear Gen. Pershing late this week or next. Early action is expected in the Senate on the House bill to extend passport restrictions, to prevent immigration of radicals and others undesirable from Europe.

Report to the Senate tomorrow of the $14,000,000 deficiency appropriation bill is planned by the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Man has it Bitten off During Fight; Doesn't Know Who Got Mouthful.

A. R. Edwards, 39 years of age, of the Abbey Hotel, Eighth and Figueroa streets, appeared at the Receiving Hospital early yesterday morning with a portion of the little finger of his left hand missing and the story of a fight in a country club near Vernon, during the course of which someone got his finger between his teeth and chewed it. Edwards was unable to tell the police who bit him.

CAMPBELL UPHELD IN FIGHT AGAINST HARRIS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX, Oct. 19.—In the civil division of the Superior Court Judge Lyman has issued an interlocutory injunction against Charles W. Harris, claimant from the last State administration of the office of Adjutant-General. In effect this recognizes Gov. Campbell's appointee, Walter S. Ingalls. However, in the other division of the court is being considered a quo warranto action, in which Judge Stanford already has indicated that the Legislature had power to enact a law covering the Adjutant-General's tenure.

Ingalls now may claim all books and records held by Harris and is sustained as in charge of the military storehouse, which has been held by the police as neutral ground. It is considered probable that attorneys for Ingalls will seek to have the case transferred to the Federal court on the ground that the tenure of a Federal office is in dispute.

NAVAL RESERVE IS WEAK.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Secretary Daniels's statement that he could call out 350,000 trained reserve sailors and man every ship in the navy in a week, and that the plight of the navy at the present hour because of lack of personnel is therefore not alarming, is not entirely borne out by naval records.

Inquiry into the facts shows that at its very highest peak, just before the armistice, the number of enlisted men in the navy, who had actually seen service at sea, was 204,843. Some of those men are still in the present crippled service, having never been released. Some of them were discharged and re-enlisted—a small percentage, and some of them undoubtedly would be found unable to respond to service if called because of health conditions and other causes.

FIGURES ARE OFFICIAL.

Commander Foote, aid to Secretary Daniels, furnished the figures when asked for them yesterday. The 204,843 figure represents the highest number of men who actually saw fleet service during the war. While it is true that the navy had an enlisted strength of more than 350,000, more than 125,000 of these men were still in training when the war ended and never went to sea.

Another 100,000 were engaged in various duties overseas at ships' bases, in aviation and other fields and many thousands more were held during the war in the various naval districts in the United States.

In the light of these figures, it is evident that in the event of an emergency calling for fleet action, Secretary Daniels's call for reserves would not meet with response from 350,000 trained sailors, but in reality the response could come from less than 200,000, and experts very much doubt that the jump from civil life back to the ships could be accomplished within a week nor anywhere near that time limitation.

DANIELS NOT BLAMED.

Members of Congress on the Naval Affairs committees are not inclined to blame the navy nor Secretary Daniels entirely for the present run-down condition of the navy. Senator Lodge, who has been for years a member of the Naval Committee, and Senator Page, its chairman, both attach blame for lack of personnel to the Shipping Board and insist that something must be done to head off desertions from the navy to the more attractive merchant marine. Members of the House committee, Republicans among them, absolve Daniels from blame for the wholesale discharge of sailors after the war, maintaining that the country demanded it and that there would have been trouble if the boys had not been released.

PROPOSE A NEW MARINE POLICY.

House will Consider Permanent Shipping Legislation.

Repeal of War-time Measures to be an Initial Step.

Emergency Fleet Corporation to be Eliminated.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Legislation establishing a permanent policy for the guidance of the Shipping Board in the upbuilding of an American merchant marine will be passed by the House before the close of the extra session.

This is the programme of the Republican House leaders who plan to have the shipping policy bill called up for action as soon as it is reported from the House Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

Before taking action the committee has arranged to hear the views of John Barton Payne, chairman of the Shipping Board, Wednesday.

The bill in question was introduced recently by Representative Green of Massachusetts, chairman of the Merchant Marine Committee, and while it has not been formally acted upon it embodies the views of the majority members of the committee.

The essential features of the bill are the following:

Repeal of all emergency shipping legislation and cancellation of all the extraordinary powers conferred upon the President for the requisitioning of ships, wharves and other property.

Repeal of the power to control ocean freights and charters.

Discontinuance of the housing activities of the Shipping Board.

Consolidation of all remaining functions of the Emergency Fleets Corporation with the Shipping Board.

Sale of the huge fleet of ships on a basis of extended payments up to ten years with provision for the acceptance of mortgages by the board.

Instructions to the board to make no further investments in new ships or plants and to endeavor to withdraw as quickly as possible from all investments and to turn the money into the treasury.

Return of all requisitioned property to the owners.

Another measure which has been under consideration by the committee for some time is designed to give ship mortgages precedence over liens for repairs which have priority under present laws.

GOOD CARS

Dealing in good used cars has enabled the Leach Biltwell Company to less than two years to build up a business against selling one million dollars a year in used cars. From one store to three stores. From two salesmen to eight salesmen. This is a result of honest dealing and well-selected cars. We have the largest stock of Cadillacs, Studebaker autos and Buicks as well as other standard makes, carried in this city. You will profit by looking over their stock before buying.

FOR SALE—

TEN-ACRE
ALMOND ORCHARDS.

By our co-operative development plan, for a cash investment of $2500, part in cash and the balance in monthly payments of $25, you may own in 3 to 5 years a ten-acre almond orchard of your own that will net you each year more than your cash investment. We know this because our experts, who have been developing almond orchards in the Paso Robles district for the past few years, have proven it to be a fact. These same experts will select your nursery stock, plant your trees, cultivate your ground, and give your orchard the proper attention and will spare no expense to obtain the best results. We now own the land and we know that it is the very best in the Paso Robles district, containing all those properties necessary to the culture of the almond.
We take one-half the purchase price out of the crop. WE ABSOLUTELY GUARANTEE YOU A FULL STAND OF BEARING TREES and the Title Insurance and Trust Company of Los Angeles is ready to issue a policy guaranteeing it.
If you are looking for a 100 per cent. investment and are willing to wait a few years without returns, then we do receive 100 per cent. returns, investigate who we are and what we have. We have an illustrated booklet explaining our plan in detail and we welcome investigation.

but that they were perhaps instrumental in bringing about his assassination by creating hatred against him. Poston is said to have harbored an old grudge against Clark.

The packing-house foreman was killed by a double load of buckshot fired at him through an open door of the Azusa Foothill Citrus Association's packing-house about 5:30 p.m., Saturday, while Mr. Clark was conversing with Alonzo Carter, foreman of the association's lemon house. Mr. Carter caught a fleeting glimpse of the murderer, and declares that he is rather tall, white, roughly dressed, and about 50 years of age.

The Sheriff's office was called upon yesterday to send a number of deputies into the Red Star oil field, near Whittier, to protect oil properties from bombing and incendiarism threatened by I.W.W.'s a few days ago after a bomb was found near a tank in an adjacent oil field.

In addition to the deputy sheriffs who are patrolling the oil fields in question, the oil refining companies have employed large numbers of special watchmen to keep the I.W.W.'s at a safe distance from their holdings.

The citrus groves of the San Gabriel Valley and the oil fields of the Montebello and Whittier districts are just now being subjected to a reign of terror far worse than that which prevailed a year ago, when it was necessary to deport large numbers of I.W.W.'s and Russian agitators that the harmonious conduct of the work of harvesting oranges and lemons might continue.

The "wobblies" are now said to be going through the orchards, driving long brass nails into the fruit trees for the purpose of killing them and bombs are being planted in the oil fields. Meanwhile the government is spreading the net for the biggest I.W.W. round-up ever conducted in Southern California, according to reports emanating from the Federal Building.

MISSOURIANS TO MEET.

The Missouri State Society will meet at 8 p.m., Friday, in Forum Hall, 203 Mercantile place.

POSTPONE MEETING.

The meeting of the Alliance Francaise, scheduled for tomorrow evening, has been postponed on account of the death of the brother of Lieut. Wiersbicki, who was to speak.

NO TOURS THIS WEEK.

The gallery tours announced to be given by Miss Alma May Cook this afternoon and tomorrow afternoon, at Exposition Park, in connection with the tenth annual exhibition of the California Art Club, in the Museum of History, Science and Art, will be omitted this week. The exhibition will be open to the public until October 31.

RED ELEMENT RIDES UNIONS.

Garment Workers Dominated by Radical Minority.

Provide Bail for an I.W.W. Suspect; Agent Asks It.

Workers Criticise Action of Their Representative.

That local labor unions are permitting the radical element to dominate them is forcefully indicated by the fact that officials of the Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, Local No. 52, it became known yesterday, deposited $2000 bail to secure liberation from the County Jail of Julius Menken, a striking garment worker, who was arrested in a raid here two weeks ago on suspicion of being an active member of the I. W.W.

Sixteen hundred dollars in cash and $400 in Liberty Bonds were deposited in Department Seventeen of the Superior Court Thursday by Morris Biell, business agent of the union, to get Menken out. All this money is reported to have been raised among members of the union at a special meeting Wednesday night.

GIRL CONTRIBUTES.

In addressing this meeting, which was attended by thirty or forty of the 330 members of the union, Biell is said to have told the garment workers that Menken had to be bailed out if it cost the union $10,000. One young woman who draws from $28 to $30 a week in the garment factories, is reported to have contributed $500 to the fund, while others tossed in from $25 to $50 each. It was pointed out that unless the bail money could be raised by free will offerings it would have to be secured through a special assessment upon all members of the union, members of the organization declare.

Biell is said to have leanings toward the I.W.W., and to be a member of the Socialist Labor party, as well as business agent of the union, and garment workers who are not in sympathy with the movement make the assertion that he is trying to affiliate the Ladies' Garment Workers' Union with the I.W.W. Although 90 per cent. of the workers are against such affiliation, they appear to be powerless to prevent it, since the voting power lies with the thirty or forty radicals who regularly attend meetings of the union.

TROUBLE STARTS.

This union has been organized for seven years. Fifty per cent. of the members are American girls and men, the others are Jews and Russians. During the last six years, or until Biell became business representative, there was comparatively no trouble. The members paid 25 cents a week dues, and got along very well, settling any disputes they had satisfactorily without having to strike, but with the advent of Biell the trouble immediatley started, the workers say. The headquarters were moved from serviceable rooms on South Broadway to a more showy location on Spring street. The expenses of the management have increased until there is talk of raising the due to 50 cents a week.

WOMAN ENDS LIFE.

Despondent Wife of Well-known Attorney Kills Herself.

Despondent because of sickness, Mrs. Rosa B. Curtin, 35 years of age, of 811 South Mariposa avenue, wife of John T. Curtin, well-known local attorney, and former police sergeant, early yesterday morning ended her life by shooting herself in the chest. Mrs. Curtin was dead when doctors, called by Mr. Curtin, arrived.

Mrs. Curtin was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lindenfeld and the sister of Hattie, N. J. and Frank Lindenfeld, Jr., Mrs. Charles D. Block and Mrs. Leona Dixon of Los Angeles, and of Mrs. V. B. Andreas of El Paso.

Funeral services will be conducted at 9:15 a.m. Tuesday at the residence, to be followed by solemn requiem mass in Cathedral Chapel at 9:45 a.m. Burial will be private. The body is at the funeral establishment of Cunningham & O'Connor.

A Glimpse of the Crowd and Some of the Exhibits at Live-Stock Show.

JUDGING HOLDS CROWDS.

Stock Show Throngs View Prize Animals; Grading Starts Today.

Grading in the saddle horses, runners and jumpers, polo ponies, California stock horses and other classes will be the feature of the Los Angeles Livestock show today. The show opened Saturday and thousands of people from all parts of Southern California attended then and yesterday. The horse racing, which is expected to attract a large number of persons, will start full blast today.

Several thousand people filed through the canvas-topped sheds yesterday to see the horses, cattle, poultry and swine. The judges were on duty, awarding prizes, and this proved extremely interesting to the crowd.

The poultry exhibit, said to be the best ever seen in this city, attracted a large percentage of the visitors, and exhibitors were kept busy answering the questions of the admiring throng. The exhibit is not limited to Southern California birds and a large number of thoroughbred chickens that won prizes at Madison Square Garden, New York, are on view.

In the saddle division of the show, class three roadsters will be graded today. This will mark the opening of the horse grading. Class one, three-gaited mares or geldings, must have good conformation, quality and manners and a good way of going at a walk, trot and canter; prizes aggregating $125 will be awarded this class.

Class two, five-gaited stallions, mares or geldings, to be judged by conformation, quality, manners and way of going. Must show five distinct gaits, a free walk, a slow gait, square trot, easy canter, single foot or rack; $125 is to be awarded in this class.

Class twelve, California stock horses, mares or geldings, to be shown with stock saddle, and to be judged by their performance and ability to do the work expected of cow horses; must be well-reined and well-mannered.

Uhlan, the world's champion trotter, owned by C. K. G. Billings, millionaire horse breeder of Santa Barbara, will be on exhibition today. Lou Dillon, the world's greatest trotting mare, will also be at the show this week and will show her ability as a trotting horse, though no attempt will be made to break any record.

There was no horse racing yesterday and the thousands who attended the show expressed their disappointment, but the management is making preparations to have some excellent races today and the remainder of the week. A band concert and vocal music added to the attractions yesterday afternoon and the large tent reserved for the band was crowded all afternoon. The band concerts will be daily affairs.

CHILDREN TO SEE BIG SHOW.

Two Hundred and Fifty will be "Taken Through" in Special Parties.

Farm Adviser Hodgson announced yesterday that arrangements have been completed whereby 250 school children, selected by the department of vocational education of the Los Angeles city schools, headed by W. S. Kienholz, will be the joint guests of the Farm Bureau, the Live-Stock Show management and the California Dairy Council, at the big stock show at Exposition Park.

These children will be taken through in parties of fifty each, under the supervision of the farm adviser's office, each morning, beginning today, and will have opportunity to see what is undoubtedly going to be the best live-stock show ever held in the West.

HIT AT ACCIDENTS.

Railroads Would Eliminate Them; Set Time in Which to do It.

According to a statement issued yesterday by the director-general of railroads, the "No-Accident Week" campaign held during the week of June 22, in the Central Western region, comprising 55,000 miles of track and 327,000 employees, shows the following gratifying results. Out of the sixty-seven railroads in this region forty-seven, or seventy per cent, had a 100 per cent. clear accident record. The region showing was: June 22 to 28, 1918, 456 casualties; June 22 to 28, 1919, 100 casualties; a casualty decrease of seventy-eight per cent.

Director-General Hines and W. T. Tyler, director, division of operation, Railroad Administration, have designated the two weeks beginning October 18 as a second period in which a "national accident prevention drive" will be held on every American railroad under Federal control.

JAMMED UNDER FENDER.

Struck down by a street car while attempting to cross at First street and Broadway late yesterday afternoon, Fred Hickok, 45 years of age, of 671 South Main street, was jammed beneath the fender of the car and sustained a fracture of the right leg and other injuries.

COUGHS UP BULLET THAT "KILLED" HIM.

ANGELENO, OFFICIALLY DEAD, DISGORGES MISSILE YEAR AFTER IT HIT HIM.

Sunday morning, just a year, a month and a day after a German sniper's bullet cut through his marine uniform into his right lung and officially "killed" him, Donald C. Norton, a clerk in a pharmacy at 6176 Santa Monica boulevard, coughed up the missile.

Mr. Norton was cited by the French government for bravery in caring for wounded under fire, and was awarded the Croix de Guerre with bronze star. He was a Naval Hospital Corps man attached to Company Seventy-eight, Sixth Regiment, United States Marines.

An official citations volume issued by the War Department states that the young man was killed in action September 15. As a matter of fact he cheated death three times on that one day. First the sniper's bullet found him, but did not kill him. Then a German counter-attack drove him to a shell hole. Third, two ambulances set out for the base hospital, and the one ahead of him, with its freight of wounded, was annihilated by a German shell.

But Donald Norton is very much alive. Even after he coughed up the bullet responsible for his official demise, he continued at his work. His employer, George C. Pearson, said yesterday.

"I couldn't believe it as first, but it was a bullet, all right. It was over an inch long, and as sharp and smooth and straight, probably, as when it was fired. The base was crumpled, and a bit of blackened tissue attached to it."

The druggist's wife, and Sidney and Marie Bannon, friends of Norton and the Pearsons, were in the store at the time.

"If they hadn't been I wouldn't even have tried to make anyone believe that such a thing happened," laughed Mr. Norton. He had been examined with a fluoroscope at the evacuation hospital, he said, and the doctors told him that the bullet passed between his fourth and fifth ribs, through his lung, and was lodged in his back, five inches behind the place it entered. He feels a little lighter now that the bullet is out, he says. Mr. Norton lives at 1211 Tamarind avenue.

TWO YOUNG BANDITS HOLD UP MERCHANT.

Armed with heavy revolvers, but wearing no masks, two youthful Mexicans yesterday afternoon held up Abe Cartman at his dry goods store at 134 North Main street, and secured $22.50.

The two bandits, according to Cartman, entered the store while he was alone and asked to see a sweater. While he was getting one the two men drew revolvers and ordered him to throw up his hands. One of the bandits then robbed the cash register and the two fled.

AUTOIST SCORNS WARNING, KILLS.

Crashes Through Red Lights, Hits Track Worker.

Walnut Growers' Secretary is Released on Bail.

Police to Ask for Complaint Charging Manslaughter.

Charged with suspicion of manslaughter, W. T. Webber, 35 years of age, of 1026 Orange street, secretary of the California Walnut Growers' Association, was locked in the City Jail early yesterday morning, following the death of E. L. Mullen, a Pacific Electric track worker, who was killed when hit by Webber's automobile near Seventh street and Maple avenue. The police say Mr. Webber drove his automobile through a string of red lights and Mullen was struck while working on the street car track. Late yesterday afternoon Attorney Thomas P. White secured the release of the prisoner under $2000 bond.

Police investigators state that Mr. Webber, driving his own automobile, was returning from a country club with Mrs. Lavy Banda Woolrich of 1515 North St. Andrews' place, Miss Margaret Kellar of 834 Golden avenue, and John C. Leonard of Mecca. Witnesses told the police that Mullen, with a second track worker, was seated in the middle of the street working on the car tracks, surrounded by a string of red lanterns.

Driving his automobile at a high rate of speed, Mr. Weber, the police say, ran over the red lights and struck Mullen with the right fender and lamp of his machine. The street car man was hurled to one side by the force of the blow. Rushed to the Crocker-street Hospital for treatment, the injured man died a short time later.

At Central Police Station Mr. Webber told the police that he did not know that he had struck anything with the automobile. He stated, however, that he knew he had driven through the red lights. Mr. Webber was examined by police surgeons for intoxication and was declared sober.

Although Mr. Webber was released on bail late yesterday, the police refused to turn over his automobile, which is being held as evidence. An inquest will be held today over Mullen's body. Police officers say they will ask the District Attorney to issue a complaint charging Mr. Webber with manslaughter.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN PEDRO, Oct. 19.—Amando Beltran, who lived in a cabin in the rear of 235 Beacon street suffered a compound fracture of the right leg this morning during a fight with Edouard Encinas while both were intoxicated. He also was cut in the forehead, evidently as a result of a blow from a club. He was taken to the local Emergency Hospital and later removed to the County Hospital at Los Angeles.

ON THE TRAIL OF THE "REDS."

Describes Land as Beautiful One of Dire Distress.

Was "Nearest" Front When the Bolshevik Came.

Comparing the scenic wonders of Siberia with the natural grandeurs of California and describing narrow escapes from the clutches of the Bolsheviki, a letter from Miss Reba Dobson, formerly of Los Angeles and now a Red Cross nurse at Tomsk, was received yesterday by Mrs. S. C. Sterritt, 331 West Forty-seventh street. Mrs. Sterritt, who is superintendent of the Industrial School for Girls in Honolulu and who is now on leave of absence, visiting her sister, Mrs. C. B. Hyden, in Los Angeles, was a member of the Honolulu committee on Red Cross nursing service and, in that capacity, passed on the qualifications of Miss Dobson when the latter applied for a position as a Red Cross nurse. Miss Dobson describes as unthinkably horrible the conditions in practically every section of Bolshevik-ridden Russia. Her letter, in part, follows.

"I was on duty at Russian Island for two days when I received orders to leave on a certain train and report at Omsk headquarters. We had a delightful journey across Siberia, in spite of difficulties encountered. The wonderful wild flowers and beautiful woods along the way reminded me of the glories of certain parts of the United States, especially of California, even when we were skirting the Gobi Desert. We saw many caravans crossing the desert and the Chinese look very much like our American Indians and wore gorgeous brocaded silks. Lake Baikal is beautiful beyond description. They told us that Irkutsk is the paradise of Siberia, but I think Tomsk is far cleaner and more picturesque. For a couple of hours we were at Harbin, another interesting place.

"We made the trip from Vladivostok to Omsk in twenty days, the best time ever made by a Red Cross train. We came through without guards, but in certain parts we had armored trains ahead of us. We saw many evidences of where the Bolsheviki had been and also saw a station they burned, the ruins of which were still smouldering when we arrived. Czechs are guarding the railroad nearly all the way to Omsk. At Omsk I received orders to report for duty at Cheliabinsk, which, politically, is in European Russia, but territorially in Siberia. The hospital building consists of an immense immigration station and is ideally located for the care of the wounded. It was the nearest to the front that the American Red Cross has ever been. What the place will resemble when the Bolsheviki have finished with it, I would be hard to say. We had to hasten away because of the report that the Bolsheviki were advancing on the city.

"We went to Omsk for a few days

The People and Their Troubles

DOROTHY DIX TALKS

Do Men Idealize Their Wives?

BY DOROTHY DIX.

In a recent book in which he discusses the phenomena of love in man, a learned psychologist says:

"Unless a man believes with all his heart and soul that the woman for whom he cares is the most beautiful, the most wonderful and exquisite creature in the whole world, he does not really love her and has not let her take complete possession of his mind, his imagination and his senses."

These fateful and ominous words, the dictum of one who has spent years studying this subject, will send every married woman hot-foot to her looking-glass, and what she sees there will leave her wondering whether she should call in the services of an alienist for her husband or beat him in a race to the divorce court.

For facts are facts, and there is no use in blinking them. Mirrors do not lie, and if her husband thinks she is the most beautiful, the most wonderful, the most exquisite creature in the whole world he is indubitably looney.' And, according to the psychologist, if he does not think her a Lillian Russell and Billie Burke and Maude Adams he doesn't love her.

For the average married woman doesn't kid herself into thinking that she is either beautiful, wonderful or exquisite. She realizes with a fatal certitude that so far as being a living picture she is more like the "before taking" portrait in a patent medicine advertisement, and that no judge of female pulchritude would even give her a look in at a beauty show.

The vast majority of women know their own number pretty accurately and have no illusions about their having charms they do not possess. Nor are they under the delusions that they have their husbands so hypnotized that the gentlemen do not see them as they are.

The woman with a feather bed figure, and tripple chin, does not imagine herself a svelte goddess, nor does she believe for a single moment that her husband thinks her as willowy and graceful as a beauty show at the Follies.

These women are well aware that if their husbands had imaginations so active that they saw slimness and golden tresses and peaches and cream complexions where there was fat and grizzled hair, and dullness, that poor hubby was the victim of a hallucination that was bound to land him in the padded cell of a lunatic asylum.

Thus the theory that a man who truly loves must see a woman as she does not exist, and a tribute to her qualities she does not have, will fill women with horror and dismay. It leaves them no alternative between marrying men who are, so to speak, "bug house," or else marrying men who, seeing them as mere human, faulty females can only give them a pale, luke warm affection that no wife would really want.

Undoubtedly the idealistic faculty is more highly developed in men than it is in women. All of the great poets and prophets have been men. It is men who have referred to women as angels and thrown a halo of romance about the female sex.

Still, while men have liked to look at women as a whole through the rosy medium of their fancy, it is doubtful if they have ever idealized the individual woman particularly, or that any man has ever thought his own wife a paragon of perfection.

Most men lack an imagination robust enough to do this. Beside which men, as a sex, are taught to see straight, and to judge accurately. There are certain standards of beauty and intelligence that a woman must meet to be rated a good looker, or clever, and unless a woman can, in the slang of the day, deliver the goods, no man is going to think her a Venus or a Minerva, no matter how much he might like to.

To a sane mind it would seem impossible for a man not to me able to distinguish between a sallow complexion and a rose-leaf skin, between averdupois and willowness; between sympathy and narrowness; between broad culture and stupidity; between subtlety and commonplaceness. For a man not to be able to tell which woman possesses each of these characteristics is, indeed, to believe that love is blind. Also daffy.

Yet all these women get married and have apparently devoted husbands. And the women who are beautiful, wonderful and exquisite land in the divorce court quite as often as their homely, heavy, dull sisters.

It does not follow that because a man thinks a woman pretty that he falls in love with her, for beauty often leaves the heart untouched. Nor does it necessarily follow that a man would prefer a Dresden china woman to one whom he perceived to be good serviceable delft. The very exquisiteness of a woman may repel instead of attract a man. That isn't the type of wife they admire or desire. All human experience goes to prove that it is not necessary to idealize an individual in order to love him or her. On the contrary, the very blessedness of love is that it can realize all the faults and defects in the one it loves, and still love on.

No. The love that lasts is not built on delusions. It says, "with all thy faults I love thee still," and "a poor thing, but mine own."

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Q.: If a white woman marries a member of an Indian tribe, does she legally become a member of the tribe and entitled to tribal rights? F. W. C.

A.: She becomes a member of the tribe, and is entitled to share as though she were Indian-born.

Q.: Who was responsible for the purchase of supplies for the navy? T. W. S.

A.: Rear-Admiral Samuel McGowan, chief of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, was purchasing agent for the navy during the war. He had been in the Paymaster Corps for twenty years, having advanced through all the grades. Before that he was a newspaper reporter in South Carolina.

Q.: Has the Papal Envoy to America any ambassadorial powers, and to what extent does he use them? J. M.

A.: The Monsignor assigned to Washington has no ambassadorial powers and is not recognised by this government.

Q.: What will soften the shell of an egg so it can be squeezed through the neck of a small bottle without breaking? E. W. W.

A.: This may be accomplished by the use of acetic acid or very strong vinegar.

Q.: How many colored soldiers were there in the recent world war? C. T. M.

A.: There were over 400,000 negro soldiers from the United States in the late war, nearly one-half of whom were sent overseas.

LETTERS TO "THE TIMES"

Badly Mixed.

MONROVIA, Oct. 14.—[To the Editor of The Times:] A vast amount of misrepresentation, it would seem, has been indulged in in this great League of Nations controversy. The President, among other things, told us that not until the peace treaty was signed could we expect to do business in the markets of the world. A few days later the daily press reported a speech in the British Parliament advising Englishmen to get busy if they wanted to secure their share of the world's commerce, for America not only had thousands of salesmen in the field, but had already booked hundreds of millions of dollars worth of business.

Mr. Wilson said the women of our country were too patriotic to object to the mandatory exactions of the league and in substantiation of his statement quoted from a letter received from a woman in California that she was proud to have her sons in Russia. On the same day that this speech was made an Associated Press dispatch informed us that a Los Angeles woman was in Washington and, in the absence of the President, called on Secretary Baker with a petition signed by 25,000 women praying for the speedy return of "our boys" now fighting in Siberia.

In another speech the President quoted Theodore Roosevelt as being in favor of a league to preserve peace. How many of his auditors, do you suppose, would believe that Mr. Roosevelt would indorse or give his support to the League of Nations without amendment or reservations, as the President would have it ratified? I doubt if the President believes it himself.

The President told us that from the vast assemblages that had greeted him he was convinced that a vast majority of the people were in favor of the League of Nations. Then along comes Senator Johnson, who, according to the press reports, attracted equally as great audiences and received just as much applause as was accorded Mr. Wilson.

And now we are confronted with the illusive straw-vote argument and telegrams of assurance to Washington from leading citizens and various committees that cities, States and societies are solidly in favor of the league covenant without reservations, whereas such statements are invariably unauthorized, as is evidenced by the statement of Mrs. Charles F. Gray, published October 5, denying the right of the State president of the California Mothers' and Parent-Teacher Association to speak for its 26,000 members. And as to the straw votes, if they showed which way the wind blew Charles Evans Hughes would have carried California and the election of 1916.

LOS ANGELES, O
Mr. A. G. Bartlett,
President of the City
Investment Institu
Los Angeles, Cal.
Dear Sir:

The inclosed editorial from the Los Angeles Times to date, you doubtless have seen. I am sure it expresses the views which you have had occasion nail squarely on the head in reference to the cause of pictures that are produced.

This editorial has expressed thoughts that have been and are recurring to the minds of thinking people daily for weeks and what better medium than the City Club could be found to begin a campaign of education? I thought therefore, it would appeal to me that the time is now ripe and it would receive the hearty support of the press generally and particularly of the paper that prints this editorial.

I do not mean to suggest or lay out the line of action that your club would undertake, but I not make some practical suggestions as to undertaking such a campaign?

You know the views of Miss Kerrigan, film producer, and understand would express this movement and has already brought there as one of the speakers on the subject.

Then I also have in mind John S. McGroarty who wrote the beautiful and recently staged production, "The Mission Play," and who is a prominent gentleman and who I believe would be a great factor in helping to put on such campaign.

Then also it might be well to have one of your appointed committees to undertake to investigate and make report on.

Positively I cannot think of any single campaign which the City Club could undertake which would be more far-reaching and more sustained, especially as it would be less the center of the world's moving-picture producers are.

It also occurs to me that Mary Pickford, whose patriotism has been without question, I believe, along lines of influencing social atmosphere, and could be induced to come before the City Club and help to carry out the campaign suggested.

There is no doubt but that the City Club is a factor of influence to make a real and lasting impression on the moving picture industry should undertake to institute a campaign of education and crystalize the sentiment of the community to the end that lasting results would follow.

Yours respectfully,

seems incredible that nearly a year has passed since the signing of the armistice and yet the peace treaty has not been adopted. Of course, we know that it is a difference of opinion concerning certain features of the League of Nations which has caused the delay. While it was inevitable that there would be wide differences in judgment concerning some of the things in the covenant, yet so thoroughly have these matters been explained and discussed there is now a manifest impatience on the part of the people, patriots, and a widespread feeling that there should be no further delay.

President Wilson's great tactical error in violating the traditions and customs of the nation in precedent of the United States Senate in taking a part in the peace treaty negotiations in Paris, is the unmistakable reason for the delay. There are certain things which should have been left out, or incorporated in the League of Nations, which, if done, would of the peace tablewould have removed all the disputations unnecessary. The Senate has refused to rubber-stamp the action of the commissioners' conclusions. In a democracy it is always wise as well as a matter to give the representatives of the people their full share of responsibility and honor.

Though there are inconsistencies and defects in the covenant all must admit, even President Wilson himself, that as a working document it is infinitely better than the League of Nations, and it is conceded that all imperfections will be corrected by the league itself through its organizations.

Without any kind of a league is better than no league, for it will be a starting point for the creation of a parliament of nations, or a federation of the world. While it is probably inexpedient to make any amendments to be made to the document as it now stands, it is no doubt be most wise to follow Mr. Taft's statesmanlike suggestion that our acceptation of the treaty should be accompanied by a clear interpretive statement that the United States understands certain paragraphs in the treaty to mean.

ashamed of California's representatives in the United States Senate. Both the treaty of peace and the covenant of the nations should be ratified at once, without reservation," declared Mr. Blight, "for upon their ratification rests the hope of the world. The amendment proposed jeopardizes the interest of the world's recognition upon a basis of justice. This is true, for one, am convinced that the amendments are not being offered by patriotic, high-visioned men, I believe, on the contrary, that they are purely obstructionist tactics put forward by partisan politicians for selfish purposes. If the minority of the Senate succeed in preventing the adoption of the treaty and the League of Nations covenant, they will have been guilty of perhaps the greatest crime in history." Mr. Blight pointed out that the formal signing of the treaty does not mean the actual end of the war, and that it would place this country in a position to assume friendly relationship with the Central Powers, and that the solving of the many social and industrial problems of the world depends upon the amicable settlement of international relations. He declared that, in case of failure of the Senate to ratify the two documents the bankruptcy of Europe will react to the financial disadvantage of all the people of Jesus came into the world to seek and to save. There have always been men and women who would not have Him, even though it cost them their lives to do so. He is one who gave his life for those who were in rebellion against Him. He came to save sinners, to cleanse the world of filthiness and sin, to dispel the darkness of doubt, and to give life to those who were dead in trespasses and sins.

The world was weary-hearted and sin-sick, their thirst unsatisfied, their souls were sick with sin and were groping and staggering on the very edge of the abyss of despair. The old prophet Job voiced their soul longings, 'Oh, that I knew where I might find Him.' And the world's rejoicing response came. He is worthy of our confidence and unhesitating acceptance.

POMONA AND HARVARD TO EXCHANGE STAFFS.

LOCAL COLLEGE TO HAVE BENEFIT OF EASTERN PROFESSORS; SEEK CONVENTION.

Harvard University has honored Pomona College by selecting it as one of six institutions for an exchange of professors, Pomona being the only one on the Pacific Coast to profit by this arrangement which comes as a recognition by the universities of the East of the high standing of the college. This year Harvard will be represented at Pomona by Prof. Edward C. Moore, who has spent the past year in a responsible position in the Near East.

The lectureship established by the Joseph H. Johnson Foundation, the gift of Miss Ellen Scripps of San Diego, has already made the college distinctive in the series of lectures by noted scholars.

President Blaisdell left last Wednesday for Grand Rapids as a delegate to the National Council of the Congregational Churches of America. The council assembles biennially and will be invited to hold its next meeting here.

Maj. Wesley F. Ayer of Schofield Barracks, Hawaii, has just arrived to be professor of military science and tactics for the Reserve Officers' Training Corps at the college. Maj. Ayer, who is a graduate of Beloit College, will take the place of Maj. Vogdes, who for the past two years has served as the commanding officer of the Students' Army Training Corps and R.O.T.C. at the college.

FOR POLAND'S NEEDY.

Help is Asked of America by Wife of Pianist-President.

An earnest plea for food and clothing for the destitute children of Poland is contained in a letter received yesterday from Mrs. Helene Paderewski, wife of the famous pianist-president, by Mrs. Frank Baierski, secretary of the local Relief Society for the War Sufferers of Poland. The letter, in part, is as follows:

"I wish to thank you for the beautiful gift which you sent for the Polish White Cross and for the souvenir of my work in your sunny land. We have all a great deal of work before us, work not only for hospitals and canteens but, before all, for the unfortunate children of our refugees, who are just returning from all parts of the world, homeless and destitute. The situation is a tragic one. Every day poor mothers are begging me to accept in my nurseries and schools from three to six of their children, as they have not bread sufficient for one. We have a big nursery where we are keeping the little ones belonging to mothers lying ill in our hospitals with spotted typhus. Every day I must dress scores of children who I am not able to keep, but who at least should look neat and clean before starting on their longer journey. I speak of these things because I know that not only Polish but also American hearts are deeply moved by children's sufferings."

and then came on to Tomsk, in which city we are now located in one of the buildings of the University of Siberia. We have a beautiful view, but one can't live on views and it is absolutely impossible to buy anything here excepting a little meat, butter, eggs and a very few vegetables. It was not so bad at Vladivostok. Many of the stores have closed their doors. There are two stores here I am anxious to visit—they are places where people take things and leave them to be sold. It seems dangerous to own anything or, if one does, to dispose of his property in ordinary ways. I am writing this letter by candle light. There are electric lights here, but they are on only from 9 to 11 p.m."

SUN DRUG COMPANY HAS A BIRTHDAY.

NEW SYSTEM OF MANAGEMENT ANNOUNCED BY I. EISNER, THE PRESIDENT.

Celebrating its eighteenth birthday, the Sun Drug Company will hold a number of unusual events this week, in appreciation of its patrons' part in building this large local enterprise, and to show the 350 employees some measure of the firm's deep regard for their loyalty and energy.

The Sun Drug Company has been a strong factor in the business fabric of Southern California since it was organized, October 21, 1901, when the chain consisted of but six stores. Since that day the concern has kept pace with the city's growth, with the result that it is now numbered among the important chain-store organizations of America. Fourteen metropolitan stores, embodying every modern facility and convenience, are now serving the residents of Los Angeles, Long Beach and Pasadena with merchandise of the highest type, gathered from the four corners of the earth.

Beginning Monday the Sun stores will begin a celebration event, in which the public will share, to their profit, and on Friday next the Sunrise Club, consisting of employees of the Sun Drug Company, will hold a big birthday party. An interesting feature of the anniversary is the publication of an elaborate edition of the Sun Dial, the company's house organ, several thousand copies of which will be mailed to Southern California business men who are interested in the progress of local enterprise.

Previous to his departure for New York, yesterday, I. Eisner, president of the Sun Drug Company, inaugurated a new system of management, to take effect with the firm's new year of business. A committee, consisting of H. A. McKenna, general manager; Joseph Kramer, superintendent; B. V. Sanderson, auditor; Dan Cohen, buyer, and George O. Jenner, advertising manager, has been appointed to meet weekly and consider all matters which affect the welfare of the employees and the promotion of the business. The results of these conferences will be passed on to the board of directors for final action. Through this connecting link it is hoped to bring the whole organization into even closer harmony than has heretofore existed.

Oil Has Been Struck in New Mexico

The McGee Well, North and East of the Leases I Advertised for Sale in Yesterday's Times, is Spouting Half a Million Feet of Gas and One Hundred Barrels of Oil a Day.

A long-distance telephone message received last night from the field stated that the McGEE well is now flowing at the rate of 100 BARRELS A DAY. The oil and gas have been cased off and drilling is being pushed through to the sand. Great excitement is said to prevail in Santa Rosa and Tucumcari at the prospect of a big gusher being brought in.

Just before going to press the following wire was received:

Tucumcari, N. M., Oct. 19, 1918.

The OHIO GYPSEY OIL COMPANY, whose acreage adjoins our leases on the north, is down over 1800 feet. To the east of the OHIO GYPSEY and south of the COSDEN OIL COMPANY'S holdings is the McGEE well. It adjoins the holdings of the Cosden Oil Company, who is one of our neighbors.

This advertisement is to notify my friends and clients who have purchased leases from me to hold same regardless of any offers that you may receive. If you have to sell—come and see me.

My office is at your service. Call at any time for information regarding the developments of the oil companies surrounding my leases.

NEWS of the McGEE WELL COMING IN arrived in this office too late to use my advertisement in Sunday's Times; however, I WILL HONOR EVERY COUPON clipped from my advertisement in Sunday's Times at the price advertised so long as leases last.

First Come—First Served.

Writes to City Club.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.

Mr. A. G. Bartlett,
President of the City Club,
Investment Building,
Los Angeles, Cal.

Dear Sir:

The inclosed editorial from the Los Angeles Times of date, you doubtless have read. I am sure it expresses the views which you have had, and hit the nail squarely on the head in reference to the class of pictures that are produced.

This editorial has expressed thoughts that have been constantly recurring to the minds of thinking people daily for some time, and what better undertaking than the City Club engage in the work, to begin a campaign of crystallizing the thought therein expressed. It seems to me that the time is now ripe and it would receive the hearty backing of the press generally and particularly of the paper that published this editorial.

I do not mean to undertake to lay out the line of campaign your club would undertake, but I not make some general suggestions as to undertaking such campaign?

You know the standing of Mr. Kerrigan, film producer, and understand would sympathize with this movement and he might be brought there as one of the speakers on the subject.

Then I also have in mind John S. McGroarty who wrote the beautiful and most successful staged production, "The Pilgrim," and who is a versatile man and who I believe would be a great factor in helping us on such campaign.

Then also it might be a good one of your appropriate committees to undertake to investigate and make report on.

Positively I cannot think of any single campaign which the City Club could undertake with such wide and far-reaching results to be obtained, especially as this is to be the center of the world's moving-picture producers and actors.

It also occurs to me that Mrs. Pickford, whose place has been without exception the best I believe, along lines of cultural atmospheric, and she might be induced to come before the City Club and help to carry out the campaign suggested.

There is no doubt but that the City Club is a factor of force to make a real and lasting impression on the moving picture world, and should undertake to really execute a campaign of this kind, crystalize the sentiment of the community to the end that some lasting results would obtain.

Yours respectfully,
L. R. WEAD.

"Our Lord prayed for this government when He prayed 'Thy Kingdom come Thy will be done on earth as in Heaven.' Paul also says 'God will gather in one all things in Christ both which are in Heaven and which are on earth.' But we do not believe that this golden age fortold by Jesus and the prohpets will be brought about by Socialism. With selfishness as the dominant life motive, as it is at present, Socialism is impracticle and doomed to failure. Christ alone can establish a Kingdom that will assure universal and everlasting happiness and peace.

"He came to seek and to save of unrighteousness. Because of Adam's sin of disobedience we were all condemned in Father Adam. Natural Law says 'to remove the effect take away the cause.' Christ died as a corresponding price for Adam and thus received power to remove the effects of Adam's sin.

"He came to seek and ot save that which was lost. A perfect home with peace and happiness was lost in Eden, Christ will restore this during His Messianic Reign."

"When Priscilla and her husband rode on the same horse she evidently rode in front, because we read in Romans xvi:3 and in I Timothy iv:19 the sacred writer mentions her and commends her before her husband.

"She has the distinction in scripture of taking aside a mighty orator by the name of Apollos and teaching him the way of the Lord more perfectly.

"We find also that she entered the services of the church in her own home. Priscilla was an energetic woman who knew how to manage both her household duties and the affairs of the church successfully she must have had in Bible langauge—within her a well of living water springing up unto everlasting life. It was this which enabled her to teach, entertain and enjoy a life of overflowing usefulness.

"Women, what God has done he can do again. God can come back. There are many Priscillas in Los Angeles and there is room for more such women."

UNIVERSITY METHODIST.

"Nature forever runs down hill. Its destiny is failure. The peak dwindles to the plain. The everlasting hills are rhetoric. There are no everlasting hills. Men die a little sooner and leave them standing. That is all. Inevitably the valley gathers the ranges to its heart to sleep in common dust.

"The boast of heraldry, the pomp of power,
And all that beauty, all that wealth e'er gave,
Await alike the inevitable hour—
The paths of glory lead but to the grave."

"When the Bible says that God 'unholdeth all things by the word of His power,' it simply means they cannot stand alone. Left to itself the very universe topples and falls.

"To avoid this law of gravitation men take care of their health. Else they pass sooner. They study to learn. If they do not they grow up fools. They guard their wealth. The other man gets it away, by and by, anyhow. They cultivate their kind. Even with that they lose more friends than they make when the final roll is read. 'In the name of God, amen.' Why should not men pay like attention to their souls? It would be only common sense.

"The American people need down brakes on Sabbath-breaking, graft, profanity, booze, plain lying, loose living and two or three things more. The churches are not silly in their struggle for the better. They are the friends of men. There is wreck ahead."

REV. E. F. DAUGHERTY.
FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

"The church for the times is the ideal church of the New Testament and no religious people of this age or any previous age have realized that ideal. Churches of all named and politics are reaching toward that ideal, doing valiant service for the needs of the day, have much that is grand and glorious among their imperfections—but not a one of them, in the fullest sense, is the church of the New Testament.

"Its only foundation is Jesus Christ, for other foundation can no man lay. In so stating the Apostle Paul meant that the incarnation of God in Christ was to be beneath the church, His will behind it, His spirit within it—and the life of all ages before it.

"Its rule of faith and practice is the Book. Creeds aside from the biblical are entirely superfluous, divisive, erroneous and inadequate. The New Testament is the law of life for the ideal, the Christian church. It is not a book of mechanics, but dynamics; not a literature of law, but of power, the power of God unto salvation for all who live by it.

"Its terms of membership are those prescribed in the New Testament. God allows differences in the religious world, that his people may answer the call to practice charity; and whoso lacks love toward men may have everything else in religious forms—but his lack of love disqualifies him for Christian acceptance and indorsement.

"It is a church of evangelistic zeal, universal sympathy, practical helpfulness and a loving Christ-like spirit. If it seems an institutional church, so much the better for out age, only that its gymnasiums, social galeties and athletic tournaments lose not the vital marks of Christianity.

"Christianity ultimately can tolerate no raceism, colorism, provincialism or sectism; it has been hard for men to believe in the saivation of any save their own race, color or creed—but in every nation the one fearing God and working righteouness is accepted of Him—though no a member of my church or yours."

REV. DAN A. TRUNDLE.
ALVARADO CHRISTIAN.

"Here in the twelfth chapter of Romans is a most charming summarily of Christian duty. The twenty-one brief verses contain thirty-seven distinct counts of telling importance, vivid varied, charmed logic, thrilling loftiness of appeal, dramatic comprehensiveness, convicingly conclusive it leaves nothing to be said in an introduction that sweeps upward and outward to gather in all the marvelous 'mercies of God' and concludes with a result that reaches that perfect dream in all its fullness—'be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good.' The spirit of sacrifice running through it all is definitely and ceaselesely at work giving the body 'a living sacrifice,' contrasted with the old which is dead; the proof of the spiritual value is its holiness, divine acceptability and perfectness of purpose and effort; the sacrifice is exalted beyond danger and contamination by earthly fashion by being constantly invigorated by the 'renewing of your minds;' the sacrifice is unifying the person of the Christian and the spirit of the whole by the ideal 'so we who are many are one body in Christ;' it gives the perfect attitude of the believer toward the world and enemies by giving such a code of conduct that hatred, the fodder upon which enemies are supported, will be entirely destroyed, hence enemies will disappear The perfect operation of perfect ideals inspired and supported by a perfect leader will usher in the dawn of the perfect day. Let us labor and pray to that end. No greater message was ever given to man. What a marvelous constitution for the guidance of our conduct!"

REV. ALDEN LEE HILD.
HIGHLAND PARK CHRISTIAN.

"The test of a man's greatness is not the amount of power he possesses, but it is the manner in which he uses that power. The omnipotent God has endowed us with many powers. The Apostle Paul declared that the gospel 'is the power of God unto salivation.' The gospel reveals Jesus Christ as the world's Savior; it brings an unconquerable faith and an abiding love for Him; it convicts of sin and leads to repentance; it transforms all, even the vilest; it reveals God's plans and purposes concerning us; it brings life more abundantly, both here and hereafter; truly, it is the power of God unto salvation. He has entrusted us with this wonderful power and expects us to make the proper use of it. Many are indifferent and make no use of it. Others gladly receive it as a means of selfish safety. And there are those who use it not for their good alone, but do their utmost to bring its blessings to others also. Use the gospel so that men will call you great and God will call you 'good and faithful servant.'"

REV. HOLLAND F. BURR.
FIRST CONGREGATIONAL.

"Is there a divinity in the everyday had we but eyes to behold it? When we see that every honest stroke of toil in factory and store, in office and school-room, in the household and on the farm contributes to the welfare of someone else, is there not then a zest in work, a feeling that we now are doing out bit for the good of the whole, each for all, and all for each? Every man has a sacred occupation if he is doing useful work in the right spirit. It is one of the blots on the escutcheon of modern industry that labor, at least a large part of labor, does not, and perhaps cannot see this.

"When we look at a large machine the fly-wheel is the one that attracts the most attention; but if the smallest cog-wheel gets lost or out of adjustment, it will interfere with the operation of the whole machine. So it is in this great machine of God's that we call the world. God has a place for each one of us. We can't all be fly-wheels; some of us have to be small cogs, and pretty small ones at that. But we are all of importance to the proper running of the machine. God has a purpose for the world. He has a purpose for each one of us as a part of that larger world-purpose. In so far as we fail to carry out God's plan for our lives, we obstruct the progress of His larger 'world-purpose.'"

REV. E. STANTON HODGIN.
FIRST UNITARIAN CHURCH.

"Canst thou by searching find out God? Canst thou find out the Almighty unto perfection?" Apparently man can find nothing perfect in the entire universe of life—not even a perfect God. Everything is moving on toward what we feel to be perfection, but nothing perfect exists.

"Man has been ever searching for an all-wise, all-powerful, all-just, all-loving God enthroned somewhere entirely apart from himself and humanity. He has found no such being except in the realm of his own imagination. If such a being could be found it would make man a superfluous being, it would take away all excuse for his existence. Such a divinity would fill every need and do everything for man, and man would have no place.

"It is the function of man to fulfill in himself that which he find unfulfilled anywhere else. The highest tribute that can possibly be paid to man is the recognition that he must in his life supply that which is lacking everywhere else. The fact that man cannot find outside humanity a just, loving and righteous being, makes it imperative that he himself fill that place and be just, loving and righteous to those about him. Because he cannot find a satisfactory God anywhere outside his own ideal, he must be such a God as far as in his power lies to those for whom he is responsible. As Matthew Arnold says,

"'Sits there no Judge in Heaven our sin to see?
"'More strictly then the inner Judge obey.'"

DR. C. ELLWOOD NASH.
UNIVERSALIST CHURCH.

"There has never been so much danger as now of losing the Christian vision and ideal. It is not by direct attack that they are jeopardized, though even that is not wanting. In an age without authority or reverence everybody sets up an opinion; lack of competency is no barrier to these off-hand judgments; and naturally they are influenced more by appearance than by substance.

"Always the world has worshipped success, but perhaps with some sense of ahame or with reservations. Now, practical efficiency is vaunted as itself all-sufficing. The pathetic spectacle of last summer of a man of undeniable genius in his line, whose accumulations have exceeded his own knowledge of them, breaking down before the simplest school-boy questions in history, language and political theory, was itself not so sad as the inevitable suggestion to callow minds, 'If he can mount so high without study, why should I trouble to go to school?' And this effect was the more perplexing, because he is also a man of humane and democratic disposition, with an ambition to use his power and resources to help on the cause of freedom and justice.

"Efficiency is itself a kind of religion; it is employing our God-given faculties in the God-ordained way. And one has a right to feel that his life has not been in vain who has learned to do any worthwhile thing in a thoroughly skillful way. It is this logic which increases the difficulty of commanding the still higher life. The good is the enemy of the best. Where there is so much that is bad, why not simply rejoice and be content with the good? Rejoice, yes; but not be satisfied there. Let us reflect that the higher life is only a higher efficiency; the absence of it a gross and sorry inefficiency. To be ignorant is to be dependent, even though one may hire a clerk to post one at need. To be wanting in fine tastes, in spiritual perception, is to be blind and deaf amid beauties and melodies of supreme enchantment. But, if you please, the higher life on a basis of utility, in competition with all other possible advantage, it stands the test. All that true religion, all that culture really ask is that a man should aim at the best and to be at his best."

ELDER VAN H. GRANT.
LATTER DAY SAINTS.

"Authority is the keystone of power. In God's work here upon the earth, the Priesthood, with its two divisions the Aaronic and the Melchisedec, is the power and authority to act in the ordinances of the gospel in the name of Deity. Men who profess to be servants of God must hold this Priesthood before they can do anything in the name of God or do anything 'pertaining to God.' (Heb. 5:1.)

"As it was anciently so it is today. The apostles and the Seventy were all authorized servants of God. The manner of their being called may well be illustrated by the calling of Barnabas and Saul, on whom hands were laid and authority given them from on high, (Acts 13:3) who being authorized 'ordained them elders in every church.' (Acts 14:23) Although this authority was taken from the earth subsequent to Christ's ascention, it is upon the earth today. In the year 1829, John the Baptist appeared to Joseph Smith and Oliver Cowdery and bestowed upon their heads the authority of the Lesser or Aaronic Priesthood. Later the Higher or Melchisedec Priesthood was bestowed upon the same two men by Peter, James and John. These two servants of modern days, like Paul and Baranabas of old, laid their hands upon other members of the church and made them partakers of the same power. The authority thus restored to earth, accompanies, as a necessary prerogative the restoration of God's work in these the latter days."

IN FOOTSTEPS OF THE PADRES.

Catholic Church Dignitaries to Make Long Trip.

Gospel of Americanism to be Carried Far Inland.

Will also Arrange for Census of the Local Diocese.

Emulating the padres of old, whose footsteps they will follow over many a mountain chain and through many a desert place, Archbishop Edward J. Hanna of San Francisco, and Rt. Rev. John J. Cantwell, bishop of the diocese of Monterey and Los Angeles, will leave Los Angeles, Tuesday night, in the bishop's automobile, on a 1000-mile trip that will take them into Death Valley and to other distant points of the local diocese.

For the first time in five years the Catholic Church officials are undertaking a complete census of the diocese, which has an area of nearly 50,000 square miles, being one of the largest in the United States, and Bishop Cantwell requests that all Catholics in Los Angeles send their names and addresses to his office in the Higgins Building.

One of the principal reasons for the trip to be taken by the bishop, aside from the desire to become better acquainted with his people and to dedicate a new church at Lone Pine, is his intention to gather data for the new census. Archbishop Hanna, who will accompany Bishop Cantwell, will speak on "Americanization" at almost every point visited.

Leaving Los Angeles Tuesday night, Archbishop Hanna and Bishop Cantwell will go first to Furnace Creek, in Death Valley, then to Death Valley Junction and then on to Ryan, thirty miles further into Death Valley. Next Thursday night and Friday morning they will hold services at Ludlow and on Friday night will proceed to Barstow. Services will be conducted in the church at Barstow, Saturday morning, when Bishop Cantwell will confirm a class of children. Saturday evening and Sunday morning services will be held at Randsburg. From Randsburg they will proceed to Trona and then on to Bishop, via Searles and Keeler. The next point visited will be Lone Pine, where the new St. Rose Church will be dedicated. In the Lone Pine district there are between seventy and 100 families, most of them being Mexicans and Catholics. At the other points on the itinerary, mostly mining towns, the population consists of people of various nationalities, the majority of whom, however, are Americans both in spirit and by adoption. Bishop Cantwell expects to return to Los Angeles about September 30.

DR. HERBERT BOOTH SMITH.
IMMANUEL PRESBYTERIAN.

"Three wonderful years have come and gone since I stepped off the train at the Santa Fe station on Friday afternoon, the 13th of October, 1916, at 2:40 p.m. Some one said: 'Here he comes, on Friday, the 13th, and on a 2:40 gait.' I do not know that the gait has been kept up, but I do know that Friday and the 13th has not troubled us, but by God's blessing the bad omen has become a good one, and measurable success has crowned our labors together.

"I discovered upon looking at our records that 1035 new members have been received into our church, exclusive of the two branches. The hands of the minister have been laid upon the heads of ninety-three litle ones in baptism; God bless them, every one, for Jesus said: 'Their angels always beheld the face of His Father.' Eighty-six men, women, boys and girls have been baptized on their confession of their faith in Christ, and do you know as I think of that splendid army, I feel that if nothing else had been done, it was worth while getting off the train to do that. And somehow I hear the echo of those words we sang: 'Bright youth and know-crowned age, strong men and maidens meek.'

"Then, too, there have been 102 weddings. One hundred and two men and women who have paused before Christ's altar to call 'high heaven to witness that they have loved and would love for evermore, and my hands has been laid in blessing and in prayer upon their united hands, binding them together 'until death does them part.' I have stood by the casket perhaps 150 times to say some words of comfort that would give beauty for ashes; the oil of joy for mourning; the garment of praise for the spirit of happiness. I have preached in this church 238 times. In addition, of course, to sermons elsewhere stretching all the way from the Atlantic to the Pacific Coast; from the Statue of Liberty to the Golden Gate. So it has been a blessed and busy three years."

RABBI EDGAR F. MAGNIN.
CONGREGATION B'NAI B'RITH.

"The lowest form of prayer consists of supplicating God for material things. While this is perfectly human and instinctive, it sometimes leads to a selfish religion. It is all right to put such confidence in God that we ask him to protect us. But to make religion a matter of expecting favors and worship our attempt to get something is hardly an advanced kind of religion. The highest form of prayer is when we invoke God to help us be big enough to do something and give something. When we so attune ourselves to the infinite that we seek to serve and benefit society. This will be the religion of the future and will persist long after all the selfish materialistic cults will have waxed great and then dwindled into nothingness. Every few generations religion takes a step backward though it is redressed in new clothes. The world in its materialism makes religion materialistic and people affiliate with churches for what they can get out of them. God becomes their provider and physician. This is reverting to primitive superstition. It is well to think of God as the great source of life, of strength and of health, but we must get away from a religion that asks favors and makes us selfish. The God of the future will make demands and not grant favors. And the prayer of the future will give man the courage and the strength to go out and do something worth while for somebody else. We will not seek to save our own bodies and the souls while the bodies and the souls of others are neglected. Let us think in these terms and life will become beautified and interesting. Man can best find God in human work, in humanitarian service."

IN DAYS OF OLD.

OUT OF THE FOLD.

The vote by which the Washington police surrendered their affiliation with the Federation of Labor was practically unanimous. And Sam Gompers was in town at the time!

DOUBLE LIVES.

Now they are figuring that a man who wants to lead a double or triple life should go to New Zealand. A married man living there can go to Australia or some other country, take another wife and bring her back to New Zealand as a legal companion. If he keeps this up he might be able to accumulate quite a harem and still be within the law. But since the ladies have taken to wearing $27 lids who wants to start a harem?

SOCIAL TRAGEDIES.

Through a grotesque series of blunders thirty or forty thousand persons who had gathered in suburban communities at the north to offer their greetings and grins to the amiable King of Belgium were denied even a fleeting view of the royal passage. The King and Queen were whisked over unexpected roads and taken direct to the train which bore them away. But this was not before some of the movie queens had broken into the party and gained a little of that publicity stuff which keeps their little hearts agoing. The film stars got even with Pasadena for some of the slams which the Crown City has made at their social aspirations. But there were a lot of small tragedies—speeches that were not spoken, songs that were not sung and the like. It will be some time before all the little creases will be ironed out. Possibly the tens of thousands of children to whom it would have been possibly both the first and last glimpse of royalty were the most disappointed of all. But that doesn't make any difference so long as our beloved vampires found opportunity to have their pictures taken in the company of a queen.

MAGIC IN NUMBERS.

Senator Johnson pins a ribbon on himself and claims to be the only undiluted American outside of captivity. This because he has been demanding that America be allotted six votes in the big league. He thinks that King George can walk up to the ballot box and heave in six ballots with a crash that can be heard around the world and he wants it understood that Uncle Sam is as bulky and important as any prince or potentate that ever carried a scepter. This goes double with us, but we also wish it to be understood that Hiram has no patent on patriotism. If it is to be measured by a voting capacity under the covenant we shall insist on at least seven—or maybe seven times seven—votes. That would be one for every State in the Union and one over for good measure. But we've got to have seven, anyhow. Of course, they don't really count, but it is the principle of the thing. Here we've gone to the trouble of winning the war and lent England all the money necessary to keep her end up and it would be odd if we shouldn't demand one more vote. Any pawnbroker would tell you that we should have that much collateral. Hiram is only a piker with his six votes. We think we shall demand a dozen at least.

THE BLOODSUCKERS.

It appears that all the agitators who turn up as strike leaders when the trouble is on are still drawing an average of about $15 a day, with a liberal expense account on the side. The strikers themselves are so numerous that there can be no possible fund large enough to pay a living strike benefit. Having left their jobs, they have nothing coming to them. But the agitators, walking delegates and business agents will get theirs just the same. Rest assured of that. How long will the union workingman revel in the idea of being a goat? If he had any shrewdness he would insist that when a strike was called in his union and the workers ceased to draw pay the officers and agents of that union should also automatically cease to receive their salaries. That would at least be fair and then strikes would not be called without some plausible reason. As it is, while the vast majority of the strikers suffer, there are a few agitators who make more money than ever and it is really to their interest that strife be maintained. Could anything be more unfair? The least that any decent set of union officials could do would be to voluntarily place themselves on half-pay when a strike is called. Then they would have more consideration in the public mind. During the war many captains of industry and executive giants were drafted into service and came willingly at a dollar a year. Do these geniuses and apostles of disorder love their unions less than these others did their country? A strike is a war, isn't it? Then let the strike leaders be put on a war ration. The public has a right to demand that no set of men be permitted to make money out of a strike—at least while their dupes are suffering.

THE FLAME THAT FAILED.

The greatest opportunity that modern times has presented to the forces of anarchy to set the world in flame came during and at the end of that stupendous war, when the bloody sword of the Hun was broken forever.

And anarchy was quick to see the opportunity and to take full advantage of it. Its torch was lighted, and for many months past the skies of the world have shone luridly from the flame.

In every civilized land the red flag was flung to the breeze boldly and brazenly. The assassins of civilization put the trumpet to their lips and flung forth the wild, exultant message that the hour of doom had come.

Out of the darkness of that Russia over which the pall of tyranny and wrong has hung immemorially the flame was first to leap. There, if anywhere, impatience to wait upon God's time was to be looked for and expected. There on the frozen steppes and upon the vast plains of Muscovy stood millions of man-brutes, made so by Peter's lash and Ivan's thumbscrews, to whom, if to anybody, the red flame of anarchy would be believed to blaze as a beacon light of glory.

Then, like a prairie fire, the flame spread across the world. It blazed in the Argentine; it swept all Europe; it seared the very soul of England, even; and at last its sinister glare appeared in the sky above our own America.

Murder and death and disaster went dancing down the highways of the world in the wildest, maddest orgy anarchy had ever known.

In the face of it all, civilization stood dismayed. And it is not to be wondered at. Justice stood with trembling hands. Faith shuddered in fear and doubt. Even hope, the last friend of man to desert his soul, looked out upon the troubled earth with wavering eyes.

Men in whose hearts was the love of order and of law and in whose clear vision dwelt the sure sense of the one and only way the human race can ever walk in security turned falteringly to one another.

"Is this the end of all?" they asked. "Is our world to be broken and the progress of ten thousand years spent in ashes?"

II.

WELL, the answer is here now. And it is the same answer, thank God, that has been given not once but countless times before.

The flame of anarchy has failed. It has failed again as it has failed always. Only the embers of the fire that was to consume civilization are smoldering now. The most timid heart that beats anywhere in the world may now take courage again and put its fears aside.

It is always the fact that we must go by. And the fact is that even in Russia anarchy has failed to gain its goal. The man-brutes there are weary of blood; they are weary of chaos and hunger. Russia is about to be reborn. The man-brutes will be reborn also.

In America the flame of anarchy really never got well started. Its baneful light startled only those among us who are by nature timid. And so long as anarchy cannot succeed in America the world is safe.

Always keep hold of the facts and your vision will not be clouded. Ask yourself, is it a fact that William Z. Foster has been able to disrupt America? Have the known 40,000 reds in this country succeeded in bringing about mob rule? Are our rivers running with blood? Is there a reign of terror? Is the land a shambles?

Has there at any time been even the slightest approach to anything like those imaginary conditions?

The only trouble at all has been that a lot of people who should have better sense permitted themselves to be scared. But the American people were not scared, and they are not scared now. And William Z. Foster knows it.

What Foster knows also is that he has gone just about as far as the patience of the American people will permit. A step or two farther and all these frothing maniacs of anarchy in this country would find themselves behind stone walls, where they ought to be right now.

Sometimes there is entirely too much liberty in this country. There is certainly too much liberty permitted to men like Foster who openly and brazenly preach murder and arson and confiscation.

If England cares to temporize with that sort of thing let her do so. It is her own funeral. And she has enough to do to keep herself together without that.

But an anarchist in America should be slammed behind stone walls the very moment he opens his red, slobbering mouth.

III.

NOW what are the reasons—the real reasons—that anarchy can never hope to succeed, notwithstanding its insidious appeal to all that is base and selfish in the major part of the human race?

It holds out the promise of full hands to hands that are empty; it offers power to those who are powerless; it says it will put authority in possession of the many and take it away from the few.

Why then, does anarchy fail to muster within its ranks all men who are poor? All men who do not enjoy authority and power?

Why is it, sir, that you who hold no office, who are not the possessor of broad lands and mansions and who, perhaps, must walk when your neighbor rides, have not become an anarchist?

Is it not to be supposed that we would all favor a proposition which would compel Rockefeller, the Duke of Sutherland, the banks and the owners of mines and mills and farms to turn all property in and divide it equally with us who are without these things?

There are 10,000 poor men to one rich man. We outnumber incalculably the officers of the law and those who hold office. Why is it, therefore, that we do not take whatever we want and depose whoever exercises the restraint of authority over us?

There are two reasons why we do not do these things at the behest of anarchy.

And these two reasons are God and home.

IV.

NOW take the first reason—God. For centuries anarchy has put forth its most deadly efforts to get this idea of God out of the minds and hearts of men.

If anarchy could once succeed in putting God out of the world its work would be easy. It has used, and still uses, every argument that the human mind could invent to put God out of the way. It declares that God is a myth, a superstition, a fear, a figment of the imagination.

It is not our purpose here to argue this question with anarchy. All that we desire to point out is the fact that anarchy has fought to put God out of the world and that it has failed to do so.

God is still here. Not only that, but religion is still here, and it is, moreover, more here than it has ever been before. Religion did not die in the war, but, on the contrary, it experienced a marvelous revival.

God is being preached in ten places today to the one that knew His name before. France is aflame with religion. In Barcelona that was absolutely Godless with anarchy—the blackest spot on any map of the civilized world—religious processions block the streets.

And, as far as America is concerned, why, she is sending shiploads of missionaries abroad; she has raised countless millions in money for the propagation of the Faith at home; and she is building new churches in the last remote corners of the continent.

This is the fact, and all that we desire to do is to make record of it.

The record shows that the result of the fight that anarchy has made against God is that God is intrenched more strongly than ever. It is a fight from which anarchy emerges beaten and discredited.

V.

AND the other reason is Home.

Next to God, the sweetest word the human tongue can speak is that word "home." Next to God, it is the holiest thing in the love of the human heart. And it is against home as well as against God that anarchy has made, and still makes, its fight.

Let us personify anarchy and suppose it to be a personage going about as a messenger to men's doors. What is the message it brings to the home?

It says to the home that its structure is false to begin with; that the wife in it should be common property—the mother a creature of the state, and the children the wards of the state. Anarchy recognizes no bond in the marriage tie; it refuses to regard the relation of man and wife as being anything more than a mere contract to be dissolved at will.

Of course, if anarchy did not stand on this doctrine it would cease to be anarchy. And anarchy is the mother of Bolshevism, I.W.W.ism, syndicalism and all the other red isms.

So, the home must be destroyed, the same time that God is put out. Anarchy says God is superstition; and the home a fiction.

So, again, we must fall back on the facts. And in doing so it is discovered that it is only here and there, once in ten million times, that a human being can be found who is willing to exchange the institution of home for even the most glittering promises of anarchy.

We find the fact to be that, no matter how humble a man's home may be, no matter how lean the larder that's in it, no matter how poor its adornment, it is still a place to him that he would not barter for the palaces of Tyre.

For there in that home is all that the man holds dear. It shelters the love of his youth, the children born of that love, the haven of his hopes and his dream of gladness.

There is no flame of anarchy or of hell that can prevail against these two things—God and Home.

Kicking Himself.

CONGRESSIONAL COWARDICE.

There was a time when the snail was regarded as the symbol of halting, timorous progress; but that was before the Sixty-sixth Congress convened. It is one of those bodies that is constantly in motion, but never gets anywhere. The advanced ground which it occupies one day it abandons the next. It is too timid even to move backwards. The fable of the ass that perished debating between two bales of hay must have been a satire written on one of the early legislative bodies of the democracy of Athens.

Despite the menace of Bolshevism, as typified by the radicals of the labor unions, the politicians in the House of Representatives are so afraid of the union-labor vote in their districts that they shrink from any legislation intended to curb the activities of the reds. They know its necessity; when deliberating behind closed doors they agree to strengthen the arm of the Department of Justice; but when it comes to casting the votes necessary to codify public sentiment against the radicals into laws they are either absent or vote against them.

During the days of radical propaganda and labor-union domination before the war a provision was written into the appropriation for the Department of Justice that none of the money so appropriated should be used to investigate the activities of farmers' organizations and labor unions. That clause was first written into an appropriation bill while Taft was President; and he promptly vetoed it. The same clause was put back under the first Wilson administration, and the President approved it.

When the deficiency bill was considered by the committee of the whole in executive conference two weeks ago the clause exempting the labor unions was stricken out. The vote in committee was reported to have been fifty-three to nineteen. The committee's action was generally commended outside the labor union and anarchist press. But when the bill came before the House the next day a demand was made for a special vote on the amendments and roll call was ordered.

On that roll call 203 members voted to restore to the labor unions the privilege of exemption under the anti-trust law and only twenty-nine members voted against it.

Such cowardice on the part of the members of Congress contrasts very unfavorably with the courageous and patriotic expression of public sentiment throughout the country; and The Times is of the opinion that when those faint-hearted near-statesmen come up for re-election a majority of them will find that for every labor-union and Bolshevist vote which they have won they have lost the support of at least three red-blooded Americans. The country had a right to expect better things.

THE HOTSTUFF.

It should not be necessary to remind this quack professor of Americanism that any real American would rather be reproached with being pro-British than be suspected of being pro-German, although no decent citizen of this country cares to have any hyphen attached.

Can Hiram Johnson, the paid attorney of William Randolph Hearst, deny that for the past few months he has been pandering to every indecent form of hyphenism existing in this country?

While pandering to the foreign elements, which have no interest in this country except to exploit it, he has been committing a cruel wrong on foreigners and citizens of foreign birth, honestly concerned with the welfare of their former countries. He knows that we are not going to war with England to force the recognition of the Irish republic, just as he knows that this country will decline to be driven into hostilities to ensure the return of Shantung.

Indignation and sorrow are succeeded by a supreme feeling of disgust that this cheap politician, pursuing all of the discreditable methods of a criminal lawyer in the defense of a weak cause, should attack the victorious but stricken leader of the triumphant American nation.—[Sacramento Union.

THREL FALL.

A STISTERLY PSALM.

My brother is my pesticator. For trouble I shall never want. He throweth the key to mine house out the window and maketh me search for it in green pastures, leading me beside the still waters.

He almost destroyeth my soul. He leadeth me out of the dewy paths for my health's sake. Yea, though I recover from lumbago, pneumonia and the flu, I will still fear evil, for thou, brother mine, art with me. Thy noise and thy staff never comfort me.

Ma preparest a table before me and thou eatest everything up in thy sight; presence, mine enemy. Clumsy cow, in fanning the flames thou upsetteth the light and anointest my head with oil. Thy gluttony is such that thy cup runneth over.

My goodness, oh, mercy; surely black cats and debts will follow me all the rest of my life if I dwell in the same house with my brother forever. Amen.

My soul sighs for lack of better occupation. Here I sit—set—which is it, anyway?—waiting for fame to knock at my door and she won't even cast her optics my direction.

What's the reason? Lack of ambition, lack of postage stamps, lack of nerve? Did I find a bomb in my typewriter or have I pen paralysis?

I've read about The Road to Arcady, The Great White Way, how to make apple sauce; I've seen that instructing movie, "With a Tiger Hunt," but I'll be hanged if I can find any mementos on how to concentrate in the presence of a destructive brother and a howling din. For the love o' Mike, won't somebody throw out the enlightenment!

Lo, outa yon sky comes the big idear, and up I hops to me little Ford. But just as the wheels get going good mefinds the 'racer's gone, an' I got to go dashing all over my mistakes like this: ——— or | | |. Still weaving the web, an important voice says, "SALLIE." That's my name, and I'm being called. Hence disturbed the twice.

Go, la-la, maybe if I cut out slang I'll meet with more encouragement. What a grinding affair, this chosen method; (sure, I have to alternate the ribbons everyonceinawhile)—and who said talent was never appreciated till after death? Oh, Lord, let me DIE! Who invented them words, "most revered author"? Verily, me-saith, be there any honor, any glory, any prospects, by heck and all other saints, kindly assist me into the sheets of a newspress and watch me do my darndest.

A boy is a cross between a dumb brute and wild animal — especially if it happens to be little kid brother. And the littler they are the more they kid; as they grow, they gradually cease kidding and become regular cavemen.

After the blessedness of fourteen years with one of these rare specimens I have decided I don't want the permanency of any girl's aged kid brother. Anyone who does drives a hard bargain; those who don't indulge go through life living on clouds and get along fine.

And air castles always did appeal to me. I always imagine I see my brother in them riding Pegasus, and I sure do feel sorry for that horse.

Here's to mother's darling!

SALLIE McGEETIS.

WINTER COMING.

The winter's approaching, the frost is encroaching and turning green verdure to gold; the evenings are chilly and Palm Beach looks silly, and are you prepared for the cold? In pomp you go riding, your swift motor gliding, I often behold you go past; you surely seem stately; I envy you greatly—but are you prepared for the blast? Is coal in the cellar, oh, joy-riding feller, and have you some spuds in the bin, or are you just burning the coin you are earning, just blowing your salary in? Oh, winter is mixing its war paint and fixing to give us a jolt in the neck; the winds will be snowing, and sleet will descend by the peck. From icy Alaska and far Athabasca the winds will come yammering down; they'll raise the old Harry, the snow they will carry and plaster it over the town. And are you preparing for winter rip-tearing, oh, fellows who jaunt in your cars, or are you still burning the coin you are earning for rubber and gas and cigars? Say, have you provided a ham that's lopsided, some bacon and wienies and flour? And have you invested in coats double-breasted? For winter is drastic and dour.

WALT MASON.

THE FIRST PSALM ADAPTED.

Blessed is the man who walketh not in the counsel of Hiram Johnson, nor standeth in the way of the League of Nations, nor sitteth in the seat of the constitutional objectors.

But his delight is in the wisdom of Woodrow Wilson and in his counsel doth he meditate day and night.

And he be like a tree planted by the rivers of water, and whatsoever office he deserveth he shall get by a large majority.

Whose popularity shall not wither and he shall hold on to his job as long as he desireth.

The ungodly opponents of the League of Nations are not so, but are like the chaff that the wind driveth away.

Therefore, the wicked objectors to the covenant shall not be "in it" when the returns are all in and the votes are all counted.

Fully Explained.

Amelia Reeves, a canteen girl in the Pershing Club in New York, says she hated to close the canteen because she had been proposed to, on an average, three times a week by the "boys" since July 1 and it was so nice to have them talk love to her. The way Amelia talks with her mouth explains why none of them meant business.—[Hopkinsville Kentuckian.

PEN POINTS

BY THE STAFF.

The "blind tiger" makes strange bed-fellows.

There ought to be a fine article for cabinet-makers in Europe.

No city in the United States has ever been built by strikes and walk-outs.

Male flirts and unmuffled automobiles are nuisances and ought to be suppressed.

The husking-bee season is on in the East and all the fellows are looking for the red ear of corn.

If flour continues to increase in price it will not be necessary to use any yeast in bread making.

We know a friend who says he is not going to buy a fall suit until he sees whether Congress will repeal the tax on luxuries.

We understand that baby-blue ribbon is the reigning favorite for bathing shoes. How do we know? Oh, we don't care, we don't care.

Gabriele d'Annunzio has all the earmarks of a lime-lighter. He must have been in the motion picture game at one time.

It is now claimed that what President Carranza needs is a new vision. We should say a pair would fill a long-felt want.

The bonded debt of Los Angeles is twenty million dollars in round numbers; but what is that sum of money between friends?

When we look at some of the house plans offered by our local builders we are firmly of the opinion that there is no place like home.

The illness of President Wilson is merely the old story that will have a jealous mistress; even a President cannot violate her laws with impunity.

Congress has put a set of teeth in the food conservation law so we understand from excellent authority that it is not of the store variety either.

When Prof. Todd establishes communication with the Martians will likely ask them how prohibition is working on that sphere.

A few Republicans in the Senate are trying to "strafe" the League of Nations, but they cannot stand against the unanimous voice of the American people.

If the worst comes and the price of clothing continues to ascend, it may be those who will favor the use of an umbrella as the sole article of personal adornment.

Some of the men folks who are addicted to the sleeping-porch habit and enjoy good eyesight claim that there is but little change in the style of night gowns.

Prohibition ought to raise the standard of stage comedy. The poorer audience will not laugh at the alleged funny stuff that used to be put them over in the old bleary days.

There is this to be said to the credit of the cause of Dante, the mad Italian poet—he has been a good advertising. He has all the benefits of the moving picture press agent.

In cases of a triangle murder, the survivor always has the advantage of telling an undisputed story. The "unwritten law" is a convenient refuge in many instances.

The winter tourists are streaming into town. And we will welcome them all if they have to bring their feet hanging out of the car windows. It is worth any inconvenience to be able to spend the winter in Southern California.

The physical condition of President Wilson is the subject of deep solicitude on the part of the people of the world, for the efforts of the American Chief Executive to keep war out of the future have made him the most talked of individual in the history of this or any other country. The hopes and the prayers of his countrymen will be offered in his behalf everywhere.

At the reception tendered Prince Albert in San Francisco he showed the vanity of the populace by referring to the municipality as the largest city facing the Pacific Ocean. And possibly he is right enough to tell the folks of Los Angeles the same thing—and it may be the truth. Nobody really knows a San Francisco elocutionist. But a substitution will claim that city is larger than Los Angeles.

CLAN OF COMUS.

He looks worried, too,
Food and everything so high
Keep him in a stew.
Strikes and discords fill the land,
Wars and tales of woe;
"Wonder what we're coming to,"
He would like to know.

Mother's doing all she can,
She gets tired and blue,
But she manages some how,
Then, when she is through,
Father says, "Come, dear, let's go
To a picture play,
Some good comedy we'll see,
Save another way."

Home they come, ends your woe,
Troubles leashed out,
Life assumes a rosier hue,
Courage now holds sway.
Chaplin, Pickford, Semnel, Joe
Arbuckle, Fairbanks,
Clan of Comus, here's to you,
Gloom dispellers, yes, you!

"California historians say that the building was erected in 1840, on Foothill street, which was then a main thoroughfare. For many years it was the residence of Jose Perez, a Mexican general. When he met defeat near Montebello he withdrew with a few of his fellow-officers to the old adobe, where they prepared for the signing of the treaty with Gen. Fremont.

The structure, consisting of four-teen rooms, is built in typical Spanish style, with a patio. The left wing and the face of the building were adobe. The right wing, which was built in 1870, was made of wood. The roof was shingled. The building was continuously occupied until purchased recently by Mrs. Noyes. Its last occupant was a full-blooded American Indian named Armenta, who volunteered in Y.M.C.A. work at the outbreak of the war.

From 1890 to 1905 the R. H. Seay family of Pasadena occupied the house. Then it passed into the hands of A. C. Hardison, whose widow later sold it.

The present owner is having it tastefully decorated and fitted up for use in the entertainment of tea parties. It will be made a rendezvous of fashionable Pasadenans as soon as it is finished.

Only a few weeks ago the city of South Pasadena bought a seven-acre grove of live oaks just across the street from the old adobe for park purposes. With its beautification Mrs. Noyes also will improve her two-acre plot by creating landscaped gardens around the historic structure.

MANY MINES REOPEN AS SILVER ADVANCES.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

HUMBOLDT (Ariz.) Oct. 17.—The Consolidated Arizona Smelting Company is reported to be considering the addition of a lead furnace at its big smelter, especially to handle the silver-lead ores of this section and all Northwestern Arizona. The freight rates from Chloride are such that low grade ores can be shipped with profit. Mohave county has a flat rate of $8.50 per ton. The furnace may pay 95 per cent. of the silver value, $19 an ounce for gold, the market price for copper and lead, and will not penalize for zinc under 8 per cent.

In the Big Bug section the Copper Queen Gold Company is constructing a 100-ton flotation mill, the contract having been awarded to Kennard & Bierce of Los Angeles. Only straight flotation will be used below the crushers. An immense dump is ready for treatment. The property adjoins that of the Arizona Binghampton.

A new cyanide mill is to be erected at the old Peck silver mine. The Peck company has been entirely reorganized and E. W. Fisher, J. A. Edwards, M. R. Mitchell, Charles Wiley and D. McAdoo, the latter a cousin of former Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, have become heavily interested, with Lloyd G. Kirkland of Chicago. A new plant has been ordered and will be received soon. The famous old silver stopes are to be reopened and additional development work will be done at greater depth.

Another old silver property now being reopened is the Dos Orla, from which lead-silver ore is now being shipped. The mine has been inactive since 1885. Its Buzzard claim produced silver to the value of $250,000 at a depth of less than 200 feet.

Shipments to Humboldt are promising from a group of four claims on Turkey Creek, owned by Richard Heuston and bonded by Con Johnson.

Joe Cavanaugh and Harold Colwell have bonded the Blue John and Wedge claims in the Walker district and will work on silver ore that runs from twenty to eighty ounces a ton, with values also in gold and lead.

The high price of silver is of tremendous value to the Bradshaw Mountain mining section of this county, and and is causing the reopening of many mines from which profits now may be expected, with modern methods of mining and reduction, with much better transportation facilities and with a product price almost double that which was known before the time of the silver slump.

LOSE BY LIGHT LOADING.

Compilation of the following figures of car loading by the Southern Pacific for the month of August, 1919, as compared to 1918, reflects a serious falling off in the average load offered for transit by the shipping public. This spells but one thing, loss of equipment space available, and loss of business to the shipper, says a Southern Pacific statement, issued yesterday.

During the month of August, 1918, there were loaded 64,110 cars, with an average capacity of 37.9 tons per car. Actual load obtained averaged 24.2 tons per car, or 63.8 per cent. For the same month of 1919, there were loaded 66,145 cars, with an average capacity of 37.9 tons per car, actual load being 23.4 tons per car, or 61.8 per cent., a loss of 1322 cars.

Though the Southern Pacific admits that there are a large number of commodities that cannot be loaded to car tonnage capacity, on the other hand, the statement says, there are a great many heavy commodities that can and should be loaded to full car capacity, among them sugar was loaded to 102 per cent. of car capacity in 1918, whereas in 1919 the loading fell to 88 per cent., a loss of 14 per cent.; wheat in 1918 was loaded to 101 per cent., and fell to 98 per cent. in 1919, a loss of 3 per cent.; rice, 1918, 107 per cent., 1919, 97 per cent., a loss of 10 per cent.; dried fruit, 1918, 94 per cent., 1919, 84 per cent., a loss of 10 per cent.; corn likewise shows a loss of 10 per cent., and beans of 7 per cent. In these six items alone for the month of August, 1919, the loss amounted to 302 cars. During this same period the Southern Pacific loaded company material in 4136 cars, utilizing 98 per cent. of car capacity, as against 5096 cars during August, 1918, with an average loading of 96 per cent., showing an increase of 3 per cent. in the load obtained.

During the same period the average miles per day per car increased 13 per cent. in 1919 over 1918, indicating that the carrier was leaving nothing undone to relieve the car shortage.

TO SPEED CAR HANDLING.

Relief for California fruit shippers and lumber men is seen in the announcement yesterday of District Director William Sproule of the Railroad Administration that, effective tomorrow, all roads under Federal control will levy storage charges of $10 a day on refrigerator cars not unloaded after five days from which free time begins, and a similar charge on cars of lumber held for reconsignment after forty-eight hours free time. Both charges are in addition to the present demurrage rates.

The new tariff has been filed by J. E. Fairbanks, general secretary and treasurer of the American Railroads and under authority of the road and under authority of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Following close upon the appointment of terminal car service committees at all important centers, this latest step to secure prompt release of equipment and speed up car supply is expected to greatly facilitate the administration's efforts to supply the needs of the shipping public.

One of the main difficulties the California fruit shippers have had to contend with in the present car shortage has been the delay in unloading cars at eastern points. Hundreds of cars, badly needed in the West, have been held in storage by brokers and receivers. The same thing to a lesser extent has handicapped western lumbermen.

The newly-levied penalties on using cars for storage purposes constitute a drastic effort to release the car supply and meet conditions brought about by abnormal crops.

METHODISTS TO MOVE SOON.

Last Services will be Held in Old First Church on November Second.

The last Sunday services to be held in the old First Methodist Church at Sixth and Hill streets will be on November 2 which has been designated historical day. Dr. Charles Edward Locke, pastor of the church, will talk on "Looking Backward." The doors of the old church will open for the church congregation for the last time on the evening of November 5, which will be given over to church reminiscences.

Having sold its old church home, the First Methodist Church congregation is planning to hold its first meeting in Trinity Auditorium, upon which it has taken a lease, Sunday, November 9. This will be a "looking forward meeting," at which the pastor will discuss church plans for the future, and the probability that a new church will be erected on a site at Eighth and Hope streets within a year. That night the congregation will hold a great armistice anniversary.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

TERRA BELLA, Oct. 18.—Directors of the Terra Bella Irrigation District at their annual meeting set $9 per $100 of valuation for the tax rate for the ensuing year, to yield maintenance funds for the irrigation work. This sum is apparently large, but as the property in the district is assessed at but $50 per acre, the charge is therefore only $4.50 per acre per year, which ranks with the lowest tax rates of the kind in California.

ALBERS NO. 3
5000 BARRELS
Telegraphic advices received yesterday state that the second big producer on the Albers lease on the J. W. Turner farm 44 Ranger came in yesterday flowing at the rate of 5000 barrels a day.
This is the second large producer on this lease, the first well which came in July 12th, having already produced over half a million dollars worth of oil. Number 2 well is expected in next week and many additional wells are now being drilled on this famous lease in which the

KERN LEADS IN OUTPUT OF OIL.

Hundred Thirty Thousand Barrels Daily Average.

Development Generally Now Reduced to Minimum.

New Prospect Well to Test District Near Galt.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 17.—Kern county produced 3,856,980 barrels of oil during September, according to figures just compiled. The total in the State was 8,423,820 barrels, or a daily average of 280,794. Kern county's daily average was 128,563, by far the greatest production of any locality in the State.

The Midway-Sunset field produced the most oil, leading with 88,408 barrels a day.

During September there were 5247 wells on the production list, while 220 were in the course of being drilled. Twenty-eight were completed during the month and as many rigs were built. Only one abandonment was reported.

The total crude oil stocks on hand in the State, October 1, were 32,899,638 barrels, while 9,229,565 barrels of oil were shipped from the fields. Stocks were decreased 805,746 barrels. Prices remained stationary.

The initial daily production of the sixty-one wells brought in during the month in California totalled 21,800 barrels.

Of the sixteen wells started during the past week in the State eleven are in Kern county—a total of 217 new wells since the first of the year.

LITTLE DEVELOPMENT.

While operations in the Kern county fields during the past week have included the starting of eleven wells, the testing of nine for water shut-off and the deepening or redrilling of eleven others, development in other parts of the State has been reduced to a minimum.

However, the ratification of the new wage scale by nearly every local union and the report that Congress has dropped all opposition to the land leasing bill has given operators generally a feeling of optimism for the future and a great deal of new work is being mapped out both in the Kern county fields and the outside districts.

An indication of the more healthy tone in olidom is furnished by continued activity in the Kern River field and the extension of developments in Northern Kern county.

Indications are that the development there will soon extend into the orange groves of Jasmine and Richgrove. Drilling materials have been delivered near Jasmine Station for a test well, and agents of various oil companies are scouting the country for opportunities to take up leases north of property recently tied up by the Texas Oil and Gas Company. In some instances, leases are being secured to the very edge of the Richgrove orchards.

Oil men who are behind the extension declare their confidence that the district is underlaid with petroleum, basing their faith on the success of a well drilled just before the war near the Richgrove district, in which oil sand was encountered, but which was abandoned when infiltrating water could not be shut off.

PROSPECT NEAR GALT.

New territories are springing up in the most unthought-of places in the interior, as indicated in a report from near Galt, Sacramento county. The Laguna Oil Company, which is made up of San Francisco people and headed by L. Gregor, is planning to test the possibilities of that district for oil. A star rig will be used in the prospect work. The drilling capacity for this rig is 1000 feet, which would indicate the company expects oil at a shallow depth.

The Associated Oil Company is still spudding in wells in the old Kern River field, on section 28, 28-28. Two new holes were started during the week by this company, while the Richards Oil Company started a crew at work on section 8, 29-28.

Four new wells were started in the Midway field within the last ten days. Two of them belong to the General Petroleum Company, operating on sections 14 and 22, and the others are property of the Visalia Midway Oil Company, section 25, 31-22 and the Bankline Oil Company, section 26, 32-23.

The Sunset field has three new holes to its credit, with the Tannehill, Midway and B. B. O. & Co., back of the development. The General Petroleum Corporation is also putting down a new well in the Lost Hills, to be known as No. 15, on section 19, 26-21.

The Community Oil Company has resumed drilling on its No. 1 well on section 35, 32-23, on the far side of Twenty-five Hill and near Taft. The well was recently cemented off with the landing of a 12½-inch string of casing at a depth of 1173 feet. Drillers C. Morrison and W. A. Fitz of Bakersfield and M. Fitz of Taft are in charge of the work. The State Mining Bureau has made its usual test and found the top water entirely shut off. A string of 10-inch casing is now to be used in drilling the well into the sand.

Well No. 3 of the Union Oil Company, on the El Camino property, section 26, 31-22, near Fellows, has just been cemented at 1710 feet. No. 6 is drilling in the oil sand at 1700 and No. 8 is in shale at a like depth.

At the Standard Oil Company's Eagle Creek well, which had only been on the beam a few days, the derrick and equipment were burned the other day. The blaze started in the belt house.

Six wells are now standing cemented for tests of water shut-off in the Kern River field. Four belong to the Associated and are in section 23, where the company is carrying on its big drilling programme. The other two, owned by the Standard, are the No. 2 well on section 2, 28-21 on the western front, and No. 1 well, section 36, 27-27, another untried section. The Southern Pacific Fuel Oil department has a well in the McKittrick field, section 11, 30-21, undergoing a similar process, while the California Star Oil Company is doing the same with its No. 29 in section 24, 26-20, in the Lost Hills.

Lacy, Gordon, Stewart and Stabler, who have been doing considerable prospect work in the Devil's Den country, believe they can increase the production of their No. 1 well by going deeper and have put a crew at work. Oil in small quantities has been found here at as shallow a depth as forty feet.

The Mecca Oil Company is redrilling its Nos. 6 and 7 well on section 29, 28-28, Kern River field, while the General Petroleum and the Combined Oil Company are doing the same work in the Belridge and Midway fields, respectively.

ANTICIPATE OIL, LAY OUT A TOWNSITE.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

DIXIELAND, Oct. 17.—Following signing of papers between W. F. Duncan and R. S. Genet and associates of Drexel Clarkson, it was announced that drilling would start on the leased land west of town at once. The tract comprises 2500 acres.

A townsite on part of the land, to be exclusively an oil town, will be laid out and water will be secured from the flat below and pumped to the bench.

In addition to the Duncan-Genet tract, other tracts have been leased, notably some belonging to the Canopus Oil Company, composed of San Diego and Dixieland people. One of the three wells put down near Sackett's well will be developed.

Standard hydraulic rigs will be used, and it is reported Mr. Clarkson told acquaintances he would have oil by the first of January.

RANGER OIL
16 - 16¼c
Telegraphic advices received yesterday state that the Albers No. 3 well is in and now flowing 5000 barrels daily.
40 Wells Producing
110 Wells Drilling
We are officially informed that approximately 40 wells, in which the Ranger Company own royalty interests, are now producing, while 110 drilling operations are said to be under way, on properties in which the Ranger Oil Company own royalties. The 40 wells now producing are reported yielding about 40,000 barrels daily, or an average of 1000 barrels each.
Increased Earnings
The many new wells being brought in would seem to indicate a likelihood of extra or increased dividends while the present heavy demand for stock seems certain to send prices to decidedly higher market levels. Orders should, in our opinion, be placed promptly.

WITHDRAWS OPPOSITION.

Daniels Changes Front on Oil Relief Measures; Means Speedy Settlement.

The Navy Department, it became known here yesterday, has abandoned its opposition to the oil land leasing and relief legislation pending in Congress. After seven years' opposition, ever since he came into office, Secretary Daniels has either become convinced that his position is hopeless or, perhaps, his recent visit to the Pacific Coast has taught him things he did not know before. Whichever it is, he has changed front, and the prospect for immediate relief legislation is by far the best that has ever appeared, it is declared.

In giving way, Mr. Daniels has apparently avoided making the backdown a direct and personal one. He left to Assistant Secretary Roosevelt the task of announcing the change of front and it was done during the absence of Mr. Daniels from Washington. There is, however, no apparent reason to doubt that it was done with the Secretary's sanction and by his authority.

Mr. Roosevelt has been, like his chief, an advocate of the policy of blocking all oil development unless the Navy Department could have its own way in all action taken. He has even spoken publicly in favor of the policy of obstruction. It has, also, had the support of a group of naval officers on staff duty and in charge of some of the bureaus. It has been said, though by what authority it is not clear, that it had the support of Admiral Benson, chief of operations for the last six years. He has just retired. There may or may not be a connection between the two events.

The story of the new policy comes from Washington in the following dispatch to the California Oil World:

"The greatest single force opposing the passage of some kind of workable oil land relief legislation has been removed by Assistant Secretary Roosevelt of the Navy Department. In the absence of Secretary Daniels he wrote to the House Committee saying that while the department had opposed the development of oil lands in the reserves, it recognized the fact that it could not have the development made according to its views, or in accordance with the provisions of the Swanson bill; therefore, it would not oppose a report on this bill. Mr. Roosevelt, however, said the department desired the insertion of perfecting amendments.

"According to former Gov. Gillette of California, the representative of the oil land claimants, the amendments still asked by the Navy Department are unobjectionable. Some of them are really necessary to make the bill grammatically correct so that it will say what was intended to be said.

"The thought is that the bill can be passed in a comparatively short time, provided there is nothing in its way, of more necessary legislation when the report is made. Railroad legislation, for instance, might be considered more necessary. At this time, however, there is no reason to believe that the railroad bill can be reported before the leasing bill is placed on the House calendar. No one who has been in touch with the hearings on the railroad bills has any idea that the House Committee can make a report on the subject much, if any, before November 1. The leasing bill should be out of the way before then."

MUCH MINE ACTIVITY NOW.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

TUCSON (Ariz.) Oct. 17.—The Dawson Metallurgical Company is completing a new furnace of special type on its property, forty-two miles southwest of Tucson, at a cost of at least $60,000. Its site is at Rosemont, near the Narragansett mine. The furnace will have a capacity of eighty-five tons every twenty-four hours. President Doyle, of the company, states that the process is no experiment, but has been tried out successfully in El Paso. It is especially designed to handle low-grade ores, and it happens that the Rosemont ores average only 3 to 4 per cent. The furnace takes either carbonates or sulphates, but the latter ore is treated first in a MacDougall roaster.

El Tiro at Silver Bell is being operated successfully by Percy Williams, manager of a leasing company, he being the first to secure a profit from the mine. Fifty-six carloads have been shipped to the Hayden smelter since July 1, averaging $800 a carload, net. The property is well equipped and the ore is handled by electrical traction direct to broad-gauge railroad cars.

The Arizona-Tucson is sinking a two-compartment shaft on its property, eight miles south of Tucson in the Amrole district. It is asserted that $1,000,000 worth of ore has been exposed in a large chimney of high-grade.

H. W. Bruce has found rich silver-lead ore in the Tucson Mountains, six miles southwest of this city.

In Santa Cruz county, high-grade ore, rich in silver, lead and vanadium, is being taken from the Tres de Mayo mine, now being operated under bond by Dr. O. B. Bachman, representing a Los Angeles syndicate.

The World's Fair mine, near Patagonia, is being worked at greater depth and the lower levels are being unwatered.

Word from Cananea tells that the big mine at that camp is operating steadily, with an output of more than 4,000,000 pounds of copper a month.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

GLOBE (Ariz.) Oct. 17.—The asbestos industry of Gila county continues active, with about 250 men employed. Important deposits are in the Southeast Sierra Ancha Mountains, about forty miles northwest of Globe. Much of the material is of long fiber and of high grade. Preparations now are being made to utilise large deposits of shorter and poorer grades. Most of the asbestos shipped from this point, most of it from the Arch Creek mines, goes to the H. W. Johns-Manville Company of New York, for fireproofing material. The Raybestos company, a Bridgeport (Conn.) manufacturer of automobile brake linings, has lately purchased a Sierra Ancha property of the American Ores and Asbestos Company.

This property is reached readily over a new road being built by the forestry service up Cherry Creek Valley. The extent of the asbestos deposits has been demonstrated very largely by Charles F. Sloane, who has developed most of the asbestos ground thus far located and who has lately started development of still another property, about twenty miles north of the Raybestos ground and also near the Cherry Creek road.

The Miami Copper Company is completing a headframe and hoist at its new shaft, No. 5. The Van Dyke at Miami is sinking its new shaft, the contract being for 1300 feet, and expects to pass through the ore body and into the schist below. The Gibson is operating its concentrator on three shifts, milling dump ores only. Castle Dome is drilling its sixth churn drill hole. The Iron Cap is to begin soon on the construction of a concentrator and has started work already on an electrical transmission line. Chalcopyrite, running from 5 to 16 per cent. copper, has been cut on the 480 level of the Arizona-Globe.

STATE HOLDS OIL LEAD.

BY ARTHUR RICHARD HINTON.

Geological survey figures of oil production and consumption throughout the United States and the data of imports and exports during August show that unless Texas tremendously increases its output or some other new field of enormous extent—not now in sight—is brought in, there will soon not be enough oil for actual needs.

Mexican imports may stop the present drain of stocks, but the outlook for any such immediate increase is not bright.

When I was in Texas last July the talk of over-production failed to impress me as anything dangerous. Temporary shortage of transportation there may be, but with the market consuming 139,225 barrels of crude domestic from storage and 123,659 of Mexican imports, a total of 272,884 barrels daily, as it did during August, the big marketing companies are going to build transportation facilities regardless of cost.

During August Texas continued to trail behind California in production. The total daily Texas output, including that of the Gulf Coast, exclusive of the small coast field in Louisiana, was 277,000; that of California, 283,452.

It is now almost certain that California will occupy first place this year among the States as a producer of oil with Texas second and Oklahoma third.

Here is the daily average production of the country by States or districts for August: Appalachian, 75,806 barrels; Lima, Ind., 9871; Illinois, 23,548; Oklahoma-Kansas, 230,322; Central and North Texas, 217,097; North Louisiana, 41,484; Gulf Coast, 65,935; Rocky Mountains, 24,806; California, 283,452; total, 1,096,323. These figures show an increase for the country as compared with July of only 15,000 barrels daily, and as compared with August, 1918, of 107,775 barrels.

To refineries and other consumers there was delivered during August, 1919, 27,827,000 barrels of domestic crude, or a daily average of 1,220,548, an increase over July of 325,971 daily. Consumption was at a low ebb during July and the production exceeded deliveries to consumers by 196,646 barrels daily.

MUCH ORE ON HAND.

Florence-Goldfield Development Goes Ahead with Alacrity.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

GOLDFIELD (Nev.) Oct. 17.—The Florence-Goldfield Company has arranged for treatment of its ore at the enlarged mill of the Goldfield Development Company and taken under lease promising areas from the C. O. D., and Red Hills-Florence Company, according to General Manager F. Somer Schmidt. The company is also vigorously developing a part of the Combination mine leased from the Goldfield Development.

Since passing into the control of L. E. Whicher and associates of New York, the Florence-Goldfield has been operated on a scale surpassing anything attempted in many years. Leasing companies have been granted choice blocks of ground at numerous points in the proven ore-bearing area, and royalties from lessees have placed a substantial fund in the treasury of the company. Manager Schmidt states it is the policy of the company to encourage lessees and that additional ground will probably be thrown open in the near future.

Development of the north half of the Florence from the 380-foot workings of the Combination mine by the Goldfield Development Company is meeting with success, and approximately 250,000 tons of excellent ore are ready for shipment to the mill. All of this ore samples better than $10 per ton, with additional shoots of high-grade quartz receiving attention.

A GOOD BET AT LONG ODDS
$25.00 placed on an Oil & Gas Lease of 2½ acres before the field is proven will cash in from $5000 up for you when the first near-by well hits. This is quick action—90 days will tell the story.
I own the lease on 640 acres located 15 miles southwest of Benjamin, Knox county, Texas. Five big companies are now drilling in this field. A telegram registering a "hit" by any one of them means four figures per acre for your lease.

RARE MINERALS METALLURGY CHEMISTRY.

You are politely requested to submit samples, carefully wrapped and tagged, with letter accompanying stating what tests are desired. Make samples of small size. There is no necessity for big chunks. Correspondents offering matter for analysis with card, or scrap of paper, intended to show that the stuff is from Jim Jones, for instance, with no marks of identification, on samples, will, hereafter, receive no attention whatever.

Copper Present.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 1.—Q.: Calling again to the never-failing source of information: I hand you rock from Arizona for classification. Thanking you for continued favors. H.

A.: Qualitatively (wet and dry) and with the microscope, the rock carries baryte, strontium and probably dolomite. "Black Jack" (zinc sulphide or blende) shows up fairly well, with fern-like characters of what the mining boys in the hills refer to as "forest rock" (dendritic manganese.) Altered tetrahedrite (the low-grade fahlers) present, and the rock represents ore that should be easily obtained by milling to fine mesh, and further to a finish by oil concentration.

Oil Absent.

LAS VEGAS (Nev.) Oct. 1.—Q.: Under separate cover I am sending you two samples to be analyzed for oil. D.

A.: No. 1 is a red, ochreous, and calcareous shale. No. 2 is silicious and calcareous shale.

Nickel Not Detected.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 1.—Q.: I am handing you a sample of ore supposed to contain nickel and cobalt. Please give me your opinion on that, and if the reaction shows more than a trace. Should like to know what the rock shows under the microscope. It is a sedimentary rock undoubtedly, but is it made from volcanic ashes or not? It was sent to me and said to be from Clark county, Nevada. "X."

A.: The sample consists of two varieties. Five of the specimens are of cellular, and in part, botryoidal characteristics. Cobalt is sparingly present with arsenic. The remaining five samples are somewhat shale-like, but under the microscope orthoclase (porphyritic) "cubes" appear, with some tufaceous matter. A variety of wad shows up sparingly, with a few pseudomorphs (fenced as it were, in squares of blackish hue) of probably, and formerly, mispickel.

Asphaltic Nodules.

SILVER CITY (N. M.) Oct. 2.—Q.: Herein please find two nodules of what? This occurs about eleven miles southwest from this city. "M. D."

A.: The samples are of more than ordinary interest for mineral cabinets, college collections, and so forth.

Gypsum.

NIPOMA, Oct. 3.—Q.: I am sending you a sample of white rock under separate cover, and will thank you very much for a report on same. R.

A.: The sample could be referred to as lime sulphate and correctly so from a chemical point of view.

Pearl-spar is usually a lime carbonate in rhombohedrons, and it is also found native in the rhombohedral crystallizations of dolomite with curved faces and a shining, pearly luster. Dolomite is a lime-magnesia carbonate. Your sample while pearly in luster is, in the greater percentage, "satin-spar," a fibrous variety of gypsum. The sample represents mineral that is too fragile for cutting into ornamental curios, and is not of value for that grade of satin-spar often resembling the gem "cat's eye." The name satin-spar covers a fibrous variety of Aragonite (lime carbonate) also. Your sample represents mineral that probably would burn into a good grade of "plaster of Paris."

Available Potash Traces.

SAN JACINTO, Oct. 2.—Q.: Please test for potash and oblige. Sample comes from near Corona. T.

Fahlers.

ISABELLA, Oct. 2.—Q.: I am sending under separate cover two samples of ore, which I would appreciate an analysis of and reported in the usual column. Thanking you. C.

A.: Sample No. 1 is that variety of tetrahedrite known as fahlerz, but it is not the high grade "gray copper" known to the mining boys. It is a penalty bearing ore at the smelters. The sample is partly cleavage is imperfect octahedral, and in color between steel gray and iron black. Of metallic luster, brittle, and, in fracture fine-grained. Copper traces in the ore. Sulphur, antimony, zinc, iron, and arsenic, all crystalized in tetrahedrons; its more or less present, and not tested for lead or silevr. No. 2 as a fahlerz, high in arsenic percentage.

Six Samples.

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 4.—Q.: I am sending you two samples of ore from Glorietta, N. M. Please let me know what they contain. Thanking you for past favors. G.

A.: Sample 41B is a very much altered garnetyte containing quite a per cent. of mica, and if this mica could be profitably separated from the rock it could be used for certain spangle work, and probably as a so-called "gold-paint." Iron present in the rock. Specimen 5-C consists of six samples—all of blackish hue and color. The small sample is pyroxene. Three others are of hornblende, and the long-bladed crystals in the remaining specimens are of altered tourmaline. (schorl.)

Kieselguhr.

LONE PINE, Oct. 5.—Q.: I am sending you under separate cover some samples of what I think is kaolin. Will you kindly analyze and classify the mineral for me, and if possible advise if there is a market value for same; what it is, and if of good grade. Can you inform me as to the largest users of kaolin? This is from an old subscriber. "J. S. W."

A.: The sample is not kaolin. It is chiefly infusorial earth (a variety of silica) or diatomaceous earth. Some little aluminum silicate in the specimens with traces of quartz (silicon dioxide.) We do not know who to refer you to on kaolin, in California

Ochreous Calcite.

SAWTELLE, Oct. 5.—Q.: Please test sample. It comes from desert, California. MRS. S.

A.: Zinc-lead in low percentages and not tested for silver.

Conglomerate.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 5.—Q.: Under separate cover I am submitting a sample to you for qualitative analysis. A sample of this rock upon being roasted in a blacksmith forge and then panned yielded several particles of a silver-white metal. One or two of these were elongated, and resembled small pieces of silver wire. I have had two assays for gold and silver made from this rock, but with negative results. Can you tell me in your column the identity of this metal? What should I have this ore assayed for? T.

A.: The rock carries magnesium-lime silicate; iron oxides; traces of pistachio-green epidote; traces of stibnite (antimony sulphide) in part zeolitic, and strontium absent. Very often, in the forms, with mineral on point of shovel, an iron flux is obtained, from like samples, which act, in results, as by you described. The rock is of doubtful commercial value.

Carbonate and Silicate.

SANTA SUSANA, Oct. 6.—Q.: Please inform me what the sample consists of, and has it commercial value? T.

A.: The sample is of two distinct varieties of mineral substances, and one of them is fair-grade strontium carbonate (strontianite.) The other specimen is a waxy, hydrous silicate of magnesia, chiefly, with dendritic manganese present as coating and otherwise. The strontianite might, and should be of commercial value, but this mineral appears to be in but little demand in the Far West, and suffice it to say that California has many ledges and deposits of strontianite.

Three Samples.

YUMA (Ariz.) Oct. 6.—Q.: No. 1—"Any tungsten?" Tungsten not present; the sample is the rock, gabbro, with hornblende throughout the specimen. No. 2—"Any graphite?" Graphite absent; it is fine-grained hematite (micaceous iron.) No. 3—"Zinc?" Zinc not present, the specimen is silky halotrichite (a variety of iron alum) and it is the base used in the manufacture of certain inks.

Mixtures.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 6.—Q.: Kindly give the writer of this letter information regarding the inclosed samples; they come from adjoining claims near Watson, Utah. D.

A.: The sample in typewriter-ribbon box carries silica with aluminum silicate, and traces of nitro-calcite in the mass. Lime and soda carbonates more or less present. Quantitative analyses called for to complete the make-up of such mineral. The other sample in pasteboard container is crude asphalt chiefly, and not tested for other hydrocarbons.

Three Others.

LOMPOC, Oct. 6.—Q.: Please test the samples. Oblige. S.

A.: No. 1 is typical (and a rare specimen of) aragonite from a seam or veinlet of approximately one-fourth of an inch in thickness. It is strictly a variety of pearl spar, and can be utilized by gem cutters as a substitute for the mineral known as "Cat's Eye." In chemistry the sample is but lime carbonate. No. 2 is one other variety of aragonite, it often occurs in iron ore formations, and it is known as flos ferri or flowers of iron.

Hornblende.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 7.—Q.: This is what? S.

A.: It is chiefly hornblende, and there are traces of tourmaline (schorl) in the rock. Microscopical pyrite sparingly present.

Silicates.

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Oct. 7.Q.: I send you in another inclosure a white substance which appears in large quantity apparently in a tipped-up, stratified metamorphous bed. Would it make good polishing material? What is it, and has it any value? It has a slight saline taste. Send me bill for investigation. M.

A.: No bill to you. The Times "pays the freight" as it were. The sample is not fuller's earth. It falls to powder quickly in water, however, and it is not collyrite. It is not halloysite, and carries no zinc. Strontium absent. The specimen is a fair-grade of mineral-carrying kaolin, some bentonite (a clay that swells immensely in water;) quartz present, and the saline content is but a trace of sulphate detected in qualitative analysis. Doubtful polishing material.

Fahlers and Hematite.

CHLORIDE (Ariz.) Aug. 24.—Q.: Will you please analyze the two samples of ore. There is quite a dispute over the rocks and different people have different opinions as to its name. Some say that No. 1 is pitchblende, and others call it sulphide ore. No. 2 also puzzles people; some call it graphite, others say it is molybdenum, or vanadium. I will thank you for any information you can give me. Thanking you for past favors. MRS. H.

A.: No. 1 sample is not radioactive, and it is not pitchblende. It can be referred to as "sulphide ore" but it is the penalty-bearing ore of the smelters. It is a variety of tetrahedrite (Fahlerz,) but in no way the valuable tetrahedrite known as "gray copper" by the mining boys in the hills. The sample carries sulphur, zinc, copper, antimony, iron and arsenic, all of the named elements in greater or lesser percentages. The copper content is, approximately, 1.50 per cent. When the sample is powdered and placed in nitric acid, it is decomposed, and gives a green solution. No. 2 carries no molybdenum or vanadium; it very much resembles, at sight, certain varieties of cinnabar, but mercury is absent, and as a matter of fact it does contain a low per cent. of flake graphite. Further analysis on this No. 2 proves it to be a smooth (greasy feel) variety of hematite known as micaceous iron, in very finely divided forms, and including in spots that brilliant-red hematite known as "Indian war paint."

Hydrocarbons.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 24.—Q.: Samples Nos. 1 and 2 for classification, please. H. G.

Calamine Present.

LAS VEGAS (Nev.) Sept. 1.—Q.: This rock comes from the Goodsprings mining district. Does it contain anything more than iron? E.

A.: The sample carries limonite (hydrous iron peroxide) with some reddish yellow crystals of calamine (zinc carbonate) as coating, and sparingly contained throughout the mass of the specimen.

Silica.

SANTA MONICA, Sept. 30.—Q.: Being a reader of The Times I presume you will be kind to inform through your column in paper what the inclosed sample is composed of? Thanking you in anticipation. W.

A.: The specimen is rather low-grade diatomaceous (infusorial) earth. Composition (approximate) silica 77 per cent. Water 15 per cent. Aluminum silicate present with low per cent. iron. Other matter not determined.

Silicates.

IBIS, Sept. 10.—Q.: Enclosed find two pieces of rock; one brown, and the other, gray. Will you please tell me if the brown rock contains anything of value. G. G.

A.: There is no free gold in either sample. The brown, mottled, sample is jasper, carrying, here and there, microscopical pyrite and somewhat resembling gold. Whether or not this sample carries gold in the pyrite can best be known by having a fire assay made on similar rock. The gray sample is igneous rock; in part pearlite, with more or less opaline silica.

"STALE" WILLS
Every time we print an advertisement like this, a dozen or so men wake up, look up the "perfectly good Wills" they had drawn—ten, fifteen, twenty years ago—in other states, or under laws long since repealed or amended, or under conditions that have changed.
And they usually find that the Will is not only "stale"—it is DEAD. Wouldn't be of any avail at all if offered for probate.

KINEMA HAS WINNER.

REX BEACH'S "GIRL FROM OUTSIDE" IS CHORMING.

By Grace Kingsley.

Usually when I see advertised, "a thrilling story of the frozen north," I groan inwardly. I say to myself: I know what it's going to be. It's going to show a young man "going out to reform in the great clean West, consisting for the most part of a dance hall," as Harry Leon Wilson said recently in an article on pictures. Also there's going to be a ruined half-breed girl, very beautiful, who will ultimately die in the snow; they always wait for the snow to come 'round to do it, just as, when being made love to previous to being ruined, they always stand where the sun can shine through their hair. I don't see why they don't wait, these half-breed Indian girls, until summer is over, before they show themselves around where the wicked white men are, white men having to wait for summer to be able to make love, apparently. There will be the stolen claim and a mine they don't have to do anything to except pick the gold right off the ground and the walls. And there's the great red-blooded fight, with the hero usually saving himself all he can, and going down just too easily for anything. And, of course, there's the miner's daughter, dressed in a natty little tam and a fur coat, who can easily walk twenty miles through the blinding snow to find her lover, and does, too, goes straight to him, though previously she hadn't the slightest idea where he was. With lots of far-offs and close-ups of mountains and lakes and things. And that's all. And you think—Oh, if Charlie Chaplin or Doug. Fairbanks or Fatty Arbuckle would only make a Klondike comedy!

But Rex Beach's stories are different. And so is Reginald Barker's direction. The latest film play which these famous Gold Dust Twins of picturedom have turned out, and which has all the charm of the mysterious north added to a story, which is fresh, human, humorous, poignant to the last degree, is "The Girl from the Outside," at the Kinema. Its theme concerns a girl whose father dies and is buried at sea—a graphic bit, that burying—on the way to Alaska, and who lands at Nome, where the Curly Kid, one of a gang of five young crooks, his better self appealed to by her helpless innocence, takes her under his protection, with the remainder of the gang establishing themselves as knights in her behalf. There are scores of incidents and touches that make for convincingness in this apparently rather too romantic tale, three of which incidents at opposite ends of the emotional gamut stand out as gems. One of these scenes is a comedy incident in which, the little girl being prescribed fresh milk every day at the end of an illness, and the boys being by this time reformed in Nome, "inve the cow to visit and unwilling to steal the only cow them by trailing hay along in front of her and dragging her into the house, where difficulties of milking provide some more comedy. Another scene will make you cry, along with the girl, or I miss my guess. And occurs at the end when the Curly Kid passes in his checks, and says to her, "Don't feel sorry, I gave you the only thing I never stole." The third scene is the tragic bit of the killing of the Jim Denton by the imperturbable Chinese.

Reginald Barker keeps always in the swift-moving, fresh, dramatic key set by Mr. Beach; and the acting is sincere, natural, convincing, with characterizations clean-cut. This applies especially to the work of Cullen Landis, as the Curly Kid; to Clara Horton, who reveals herself surprisingly as a really finely sympathetic and talented little actress; to Hal Cooley, who gives a cameo-like portrait of the bouyant-spirited, happy-go-lucky, generous, reckless, but all right at heart young fellow, one of the numerous venturesome, youths who went north in the early days to do battle against the great and eternal odds. Other parts equally finely done, but of less importance, are those played by Sydney Ainsworth, Colin Kenny, Walter McNamara, Ernest Spencer, Wilton Taylor, Louie Cheung, Bert Sprotte and Billie Bennett.

Here is northern drama, ingenious and human, and not depending on sunsets and scenery for its charm. In fact, I don't believe there is much scenery.

"BONDS OF LOVE" IS THE LURE AT CLUNE'S.

I consider Pauline Frederick to be one of the three greatest emotional actresses of the screen, and therefore should like to see her always fitted with great stories. This, I suppose, is impossible, and I suppose one should be grateful for a story as absorbing as Louis Sherwin's "The Bonds of Love," at Clune's Broadway this week. "Bonds of Love" has as its poignant theme the protection of a first wife's honor by a second wife, and it has its great moment. That is when the husband discovers that the first wife, in whom he has always had implicit faith, planned up to the moment of her death, to go away with her lover, and that the second wife, who has been accused by him, has in reality been meeting the former wife's lover in order to get back that wife's letters. That's exactly the thing any decent, generous-minded woman would do. But, I wonder if on finding the half-burned letter of his former wife, the husband wouldn't stop to consider the handwriting, and I wonder also if he would have so quickly taken fire at the accusation against his wife of a man known to be a rogue? These seem to be the weak points. However, under stress of passion, who knows how a man may act? After all, the playwright has all sorts of latitude when it comes to betting on what a human being will do under pressure of emotion.

Miss Frederick's power of portraying intense feeling, her never-failing dramatic intelligence, her finely-tuned artistic sense, which seems always to convey exactly the right shade of feeling in keenly convincing manner, is brought to bear on the role of the second wife in a fashion to do credit to herself and to Reginald Barker, her director, and the other roles, especially that played by little Frankie Lee, who seems to have an instinctive feeling for drama nothing short of marvelous in so young a child, are all well done. Percy Standing, Betty Schade, Leslie Stuart, Charles Clary and Kate Lester do credit to their respective roles.

"The Girl from Outside", at the Kinema

Clara Horton,

PALACE SNARES YOU "IN HONOR'S WEB."

"Honor's Web" certainly was a very intricate affair, as revealed in Percy Vekroff's story at the Palace this week. And it's also an intriguing web. You couldn't possibly leave until you find out who really did murder Foster. Though, at that, I think the effect would have been heightened had suspicion been at first cast on the real murderer, and then taken off from him. As it is, when you do find out who killed Cock Robin, as it were, you don't care a fig, because the person who did it isn't—but there, I shan't tell you another thing.

Suffice it, the story is an ingenious one, with suspicion lighting first on one person and then on another. And it is an absorbing story, too, inasmuch as a really human interest is planted in the first two reels, when the hero, Frank Powell, takes it upon himself to save Irene Carson from a foolish elopement. The bit about the murder being indicated as having taken place at 2 o'clock, a bullet shattering the clock at that precise moment, is an ingenious twist. Likewise there's a new and saving twist given to the old stuff about the man who is willing to go to the gallows rather than betray a silly woman's whim. But I won't tell you about this. You must see it for yourself. By the by, the light and airy fashion in which they sentence hitherto honorable and spotless men, men of high influence and reputation in their community, to the gallows on circumstantial evidence alone is one of those unaccountable feats which belongs only to the movies.

An old favorite appears to good advantage in this picture, viz.: Myrtle Stedman, who is ideally cast as the inevitable self-sacrificing young woman who says at the very last of the trial, "He was in my room, so I know he didn't commit the murder." Harry Morey is always strong and convincing, and the other roles are more than acceptably done.

KEENAN GIVES FINE CHARACTER ROLE.

Frank Keenan gives us a chance to view him in inimitable make-up and charaterization this week in "Gates of Brass" at the Victory. Mr. Keenan is a master at both of these histrionic attainments, and his portrayal in the present play is very much out of the ordinary. He appears as an easy-Dawson sort of swindler, whose career begins with the shell game at county fairs, and ends with big land promotions.

The conflict in the story comes with the daughter's gaining knowledge of his method of accumulating fortune. When she finds out that he has double-crossed a large number of land buyers, she leaves his home, and marries the son of a man who had lost his fortune in one of her father's enterprises. The ending of the story is tragic, for the daughter reaches home to find her father dead.

The character of the girl's parent is one that you cannot dislike even despite his slippery morals. This is due largely to the subtlety of Mr. Keenan's style. He makes the type entirely human—a typically good-hearted crooked dealer, who in the end meets his deserts while endeavoring to bring cheer to his fellow-man.

"Gates of Brass" while it may seem a trifle disappointing in its unhappy climax, is a play which deserves attention for not wavering from what is a natural ending. It is woven with few weak threads, and has both humor and humanness to light its progress.

DRAMA.

A PLEASANT COMEDY.

GOOD PERFORMANCE IS "BILLETED" AT THE MAJESTIC.

A play may oftentimes be a play by virtue of its clever lines and ingenious situations. Such a one is "Billeted," which opened last night at the Majestic Theater, as one of the most delightful bits of dramatic entertainment offered by the Wilkes stock company since its opening a few months ago. Although this comedy of war times is not exactly new to local theatergoers, as it was presented by Margaret Anglin at the Mason, the public will have an opportunity of making its acquaintance in a stock production, which is more than creditable to all concerned.

The plot of "Billeted" revolves around a man who is thought to be dead, but who in reality lives in the flesh. By a strange concourse of circumstances he comes to the home of his wife as one seeking a lodging for the night. You can easily imagine what complications ensue, and said complications are all that you imagine them to be, in view of the fact that the man is of the genus he-vamp, and the wife is capable of jealousy on occasion. The whole theme is treated, however, in the most engaging comedy vein. The audience is taken into the confidence of the characters so that they are in their confidence right from the start. This intimate note contributes very largely to the entertainment, which is derived from a very attractive presentation of the comedy by F. Tennyson Jesse and H. M. Harwood.

Apparently the recent engagement of Lewis Stone for the motion pictures has had little to do with the local appreciation of the advent of an additional stock company. The Majestic players were again greeted by a gratifying attendance which filled every corner of the house last night. The pleasure of the audience over the present production was amply evidenced in the applause and the laughter which manifested itself in approval of the lines of the play, the delicately lined satire of the story, and the presentation by those appearing in the piece.

It is a matter of regret that Evelyn Varden cannot ban the actressy quality from her work, as she is in most respects such a splendid leading woman. She appears to know the stage in the sense of experience. In the present play she fully realizes the character of Betty, the role played by Miss Anglin, without gaining that note of spontaneity which would place her in the forefront among stock actresses—a position which, after all, few have attained.

Ruth Renick renewed the impression of naturalness she created on her first appearance. She brings a wholesome cheer to every role—is one of the best ingenues Los Angeles has enjoyed in many days.

Let me say a word for Will Lloyd in the role of Capt. Peter Rymill. He comes so near actually achieving the attributes and style of a leading man last night, that it makes one actually anxious to see how far he can go in interpretation. He appeared last week in a comparatively small part, and carried that out successfully. This week he actually gets away with a very large role, and conveys the feeling of actually being suited to it. This may be due to the type of character, but he was completely satisfying in his presentation. You will thoroughly enjoy him as Capt. Rymill.

Full credit to John H. Elliott—who proved his capabilities last week—for a thoroughly convincing Col. Preedy. He is an excellent actor. Others who deserve mention are Forrest Seabury, George C. Pearce and Marie Curtis.

Miss Willamene Wilkes has revealed herself as a stage director of sensibility and taste, since she assumed charged of the productions at the Majestic.

Farce at Mason.

Mark Swan's farce, "She Walked in Her Sleep," produced by George Broadhurst, in association with A. S. Stern & Co., will be seen at the Mason, beginning tonight, with Miss Norton and Paul Nicholson. It played for four months in New York, at the Play House, and only recently concluded a run of ten weeks at the Princess Theater, Chicago. Its presentation here will be made with a cast including Eugene Desmond, Paul Nicholson, Norman Houston, A. Deen Cole, John Maurice Sullivan, Teresa Dale, Agnes Jepson, Francis Williams, Miss Norton and Margaret Phillippi.

LEWIS WINS OUT IN NEW FEATURE.

Mitchell Lewis has long been a sort of allegorical figure typifying sacrifice on the picture screen. There have been few stories in which the ending was obviously happy for the heroes he portrays. An exception, however, is "Faith of the Strong" which is on view this week at the Alhambra Theater. While it appears as if the heroine's hand was to be transferred to another for a time during the play, Lewis finally wins out. As usual it is through the bigness of heart that he displays in the role of the Canuck voyageur.

"Faith of the Strong" is laid in the familiar locale of the Northwest. The story is well centralized about the character of the girl who is wronged, and whom Lewis saves from the man who deceives her. The ordinary idea of the plot theme is lightened by the introduction of a whimsical little personage in the person of Babette, a waif of the great open spaces, who proves the means to the solution of the story—namely the death of the other girl's husband who has led her to believe that their marriage was a fiction. A novelty is introduced in the climax in that a dog proves the instrument of fate in settling the destiny of the villain—simultaneously saving Babette.

Mitchell Lewis, as usual, reveals himself as thoroughly acquainted with the demands of a part such as he portrays. He will probably remain the original true-to-type "habitant" of the Northwest in film history. Patricia Palmer gives one the impression of Nazimova. "Brat" in her Babette. She is vivacious and delightful in this type of role. Frank Whitson and Gloria Peyton are others in the cast.
